EDUCATION

What E. Africa May Learn From S. Africa

AN URGENT NEED

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

There is one thing more than anything that is vital to our country as it is the education of the children.

In this connection there may be a few things that are being said in the United States of Africa, so that the people of East Africa may be brought to a knowledge of the great mistakes which the authorities here have made in underestimating the needs of the children.

There is not the slightest doubt that when on the whole the quality of the primary education given to children in South Africa compares very well with that of East Africa. This is explained by the fact that the small population scattered over vast rural areas, the extreme conservatism of the people, and by the ill-legal representation of the country. But where children are established in the country and towns the schools are so well equipped that it is not surprising to find that the best teachers, and the best equipment, and the best results are to be found in the largest towns and cities.

The result is that the children of the better educated parents, half-bred and many of the best teachers, and the best equipment, and the best results are to be found in the largest towns and cities.

ture not thorough and practical scholars, with an ingrained habit of special primary education.

In terms population, it may be said, understate and appreciate the value of the agricultural college of which have been established in the United States of Africa, and the farmers fully approve this special form of study simply because it suits their business and they know the value of this agricultural college as they direct tangible results that they can see and estimate for themselves.

The underestimation part about it is that it is this same farming class which is the stumbling block to a good course of primary education. It may be that if they could be convinced to really see the value of study at an agricultural college they would quite naturally support it with high salaries for the staff. But because it is not immediately visible to its results, it only prepares the boys' mind for the better reception of higher and practical education, the question of primary education has within its received scant attention from the farmer taxpayer. And here another lesson for East Africa suggests itself: the diligent work with progressive work.

Teachers' Qualifications.

With an improvement in teaching, a more thorough teaching in our schools and a higher educational qualification for the teachers, the result will be a great improvement in the quality of the education given to the children.

Lesson From S. Africa.

As a thorough grounding in primary education has been the glory of South Africa, and her sons have gone forth and conquered a myriad of them, no other schooler than the one who has received this kind of education, and the results of it are the attributes of increasing the habit of self-education. One would like to see the South African tradition introduced and established in South Africa, for the best worldly knowledge that can be obtained is to be found in the best of the teachers.

RAL SIR EDWARD NORTHEY IN LONDON

Satisfactory Colonial Office Negotiations on Exchange and Currency

COMMISSION WITH CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

STANDARD SPECIAL

From Our Own Correspondent

London, Jan. 15.

His Excellency Major General Sir Edward Northey, Governor of East Africa, attended a meeting of the East Africa of the London Chamber of Commerce by special invitation in order to discuss with the members some of the more important matters at present being debated.

On the outset of his remarks, Sir Edward Northey intimated that he intended returning to East Africa after he had seen Lord Cromer on the latter's return from Egypt. Sir Edward said he hoped to be able to open the new Legislative Council with its 100 official members.

He then discussed the matter of the handling of cargo at the port of Mombasa. He stated that the harbour scheme put forward by the Chamber of Commerce had been dropped, although he still believed that a Port Authority was essential.

He then discussed the matter of the O. S. (Overseas) scheme published in the Standard Special. He stated that the Government was not prepared to give the Government power to fix the prices of Commodities. His Excellency stated that he was the first to be heard of it, but these proposals had been published as cook-books for criticism. He stated that it was some way off becoming law.

SOMALI OFFICER SETTLER'S STORY

K.A.R. Officer Murdered on Dana River... Jubaland Affray... Information has been received at Headquarters to the effect that on January 11, a serious fighting broke out in a Somali station belonging to the 5th King's African Rifles which was stationed on the Dana River in Northern Jubaland.

It is regretted that the Officer Commanding the 5th King's African Rifles, Mr. D. Smith, was murdered by the Somalis.

The Flatoon consisted of 44 men, the majority of whom are stated to have deserted and fled north, presumably with the intention of returning to their homes which are situated in Northern Somaliland.

It is believed that the desertion was due to the fact that the men were not paid for some time, and that they were dissatisfied with the conditions of their service.
