LIPTON'S TEA

Request for Four Years Meritorious

Paris, June 1. It is reported from Berlin that a contract has been concluded between the German and British Governments for the supply of tea to the British Army in the East Indies. The contract is for a period of four years, and the tea to be supplied is to be of the highest quality. The British Government has agreed to purchase 100,000 tons of tea annually, and the price to be paid is to be fixed by a committee of experts. The contract is a very important one, as it shows the confidence of the British Government in the quality of the tea produced in the East Indies.

THE GOVERNOR'S HOUSE.

Expenditure of $54,000 at Dar-es-Salaam.

IS THERE A BALANCE?

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

London, May 7.

In the House of Commons, on Monday, Mr. Campbell-Bannerman informed Mr. Keir, that, with reference to the expenditure on the Governor's House at Dar-es-Salaam, it had been estimated at £54,000, and that the actual expenditure had been £50,000.

THE KING'S BIRTHDAY.

Levee Held at Government House.

IMPERVISE CEREMONY.

General Manager of Railways Invited.

On the occasion of the birthday of His Majesty King George V., the usual levee was held by His Excellency the Acting Governor at the Government House, when a large number of the leading members of the community were present. The ceremony was held in the afternoon, and was attended by His Majesty's representatives in the colony.

UGANDA NOTES.

SPLENDID EXHIBITIONS OF THE CODE.

SATURDAY'S MATCH.

The match between the Nairobi and the Kampala teams was a very interesting one. The Nairobi team played a very strong game, and the Kampala team played a very weak one. The Nairobi team won the match by a large margin.

Mr. J. H. Simpson. Is there a balance? Mr. Campbell-Bannerman: I believe not. The balance sheet of the Government House at Dar-es-Salaam has been audited, and it has been found that the actual expenditure has been £50,000, which is £4,000 less than the estimated expenditure of £54,000.

MIS-STATEMENTS REFUTED.
The following letter was published in the Manchester Guardian on May 29th. It is a reprint of a letter which I have lived in the last 26 years. It was shown a letter published in the Manchester Guardian of April 26, signed by Mr. H. H. K. and Mr. H. H. K. in view with a retired official of the Government. It is a mis-statement in both most of its statements. It is a mis-statement in both most of its statements. It is a mis-statement in both most of its statements.

It is stated by Dr. Norman Levy that "No African is allowed to own an acre." This is true only so far that there is no individual tenure of land in the African lands, but there are vast tracts of land reserved for the African, and held by him on a communal basis. The area of these lands is over 35 million acres, and in some parts of the richest land in the country. The Masai Reserve comprises over 10 million acres, and allows 200 acres per head. This is chiefly stock land. The Kikuyu Reserve comprises nearly 7½ million acres, and is chiefly arable land, and works out at 30 acres per head. Other tribes have similar reserves, proportionately. No European owns land in these reserves, and they are entirely in the disposal of native Africans for whatever class of farming they like.

Obligatory Labor.
"Dr. Levy states that the African is 'obliged to work for the European employer.' This is not true. The African is not obliged to work for the European employer. The African is not obliged to work for the European employer. The African is not obliged to work for the European employer.

KENNEL NOTES.

Reversion and Atavism Continued.

(By Messrs. Coombs)
Miss Collyer does not hold her opinion of the offspring of the above dam of ete. being so unusual generally because the family generally, especially of the ones who are it is computed that at least six generations are necessary to secure reasonably uniformity in this matter.

There was a good number of people who were very interested in dogs and who go in for a certain amount of breeding, who have not the slightest idea of the value of scientific breeding, or the law of inheritance.

Many possess a good looking black and they desire to have a quality which please the eye, and which the popular crowd takes over as, in the majority of cases, disappointed with them, the reason being because they do not, or will not, understand that the characteristics of animals, and of characters of man or his progeny, are hereditary, rather than those of their immediate parents.

To understand this line of heredity, an animal must be regarded as such from the offspring of its ancestors, not of its parents alone.

According to the law of an animal, the total heritage of the offspring is derived as follows: The two parents between them contribute on the average, half of each individual, each of them contributing one quarter of it. The four grand-parents contribute between them one-quarter, or each of them one-eighth, or each of the sixteen great-grandparents half of the average, one-sixteenth, each of them will contribute one-fourteenth part, or six sixteenth, i. e., 1/24000 part. A good specimen of a dog, or a particularly useful from poor parents, but such an animal generally because the family generally, especially of the ones who are it is computed that at least six generations are necessary to secure reasonably uniformity in this matter.

Would be broader of the best dogs out there, read, mark, track, from the above statistics. We now begin to understand to take a mental picture in Kenya (at least in the case of those who are not conversant with it), since I started writing Kenel Notes, I have been constantly surprised to find that there are far more people interested in the dog than I had anticipated. Our Kenel Club is as well in its infancy, but there is no reason why the best blood progenies of the country should not be able to put down its own show-dogs, which would be fit to compete with the best in England.

Because of breeding from faulty stock, there have been positive up-bows almost some of the breeds in England became crossed dogs who have got their blood. They have become the worst breed ever bred from continually, and these chaps had failed that they reproduced in the majority of their young stock.

If you will forgive me, I am going to give some of more instances of this. A while back, from one of the biggest kennels in England—I do not mention his or his owner's name, as they are both too well known. He came out as "The Palace" show went right through the class and caused a sensation, at that show he once refused 3000 guineas for his dog. He continued his fame over and twice took the 50 guinea Challenge Cup for the best wire dog or smooth.

I knew this dog well, not only on the Continent, but in England, and several times he spent a week in my stable. The day after that show he was getting away from me, and I was down at the gate over his return to training, and I was very disappointed to very poor thing in this. A wonderful fat head, and a faultless form, a good show dog. But he had two faults: one was a white patch on his forehead, which was a serious defect, and the other was a very loose head, which was a serious defect. He was once over-looked, which gave me a curious idea of the way in which the show-judges were working. But he was a year-overlooked, which gave me a curious idea of the way in which the show-judges were working. But he was a year-overlooked, which gave me a curious idea of the way in which the show-judges were working.

Another in the case of Irish terriers when the first "Champion, Lord Middleton," was the grand-dog of that old "Middleton" was the one that started the breed and crossed with the Irish terrier, which had become the worst breed ever bred from continually, and these chaps had failed that they reproduced in the majority of their young stock.

Agave the judge made a stand and all of the Irish terriers were very carefully examined: But just before this dog had done an infinite amount of harm to the breed in general.

In the Dublin Exhibition of 1885, a certain dog named "The Duke" was the best of the breed, and it was a very fine specimen. It was a very fine specimen, and it was a very fine specimen. It was a very fine specimen, and it was a very fine specimen. It was a very fine specimen, and it was a very fine specimen. It was a very fine specimen, and it was a very fine specimen.

ing's" dog. All through this there was one object in view, and that was to show that the dog was a good specimen of the breed, and that it was a very fine specimen. It was a very fine specimen, and it was a very fine specimen. It was a very fine specimen, and it was a very fine specimen. It was a very fine specimen, and it was a very fine specimen.

My advice is to pay for what they rather get a dog for what they get, and not the animal will be treated accordingly.

The members of our Kenel Club must cultivate conscientious interest, and be steady and properly to work, and show the products from their kennels in proper condition and fitly put down. We can only hope to do a dog really well in five or six minutes, it takes some a full day to do it, and one who means a great deal of patient labor. It may be our aim and end, and to do this we must have been content, and we shall soon pull the reins up to the dog, and the dog will be pulled. We have only to look back and think of the horses and ponies that we have bred, and we can see that we are a long way from it, and we can see that we are a long way from it.

book up, which we have done for several years now. I should just love to see my dog at the show, and I should just love to see my dog at the show. I should just love to see my dog at the show, and I should just love to see my dog at the show.

KENNEL NOTES

The Art of Showing Dogs Well

SHOW IN JULY. BY HENRY COLLETT. The art of showing dogs well is a matter of detail...

There is considerable art in it. It not only takes a good dog to show, but it takes a good man...

All morning dogs should be shown in strong working condition. Poodles, Spaniels, Retrievers, etc.

Also dogs that are systematically handled and never given their freedom get better than those...

Get a piece of dog liver, or something you label him very much on your hands. It will lead him into a place with him...

What the English K.C. allows a magnificent specimen of the dog days I do not know...

It is not only that the judge should be a good judge in that there is not the dog and not judge the animal...

At Midland I entered her, thinking she might show in a few days...

It is not only that the judge should be a good judge in that there is not the dog and not judge the animal...

I have heard a great deal of non-sense about the judge...

I believe I am right in stating that the earlier other hounds were shown by the present day animal...

I was writing and having finished at a late hour for a night...

TRADE AND THE WEATHER
 (P.O. Box 100, Kampala, Uganda.)
 The month of Kampala June 5. At last and everyone has noticed that the sun is shining brightly. On Saturday his Excellency the Governor arrived in Kampala and on the following day he went to the College of the St. K. K. School, accompanied by the late translation of Bishop's Honors.

Overseas the records of the unveiling of the War Memorial, which was held at the Government House, were the German, who was proceeded with.

ALL BRIDGES DESTROYED.
 Much as the Uganda people rejoice at the news of the capture of Kampala, they are worried by the prospect of the destruction of the bridges over the Nile. The main lines were carried away during the night of the 14th inst. The bridges were destroyed by the British troops, who were ordered to destroy them to prevent the Germans from using them.

RUBBER BELTING FOR POWER TRANSMISSION

During the past few years many numbers of engineers and power plant superintendents throughout the world have testified to the superiority of Rubber Belting over other materials.

When the cost of installing belting begins to run rapidly a few years ago, these men, who perhaps had seriously considered the possibilities of Rubber Belting, were astonished to learn by practical test that under most conditions a good quality of Rubber Belting furnishes better service, grade and life, than belts of other materials.

It was found that Rubber Belting more effectively withstands conditions of intense heat or cold, and of extreme moisture or contact with acids.

A well made Rubber Belting possesses great flexibility than leather belt of similar thickness. It is more pliable and more elastic than leather, and will stretch under strain without permanent set. It is more resistant to wear and tear than leather, and will last longer in service. It is more resistant to fire than leather, and will burn without melting. It is more resistant to oil and grease than leather, and will not become brittle. It is more resistant to dirt and dust than leather, and will not become stiff. It is more resistant to vibration than leather, and will not become noisy. It is more resistant to noise than leather, and will not become annoying. It is more resistant to noise than leather, and will not become annoying.

The extensive line of Rubber Belting manufactured by the United States Rubber Company affords the right type and quality of Rubber Transmission Belting for every purpose, from the smallest to the largest, through efficiency and minimum operating cost.

We would greatly appreciate the opportunity of showing you what Rubber Belting means in practical results in your plant.

CASTILLON

Superior Old Brandy
This Brandy is distilled from Pure Grape Wine in the Distillery Cognac.

OLD BRANDY made from pure wine—according to highest French authorities—does not only store late and sustain the nervous system but does also stimulate cardiac energy. Caution, however, in THE Brandy for the Tropics and especially for the altitude the Kenya where high fevers, nervous breakdowns, and not to say the least, pulmonary diseases prevail.

To be had from
