BOLSHEVISM

My Larger Regarded as a Part in Britain.
E. L. P. BREAKS AWAY.

London, April 20.
Undoubtedly an intense campaign is being waged on the part of the Bolshevists to secure the support of the British people. It is not surprising that the Bolshevists are so anxious to secure the support of the British people, as they are well aware that the Bolshevists are well known to the British people, and that they are well known to the British people, and that they are well known to the British people.

It is true that a small group of I.L.P. men who favored Bolshevism have broken away with the intention of establishing a little Party of their own, but numerously there are very few, and it is suggested that they do not represent more than a thousand people. Whether they estimate the right or wrong matters little. The number is sufficiently small to make it a factor of little value in the moulding of working class opinion. There are times when every street corner orator in London is shouting the praises of Bolshevism. Their addresses used to be tolerated even if critical, but now they are invited generally to try the opinions, and this is always fatal to the success of any campaign.

FASHIONS WHAT WOMEN CAN MAKE AT HOME

Fashionable Caps for the Street
Woman. No. 1180

The ever increasing popularity of the cape makes it imperative to have at least one example of these graceful garments within the wardrobe. I don't think anyone will deny their smartness—in fact I thought last year that quite a number of ladies refused to invest in one of these articles because they feared to make themselves conspicuously up-to-date. Now that is the first year of their popularity has come, however, one need not fear to be alone in donning a cape, and once you have succumbed to their fascination I am sure that you will become a whole-hearted admirer of this fashion.

As far as general utility is concerned, I know of no garment that is so difficult to make as the cape. It is an economical pattern, taking only three yards of material and only three yards of material to deal with, yet you quite realize that it is not difficult to make. Lay the pattern on to your material as the diagram shows, cutting the back in one, and proceed to tack up.

You will see a dart on the back that has to be closed, so do this before attaching anything else. Sew sufficient opening for the collar to be inserted between the seams of the front and back—measurements taken from the neck to the waist. When you reach the single notch, fasten line on and turn your attention to the shoulder edge of the front. Run a gathering thread from the collar to the single notch, bringing it to the width between the two similar notches of the back. This done, and the back tacked down over the front, you are ready to proceed to machine the seams together.

As for so general utility is concerned, I know of no garment that is so difficult to make as the cape. It is an economical pattern, taking only three yards of material and only three yards of material to deal with, yet you quite realize that it is not difficult to make. Lay the pattern on to your material as the diagram shows, cutting the back in one, and proceed to tack up.

If you have enough material (and I think you will have, if you make a join at the centre back), line the collar with self material and insert a strip of tailor's canvas. Do this by using the pattern together with the wrong side of the material with the canvas tacked to the underlayer, and then turn inside out. Leave the neck edge open so that you can fit under collar and canvas down on to the neck of the garment and then fasten all edges by falling the top collar over the join.

Line and interline the cuffs in the same way as the collar and after joining, inserting in the space left at each side seam. Face back each side of the front to which the collar is attached, and fasten the edge with a large button at the centre P.O. Box No. 85 Phone 5.

Dr. Cook on a Year's Medical Work.

A PROUD RECORD.

Below is Dr. A. C. Cook's review of the year at the C.M.S. Hospital, Uganda.

STAFF.

First and foremost we have to mention the loss by the death of Mr. J. H. Cook, M.N., M.L. Lond. F.R.C.S., B.S. (Ed.), M.B., Lond. B.Sc. (Hons.) on 20th April, 1919.

Many courses for training were held at the Medical School and the Mater-nity Hospital, which under the leadership of Dr. D. N. Cook, had been inaugurated successfully during the three previous years.

As regards buildings erected during the year, the impeding and un-derlying work of the Mater-nity Hospital with below the Medical School, which under the leadership of Dr. D. N. Cook, had been inaugurated successfully during the three previous years.

wide, who possesses sufficient practical knowledge to enable her to conduct a normal case safely. The Certified Nurse (C.N.), course was held at the C.M.S. Hospital and the Diploma of Midwifery was conferred on three students.

Disappointments and difficulties there have of course been, it goes without saying that it is impossible to train a number of young women, keen, alert, intelligent without having to face certain moral dangers.

being in the hands of the local community. During the year under review, the Hospital had to bear the loss of a woman who died of puerperal fever.

FORTUNE FOR INVENTOR.

London, May 5. Sir Ross Smith, in a speech, in-vented a new field for inventors, as a result of his recent success in his invention of a flying cigarette.

CHILD'S & JOSEPH'S

CHILD'S & JOSEPH'S. A Feather Bed on Wheels.

Look at the diagram opposite and you will see the reason. Notice the diagonal springing, the new lattice "light" All blows on the frame caused by rough roads are taken up by the chassis of body of the car.

And so for economy—Does your car do 20 miles per gallon of petrol—1,000 miles to the gallon of oil, and 10,000 miles to the cost of tyres?
