A BRAZILIAN EXPERT AMONG THE COFFEE PLANTERS. Mr. Villares' Views. EXCELLENT GENERAL METHODS BUT NO REAL SCIENCE. Kenya's Climate Praised. GOVERNMENT EXPERIMENTAL STATIONS USED AS A NECESSITY.

World Conference Proposed. "THE STANDARD" IS BUCAL.

Mr. J. Dumont Villares, a coffee grower in the little State of Sao Paulo, Brazil, and a nephew of the late Emperor, has just returned from his visit to Kenya. He has been invited by the British Government to examine the coffee plantations in Kenya and to report on the possibilities of growing coffee in the world's supply of 100,000 bags of coffee per annum, so that Mr. Villares' opinion from a country which is to have something to say in the world's coffee supply is of great importance.

The photograph of the capital appearing in the Standard today, is the result of the success of coffee. In ten years the town has doubled its population. In Sao Paulo the Brazilian Government controls the export trade and themselves buy huge quantities of the crop to keep up the price.
