submit that it is a serious reflection on our standard, and a strange commentary on our intelligence. In the midst of circumstances so straitened and so difficult as our present we make no determined project to make our own standard object to free ourselves from the shackles of the greatest handicap which our progress could ever be subjected to.

THE RELATIVE MIND. We fear we cannot attribute this to the prevalent opinion of the world, but to the wish of the authors of the book. What is it for the rectification of our mistakes and the amelioration of our political and economic conditions, the fact that not only in our personal affairs, but in our public life, we are so generally ignorant of our own history and our own people.

KITH BENE'S MEMORY

[FRANCIS BRETHER'S AGENCY.] Delhi, Feb. 19. The Prince of Wales today held the foundation stone of the Kith Bene building for the benefit of his Indian subjects.

A great military banquet was held by the Prince of Wales in the presence of Lord Kitchener's widow.

The Prince of Wales proposed the National Exhibition of the Peace for this morning and then a patriotic game party given by the Indian Army Officers at the Delhi Club in the afternoon and was largely the property of the Indian Princes in the evening.

A wonderful sight was presented by the banquet given by the Indian Princes last night to the Prince of Wales.

The Maharaja of Benares proposing the Prince of Wales to health drink on the perfect identity of aims and ideals between the houses of the Indian Princes and the Imperial House of Windsor.

The Prince of Wales, regarding the British Empire as the basis of the world's progress, thanked the Princes for their invitation to the banquet which he hoped had led to the cultivation of a fuller understanding of the history of India, and that he had enjoyed the service they had rendered during the war.

The Prince of Wales mentioned the Begum of Bhopal whose face was lighted up when he said he would be accompanied on his journey to India, and that he would be accompanied by his wife and children.

Flotsam and Jetsam

THE VOICE AND NUMBER OF THE SOUTH SEA. SOME GOOD STORIES. (Continued by Rev.)

Whether Mr. Russell set out to write a story with a moral or not is a question which is not obvious but pointed with some of the indelicacy usually associated with the name of the author.

"I will take you away to the Green of Gunga, there we will laugh and dance there you shall never be out of my arms, or every day I will be with you."

On reading the book no heart is visible and Mr. Russell leaves Miss Matilda while he searches for her.

"How long Miss Matilda craved to be taken by the hands of the man who could not see her."

"The girl who had been so long waiting for the man who could not see her."

That rather objectionable form of dancing now for a short time in the "Gaiety"...

It is suggested that a public meeting of the members of the Department of Immigration...

It was given up for lost, but shortly afterwards a man...

THE EAST AFRICAN WATER SUPPLY
Municipal Councilors Pay a Visit to Kilnya

TERRIBLE STATE OF THE RESERVOIR
HOW THE RAILWAY LOOKS AFTER THE TOWN

For many months the members of the Municipal Council have been complaining about the state of the water supply in Kilnya. The water is not only of a poor quality, but it is also of a very poor quantity.

The members of the Council have been visiting the reservoir to see the state of the water supply. They found that the water was very dirty and that the reservoir was in a terrible state.

The members of the Council have been discussing the matter and have decided to take action. They have decided to send a delegation to the Government to see that the water supply is improved.

A PREVIOUS VISIT

CAUSES OF CONTAMINATION

There were two main causes. One was that the water was not filtered. The other was that the water was not protected from contamination.
