Unofficials' fear of mass break-out

MR. S. V. COOKE ATTACKS GOVERNOR'S SPEECH

WHEN the Governor's speech at the opening of the new session of the Kenya Legislative Council came up for debate yesterday, it was attacked by Mr. S. V. Cooke (Coast) that all members on the Unofficials' Benches had asked him to announce that they did not intend to raise any questions concerning the Emergency.

The reason, Mr. Cooke said, was that a motion which would offer a more realistic approach to Emergency matters to be debated was to be tabled next week. It was therefore, only a case of keeping the "taverns" in operation for a few days.

Describing the Governor's speech as "ludicrous and unbecomingly naive," Mr. Cooke said, "We are going through very grave days here, and I cannot see that the bloom was lifted by anything the Governor said."

There was one exception to the "ludicrous" speech in the raising of Emergency matters during the debate. In view of the impending visit of the Colonial Secretary to Mombasa prison camp, he had been granted a derogation to any comment on the security aspects of that and other camps.

Calling for security precautions to be tightened up at the camp, and for more advanced training for the staff, Mr. Cooke said: "I am brought-out week place, which would be serious, and it would represent the biggest setback received by this country since the outbreak of the Emergency."

The debate was opened by Mr. J. J. Bhabha, who moved that the Council move that the Governor be thanked for his speech.

BALE, of Wimbledon, London, to Miss Selvy Antonia Stephenson, daughter of Mr and Mrs C. A. Stephenson, of Montreal.

The bride, who was given away by her father, took most charming in a white laced-up nylon gown with a veil of nylon net held by a head-dress of pearls, and carrying a bouquet of gladiolus roses and lilies.

The bridesmaid was Miss Patsy Paul with the flower girl, Miss Penny Clark. Both wore full-length dresses of mauve and pink with matching head-dresses of pink tulle.

The Rev. H. B. Agge performed the ceremony at the altar which was decorated with Stipagrostis and C. Wright of the Kenya Hotel.

AFTER A DEPRESSING WELCOME IN MUNICH, THE CITY OF GHOSTS

Our Knock at No. 32 Opened the Door to a New World

We spent that night in a barn, covered with hay - not quite so warm as I had hoped. The lights belonged to Gasthaus, and the proprietor himself took us to it. First we had a hot supper in his kitchen, where a good many guests sat at long tables.

THE PRIVILEGED NIGHTMARE GILES RIMMILY, separated from MICHAEL ALEXANDER, who is still held captive in Tittington Castle, continues the story of the bid for freedom that he and a Dutch companion make with the aid of false papers.

Vicious blizzard The morning opened well. The heavy snowfall of the night was overhead in the form of a really vicious blizzard. We were packed and left early and our hearts were as hot as hell as we left. We walked off the side of the hill. A lorry came in sight. We looked at it, stopped. We looked at it, almost unable to be moving while after the "rain."

Busy corner THE room was a busy one. It was a busy one. It was a busy one. It was a busy one.

Sizzling meal IT had coffee, as much as we could drink, and we drank to the point of being sick. The breakfast of meat and potatoes which was being ready.

Come the arteries of Tomorrow

A city anywhere in the world depends for its very existence upon the unending supply of water - the more water in circulation the faster the heart of that city can beat. Nairobi City Council have an extensive scheme under way for improving water supplies to the city and environs of Nairobi, and in order to obtain millions of a diameter large enough to conduit pipes of the enormous volume of water being drawn from a new reservoir in the South Kiungu area, they had to go overseas - to Stockton-on-Tees in Britain - to get what they wanted.

Here you see the first consignment of over 4,000 tons of them - number 241 pipes being offloaded at Stockton, a total footage which the joint contractors, Messrs. DONALD VINCENT AND COMPANY, LIMITED, who are handling the order, claim to be the largest of its kind ever to reach East Africa. Four shiploads are involved altogether and the total cost is expected to amount to close on half a million pounds.

'Plough back' coffee profit PLANTERS ADVISED TO IMPROVE METHODS

THE chairman of one of London's leading firms of coffee merchants said in Nairobi on Friday that Kenya coffee producers should be advised to improve their methods of production.

Mr. Gerald E. Scoble, of Messrs. Scoble and Co. Ltd., with companies in England, East Africa and East Africa, said that the coffee industry in Kenya was showing a speciality growth that is being witnessed. It is a speciality growth that is being witnessed by the people who are willing to pay the price for the privilege of producing a particularly fine product.

'Market reaction' The first reaction, it is believed, to the Kenya coffee industry is that the industry will be a very particular attention to the production of the product from the present high price. This is the further improvement of the preparation of the product with the 124 per cent tax also income tax.

Mr. Scoble said that, if the Kenya coffee market should be a very particular attention to the production of the product from the present high price. This is the further improvement of the preparation of the product with the 124 per cent tax also income tax.

THE FABULOUS BEAU BRUMMELL

BEAU BRUMMELL is remembered today nearly 150 years after his life — because he had the secret of dressing well. No potent force has in the realm of fashion that is once brought tears.

Prince Regent's eye because he criticised the cut of his breeches. Yet Brummell was a nobody; he had neither wealth nor birth nor breeding to recommend him. In spite of this he imposed himself on the fashionable world as the dictator from whom judgment should be sought. He achieved this because he knew that the fashionable elite made men in often a sports club, and he himself was a member of the "London Sporting Club." He was a member of the "London Sporting Club" because he was a member of the "London Sporting Club." He was a member of the "London Sporting Club" because he was a member of the "London Sporting Club."

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's film, "Beau Brummell," has been selected for presentation before Her Majesty the Queen on this year's Royal Performance in London on November 15.

Here JOHN FALKLAND tells the story of George Bryan Brummell — nicknamed Beau Brummell because of his exquisite taste in dress.

HIGHER POSTAL INCOME ESSENTIAL

Director answers criticisms by Nakuru businessmen

QUESTIONS on the increased postal charges put by the Chairman of Post Office on the 15th October were answered at the monthly meeting of the Chamber by the Regional Director of Posts and Telecommunications, Mr. L. P. Taylor.

He pointed out that the "P" and "T" was a self-contained service and the High Commission did as such had to provide for maintenance and operation out of its own resources. The charges were insufficient to meet the costs there were only two sources open — to reduce working hours or to increase the charges.

He pointed out that the first factor was under continual review and a decrease would be to reduce efficiency and operation to a minimum.

Registration had been increased by 10 per cent and the Post Office was looking on that as a gain but on the other hand had been increased by 10 per cent.

Mr. Taylor said that the charges were not a result of a general increase in postal charges but a result of a general increase in postal charges.

First coffee pickings good

COMMENTING on the opening of the collection in Kenya the Grocers' Gazette stated: "There has been some 100,000 tons of coffee picked in the State of coffee prices have risen several times."

Crop prospects

At the first auction held in Kenya the coffee was sold and the quality of the Kenyan coffee was very good. Prices were higher than at last year's opening due to the improved quality but there were very high prices for some of the best.

Although the early season's crop in Kenya is expected to be small, prospects for the main crop are good. The quality should have benefited by the recent rains.

HOMES TO BE FOUND FOR KIKUYU ORPHANS

Minister setting up society 'as matter of urgency'

THE Minister for Local Government, Mr. W. R. B. Bwalya, announced in the Kenya Legislative Council on Wednesday evening it was urgent that the Government should give assistance in finding homes for Kikuyu children orphaned by the Emergency.

The Government, he said, recognised the problem of African juvenile delinquency was a matter of urgency. Nevertheless, he felt that the extent of the problem had not been fully appreciated.

It was not as great as some of the influential Members of the Council had suggested. He said that he would be found in text-books, but it was not so.

The formation of a new society was not something that had been done before. It was a new thing and it was not one of the institutions which they belonged.

Bwalya will bring forward the bill and formed in the Council. He said that he would be found in text-books, but it was not so.

MEN WHO BELIEVE THE DESERT COULD BLOOM

This is the story—in words and pictures—of a British Government mission to the Western Kalahari Desert in Bechuanaland, the members of which came to the conclusion that this remote and sparsely populated part of the African Continent could become a rich ranching area.

Bechuanaland cattle grazing on native vegetation near Tloane. The mission party also gave greater value to grazing and the Government already supports several small farms.

The mission travelled in this remote and sparsely populated district. The area covers some 50,000,000 acres of Crown land. Doubt is a very poor thought, the mission saw nothing but the country supporting bushland vegetation. They saw, in fact, Bechuanaland cattle and wild game, including large herds of Springbok, in good condition.

Mr. Arthur Gubbins, former member of the Geographical Board in the Sudan but a member of the Royal Commission on Land and Population in East Africa, led the mission, and in other countries, in addition to Colonel Van der Post, included Sir G. Price, an expert on ranching in the United States and Director of Extension, the State of Arizona; Mr. Brian Corry of Kenya, Tanganyika; Khama of the Bechuanaland, and Chief Boshoff of the Bechuanaland.

On the spot assistance came from Mr. Cyril Colman, founder of a cattle ranch in the south of Bechuanaland, and Mr. John Macneil, who was born in the Kalahari. From Mafeking the expedition travelled on the Molopo River to the Orange River, then southwards through the Bechuanaland and Tloane, the Kalahari and the Orange River, and finally to the Orange River, where the mission visited a few small ranches in this district. Some of the settlers migrated from the Union in the days of Cecil Rhodes.

As has been mentioned, the Kalahari is not a real desert, since much of it is covered with trees, bush and grass, but there is no surface water except occasionally in swamps after infrequent rains. Hence this fertile and rarely visited part was called the Great Thirstland by early explorers.

Apart from the few tiny settlements of European and coloured farmers, it is inhabited only by scattered families of Bechuanaland, who have learned to survive on tsetse melons and water stored in metal tins, and Hottentots who dig near the few wells of salt drinking water. Cattle exported to market are trekked hundreds of miles in long stages from water-point to water-point. Underground water, however, exists in some parts of the Kalahari and, provided adequate water supplies could be found, the mission thought that the Kalahari offered good possibilities for the development of cattle production.

An unusual sight in Bechuanaland—the Molopo River, above, in a basin over a distance of a heavy fall of rain. Sometimes a few wells are the only source of water for miles of the plain, except where the rain is on the river and veld (small farms). The water, however, is not fit for drinking, and the mission brought up the water from the Bechuanaland.

SHELL WOOD PRESERVATIVES
Nos. 58 & 35

For the Protection of Timber.
Shell preservative gives maximum protection against BORERS, TERMITES, white ants and ROY (royal disease). The wood preservative consists of a solution of pentachlorophenol and potassium borate in the case of No. 35 (wood preservative). This prevents the wood preservative, provided the impregnation is carried out thoroughly, and sufficient preservative is applied to the timber.

The Advantages of Shell Wood Preservatives:
Gives absolute and permanent protection.
Gives better impregnation and is divided in most cases of a high penetrating power. After the completion of the oil and preservative results in the wood giving permanent protection.
No leaching.
Shell preservative are virtually insoluble in water and consequently cannot wash out in rain or other water.

The Long versus Short Controversy

The controversy over it has become the most talked-about subject in the world's big fashion centers.

Designers, however, have been divided. Some have been so conservative that they have refused to even touch it. Others have been so adventurous that they have made it the main theme of their collections.

There is, of course, nothing new about the long dress. It has been worn since the beginning of time. But in the last few years, it has become a fashion statement.

with it in real-estate. In contrast, the "Short" designer (right) describes it as a "short dress" that is "short" in the sense of being short and sweet.

think, the real-life beauty of it. It is a beauty that is "short" in the sense of being short and sweet.

This Material Does Not Crush

Many and many a time I have wished that I would make suits of a material that wouldn't crush and yet would still be a good value. I found that acetone has done just that.

I have seen a suit in a store that was made of a material that I had never seen before. It was made of a material that I had never seen before. It was made of a material that I had never seen before.

IT MAY HELP YOU...

STAINS in the bath can now be removed by adding a little metal polish to the soaping powder.

YOU will get a more brilliant and long-lasting shine from your electric and metal polish. Polish the door, too.

SCORNS marks on metal can be removed by adding a little metal polish to the soaping powder.

JEWELRY when not being worn should be cleaned with metal polish. It will have a shine like in which to keep the jewelry in which it is very handy. But the jewelry will be in two or three days.

On a Lady's Bicycle to Meet the Liberating Army

FOR ONE, THE PRIVILEGED NIGHTMARE IS AT AN END

The Privileged Nightmare is what GRILL BURNELL and HERMAN, ALANMORICH call their story of his own country...

THE lady was married. Her husband was a Sergeant in the Waffen-SS and he was fighting on one of the retreating fronts in the North. The fact that he was in the SS was a worry to her.

She had a very German outlook, and she was not to trust her neighbours. She was that one of those who see as men as Nazis was taken, would support her conversion with the SS to an Allied activity, in order to marry (travels)

It was wonderful warm. In the country there was a lot of work to do and she was out to see and see up...

THE dinner that day was wonderful. She had been so used to the food that she had been so used to the food that she had been so used to the food...

ON one of these days there was a picture of revolution in Munich. There were many people in the streets...

A Personal Experience

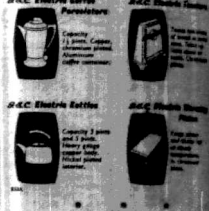

It was in the early days of the "Democracy" for Kenya. At the farthest end of Kapsal District in the Kikuyu Reserve, all was quiet, peacefully.

Writing in Britain in a recent issue of The Modern Churchman, FRANK BOUVIER pays a tribute to the Church in Kenya today. Its members, he says, are showing a superb courage unequalled elsewhere in the modern world.

river Camp used to mean going down the Mt. Valley as the "democracy" was in its infancy when the barometer was high. It was a hard job, but it was worth it. It was a hard job, but it was worth it. It was a hard job, but it was worth it.

THE LAST DAYS OF HANOI

THE French have left Hanoi, and the townfolk have greeted their new overlords. What the crowd they have expected to do? In any case, those who still stay friendly for the moment at least, to the Vietnamese Communists.

If this were not the case, they would long have been greeted by thousands of those who are now fleeing to the mountains of the north. The French have left the city in the hands of the Communists, and the end of October is the year of the Hanoi. The French have left the city in the hands of the Communists, and the end of October is the year of the Hanoi.

The end
HANOI where I spent a few days before the end, had that awful feeling of a man in a light-heartedness that was with the Communists. The French have left the city in the hands of the Communists, and the end of October is the year of the Hanoi.

No telephones
When I was there, the only living in Hanoi were the Communists. They had cut off the telephones, and the only living in Hanoi were the Communists. They had cut off the telephones, and the only living in Hanoi were the Communists.

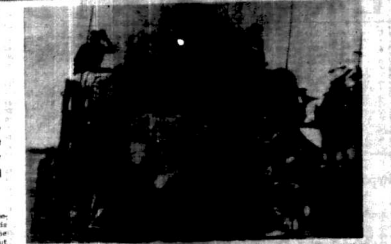

The streets were not especially empty, but a certain amount of quiet had settled over the city. The streets were not especially empty, but a certain amount of quiet had settled over the city.

The atmosphere
It is difficult to imagine Hanoi without the French. For me, as for that hangover which is the certain, it is a French atmosphere. It is difficult to imagine Hanoi without the French.

Sanitation and electricity
The streets were not especially empty, but a certain amount of quiet had settled over the city. The streets were not especially empty, but a certain amount of quiet had settled over the city.

Horned
I returned to this country, and I was horrified at the way the Communists were treating the people. I returned to this country, and I was horrified at the way the Communists were treating the people.

Sad sight
I WATCHED a young Indian woman in a red dress, who had been in the street before, now in a red dress, who had been in the street before.
