Memorandum Times & Uganda Agency

THURSDAY, JUNE 13, 1924.

AN IMPERIAL LOSS.

The announcement that General Smith, the Premier of the Union of South Africa, has been unseated by the general election, will be received with a measure of surprise and with a considerable amount of perturbation and anxiety. It would be difficult to imagine a South African Parliament without the Association of General Smith. It is probable that the first of the election results to come through should be that announcing the rejection of the man who will get only 40 down in the Union of South Africa in one of the most important elections of the world since the General Election of 1918. The fact has however been looked upon as a parliamentary setback, not as a political disaster. The fact is, however, that the election of Mr. Smuts, the Premier of the Union of South Africa, is a political disaster of the first order. It is a disaster because it is a disaster to the Empire. It is a disaster because it is a disaster to the Commonwealth. It is a disaster because it is a disaster to the world. It is a disaster because it is a disaster to the future. It is a disaster because it is a disaster to the present. It is a disaster because it is a disaster to the past. It is a disaster because it is a disaster to the future. It is a disaster because it is a disaster to the present. It is a disaster because it is a disaster to the past.

we only, he might, not of course... The fact is, however, that the election of Mr. Smuts, the Premier of the Union of South Africa, is a political disaster of the first order. It is a disaster because it is a disaster to the Empire. It is a disaster because it is a disaster to the Commonwealth. It is a disaster because it is a disaster to the world. It is a disaster because it is a disaster to the future. It is a disaster because it is a disaster to the present. It is a disaster because it is a disaster to the past.

BURUNDI & FLOWERS

An account of great interest to Uganda and Burundians may be found in the "Daily Nation" of May 20th and 21st. The Marriage of Princess Catherine, Daughter of the King of Sweden, to Prince Louis, Duke of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha, was celebrated in the presence of many distinguished guests at the Royal Palace of Stockholm on the 20th of May.

In connection with Government representatives, the marriage took place at H. H. M. Consulate in Kampala and was attended by the British and other officials of the Uganda Protectorate. The Church of Scotland, Uganda, was represented by the Rev. Mr. J. J.
Cotton, who officiated at the ceremony.

The bride's dress was of white satin crepe embroidered in silver, and she wore a beautiful veil of Irish lace 200 yards (40) her only accessory was a certain French diamond of blue enamel set with diamonds, her by a friend for the occasion.

Three little bridesmaids dressed in white and other young ladies in bright, gay, and fashionable dresses.

The marriage service was celebrated by Canon O. K. Barker, Vicar of the Cathedral of Uganda,
and was officiated by the Rev.
Canon J. J. Cotton, who officiated
at the ceremony. The address was given by the Rev. Canon J. J. Cotton,
Vicar of the Cathedral of Uganda,
and was officiated by the Rev.
Canon J. J. Cotton, who officiated
at the ceremony. The address was given by the Rev. Canon J. J. Cotton,
Vicar of the Cathedral of Uganda,
and was officiated by the Rev.
Canon J. J. Cotton, who officiated
at the ceremony.

The bride's travelling dress was a deep maroon, and she wore with a small hat to match.
They were seated with two bridesmaids and one on either side through the aisle.

The Address.
In the course of the address, Mr. J. J. Cotton said: "We trust that you will find our wedding to have been only for your happiness and that you will find that you may be able to give to the world the best of yourselves."

EVEREST.

Mount Everest remains a conquest among the expeditions that have been launched for the greater good of human civilization. It is a task of knowledge and of the modern methods of mountaineering, the world's handiwork of Nature makes no appeal to the man who has the spirit of the conqueror. DR HORACE STYATT AND TANGANYIKA

Local Attack in View of His Return

JUDICIAL REFORMATION

It is assumed that just before leaving the London of Tanganyika there appears to be a certain amount of opposition to his re-employment there, which only the Colonial Office is to decide. The Colonial Office is to be asked to consider the matter, the Colonial Office is to be asked to consider the matter, the Colonial Office is to be asked to consider the matter.

Official circles are not surprised that they are not permitted to express publicly their views, and they are not. We have to be content with the Colonial Office's view of the opinion of the public. The Colonial Office is to be asked to consider the matter, the Colonial Office is to be asked to consider the matter, the Colonial Office is to be asked to consider the matter.

The local bar has had a shattering blow. The local bar has had a shattering blow. The local bar has had a shattering blow. The local bar has had a shattering blow. The local bar has had a shattering blow.

There has been a complete agreement of opinion between officials, the local bar, and the public. There has been a complete agreement of opinion between officials, the local bar, and the public. There has been a complete agreement of opinion between officials, the local bar, and the public.
