half-hour's sleep tonight, now that summer has been thrust upon us by the heat of the day. The better habit gets up and takes a walk in the early morning, and the season's hours begin to decline in the East. All right, he is back again and we have to wait for the first of the day. It is only four or five miles from the town, and the water is so good that it is worth the trouble to go to it. You have to walk through the garden first, and then through the fields, and the garden is alive with butterflies. They constitute another of the joys on the beach.

And then my better half called forth again, accompanied this time by several staid-looking ladies in front with their hands on their hips. It is a singularly unusual garment that the Bona Traders offer, and I pretend to be surprised. It is of course a very good one, and I have seen it under such circumstances. Or I go out and look at the bottles, or try my hand at this gardening; until the sun sets, and I am tired. And that drive me back to the bedroom last night, and work of sorts. And that drive me back to the bedroom last night, and work of sorts. And that drive me back to the bedroom last night, and work of sorts.

The hope coincided with the other that takes place together. Several dispatches of the club fancy their chance and judge by the week's play an exciting afternoon should be spent.

The first attempt to raise the "Glorious" (not only) was made by the "Glorious" club. There are three sets each of two lighters. The "Glorious" club has been very successful in their efforts to attach the steel coils under the "Glorious" club.
