WEMBLEY, PROPOSED FOR THE YEAR WHEN ALL GETS

(From Our Own Correspondent)
London, April 23.
Wembley opened today, or at least as much of it as was open, and the result was a very disappointing one. There never was any doubt that it would be a success, but the public display attached to the Exhibition, which was quite the most important feature, was not so great as had been expected.

It will be about 100 feet when the Exhibition is open, and it is not likely to be a success. There never was any doubt that it would be a success, but the public display attached to the Exhibition, which was quite the most important feature, was not so great as had been expected.
