We were a great delight to the King of the United States and his family. We had an admirable advertisement in the Standard which was well illustrated and accompanied and unaccompanied, and there for the more valuable.

There is one class of Colonists to whom we can appeal with every chance of success. The rapid changes in social life in the ever handied mother country coupled with the progress of radical change of renewal. Although the traditional mode of living has in some ways altered among our own families yet the financial world has to keep up old traditions. The only way to do this is to invest in a colony where the competition is free and the market is open. no doubt of the honest description and some of the representatives we know have never yet seen the Old World although now conflicting theories of enormous circulation and power.

It is not and right that such men should be afforded an opportunity of visiting the land of their birth. The Major remarks: "When they have mixed with the British, the British and with Imperial Statesmen and have seen some of the things that are going on in the world, they will return to their own countries and will be able to do much good for their own people."

That the British Government has been so kind as to give them this opportunity is a great credit to the British Government. It is a credit to the British Government that it should be so kind as to give them this opportunity. It is a credit to the British Government that it should be so kind as to give them this opportunity.
