

ISRAEL ENLIES ASIN GAZA STRIP

World waits to hear from U Thant

EGYPT last night accused Israel of a "provocative act" on their tense border, claiming that an Israeli Army patrol had clashed with a Palestinian force in the Gaza Strip but had been forced to withdraw. Within hours Israel issued a denial that any patrol had even attempted to cross the border.

The Egyptian claim came as leaders moved throughout the world in further attempts to reconcile the Middle East position and prevent war. The U.N. Secretary-General, U Thant, cut short his Cairo talks by 24 hours and flew back to New York with no news of their outcome, although a U.N. spokesman there said they had been fruitful. Newspapers in Tel Aviv carried headlines reading "U Thant's mission to Cairo fails".

President Johnson flew to Canada for talks with Prime Minister Lester Pearson, who played a key role in ending the 1956 Suez war. Canada was also mainly responsible for calling the emergency session of the U.N. Security Council but the session ended inconclusively.

A few hours before President Johnson's departure from Washington, the Egyptian War Minister, Mr. Shamsuddin Badran, flew into Moscow for talks with Soviet leaders.

China yesterday stated U Thant's Secretary-General, U Thant, to announce support for Egypt and Syria. The city, in Peking's Great Hall of People, was held that U Thant had said that Israel's policy reports, Egypt and Syria, China, contrary to the usual policy, had no objection to Chinese support for the Arab side.

In Bagdad, the daily newspaper, Al-Farabi, reported that President Nasser had said the Arab side was not in favour of U Thant's mission to Cairo. The report also stated that the Arab side was not in favour of U Thant's mission to Cairo.

U Thant is reported to have urged the Arab side to get out of the Middle East. He also urged the Arab side to get out of the Middle East. He also urged the Arab side to get out of the Middle East.

The United States has also urged the Arab side to get out of the Middle East. He also urged the Arab side to get out of the Middle East. He also urged the Arab side to get out of the Middle East.

RUSSIANS REJECT 'BIG FOUR' MEETING

BRITAIN last night joined the United States in welcoming a French proposal for a "big four" conference on the crisis, but the suggestion was rejected out of hand by the Russians.

France was understood to have been thinking in terms of a meeting at foreign minister level, but the official proposal made no specific reference to the four, lines or plans of a meeting.

The Soviet Union said it would exert its influence to try to bring about a meeting in the Middle East. It also said it would exert its influence to try to bring about a meeting in the Middle East.

Although the Kremlin has been reported to have rejected the proposal, it has also been reported that the Soviet Union is still in favour of the proposal.

The immediate British objection to the proposal was that it would be a meeting of heads of State, which would be a meeting of heads of State.

The British also objected to the proposal because it would be a meeting of heads of State, which would be a meeting of heads of State.

Ban on Attwood book will not be lifted

THE ban on the book "The Reds and the Blacks" by a former U.N. Ambassador to Kenya, Mr. W. Attwood, would not be lifted, the Vice-President, Mr. Moi, told Parliament last night during a noisy debate.

Two Government Members described the ban as "forwardly" and said it should be removed. Mr. Moi said that the book was full of distortions and the Government cannot allow such a book to be sold in Kenya.

The Minister of State in the President's Office, Mr. Ryanwaga, said Mr. Attwood was one of those people who thought that the book was full of distortions and the Government cannot allow such a book to be sold in Kenya.

Scarcity of maize meal blamed on millers

Shortage in maize meal was probably caused by the fact that the millers have not been given the amount of maize which they need for their operations, according to Mr. M. J. E. O'Brien, secretary of the National Millers' Association.

He said sales of maize for the last few months had shown a marked increase over the previous year. Last month 117,000 more bags were sold than in April, 1936.

Mr. O'Brien said the shortage of maize made it impossible to report recently could only be blamed on the millers as the board had ample stocks readily available. The board would not be any further shortage of maize now, he said that since the maize and produce board started operations it had handled a bumper crop and had developed a storage and marketing facilities throughout the country.

USING RENTED STORES

Reporting on the activities of the board during the first eight months of operation, Mr. O'Brien said there had been a storage capacity of 2,468,000 bags, storage in many areas such as Kitale, Kisumu, Machakos, Mombasa and Nakuru had gone up.

The board was still using rented stores with a capacity of 278,000 bags. This gave a capacity of 2,746,000 bags in conventional stores.

Five types of sales called for by the government to help the board were: (1) to use the stores for storing surplus maize; (2) to use the stores for storing surplus maize; (3) to use the stores for storing surplus maize; (4) to use the stores for storing surplus maize; (5) to use the stores for storing surplus maize.

PLANNING TALKS HELD IN CLOSED SESSION

Mr. O'Brien said that the board had held a series of planning talks in a closed session. The talks were held in a closed session because of the sensitive nature of the information being discussed. The board had discussed the possibility of using the stores for storing surplus maize, and the possibility of using the stores for storing surplus maize.

New advertising agency formed

The new advertising agency formed by the board was intended to help the board in its advertising campaign. The agency was formed by a group of advertising professionals who had been selected by the board. The agency was intended to help the board in its advertising campaign by developing and executing advertising programs for the board.

BUILDING PLANS

The board had approved building plans for a number of new stores. The plans were approved by the board because they would help the board in its storage and marketing operations. The new stores would be built in various parts of the country, and would be used for storing surplus maize.

FROM HUMAN BEINGS TO GROUP

The Mehta Group is launching new projects in Kenya and Uganda. This page describes the growth of the group since its founder arrived in East Africa at the start of the century.

Mehta Group now employs 14,000 in East Africa

THE interests of the Mehta Group of companies, which vary from a country to thousands of acres of agricultural land in Kenya, Uganda and Tanzania, were started and developed by one man, Mr. Nanjibhai Khatim Mehta.

The Mehta Group is now headed by Mr. Mahendra N. Mehta, a Uganda M.P. who is the youngest son of the founder, and in the many concerns there are more than 14,000 employees.

Mr. N. K. Mehta, who now lives in India where he was born at Cochin in 1928. His first visit to East Africa in 1910 when he was on his way to Madagascar to join an older brother who owned a shop there.

Later he gained further trading experience in East Africa before going to Uganda, travelling by the newly opened railway to Kisumu, then the terminus of the Uganda Railway, and on to Jinja by lake steamer. His destination was Kamuli, 65 miles from Jinja.

Travel of this kind at the beginning of the century was for adventures people only. By embarking on such a risky journey, leaving his native land for a thin sliver of unknown conditions, Mr. Nanjibhai Mehta showed at an early age his determined pioneering spirit. He continued to show this determination in the following years when through hard work, foresight and zeal he started and built up the many interests and concerns which now form the Mehta Group.

On arrival in Uganda, Mr. Mehta first assisted in a shop in Kamuli and then he was appointed H. H. in a company in which he was an independent businessman in East Africa.

As the social progress in a British colony, trading in a British market, was a new concept, he soon engaged an assistant to look after and sell raw sugar on his long boat, where he was in charge of the boat and spent many weeks in the Sudan and Comoros. He was then transferred to East Africa in 1906, to be in charge of the Indian sugar trade. He was then transferred to East Africa in 1906, to be in charge of the Indian sugar trade. He was then transferred to East Africa in 1906, to be in charge of the Indian sugar trade.

Cotton factories

After the first few years he set up more sugar mills, continued the trade in cotton from 1912 to 1915, set up two cotton ginning factories, one in Kampala and the other in Mubende. He then started the building of the first cotton spinning factory in the succeeding years. He then started the building of the first cotton spinning factory in the succeeding years. He then started the building of the first cotton spinning factory in the succeeding years.

After studying sugar cultivation and Mr. Mehta decided to start a sugar plantation in East Africa. He then started the building of the first cotton spinning factory in the succeeding years. He then started the building of the first cotton spinning factory in the succeeding years. He then started the building of the first cotton spinning factory in the succeeding years.

Loading out sugarcane in the plantations near Lugazi for transport to the Uganda Sugar Company's factory.

The Mehta Group's sugar factory at Mukhosi in Western Kenya, which produces sugar for this year is estimated at about 1,000 tons. This amount will be increased again to 1,500 tons in 1977.

MAINTAINING THE FAMILY TRADITION

will provide enough jobs for Uganda and for the surrounding neighbourhood countries. The Mehta Group's expansion into other sectors, such as education and health, is also a key part of its strategy.

At present the Mehta Group is investing in various educational institutions, including schools and colleges. These investments are aimed at providing quality education and training for the next generation in East Africa.

This considerable list of interests is the work of the Mehta Group, which was established over 60 years ago, and is one of the few research studies on the work of a single family in East Africa. The Mehta Group's success is a testament to the foresight and hard work of its founder and his descendants.

The Mehta Group's expansion into other sectors, such as education and health, is also a key part of its strategy. This ensures that the group's interests are diversified and sustainable for the long term.

First-rate scale project in Kenya. The investment of £1,000,000 for the factory has been made by the Mehta Group and partly from the Government and partly from the Mehta Group. The factory will provide employment for 2000 and 1000, as well as contributing about 10,000 tons of sugar to the government's supply.

Steel venture

With the formation of the Uganda Steel and Engineering Corporation in 1965, the Mehta Group entered into the engineering industry. The new company took over the workshop attached to the Uganda Sugar Factory at Lugazi.

This has opened up new work opportunities for the Mehta Group, which now manufactures a variety of products such as sugar machinery, agricultural implements, welded steel structures, agricultural tractors and a variety of other products for industry.

In association with the Uganda Development Corporation and Mukhosi and Mukhosi (Kenya) Limited, the Mehta Group has established a factory in Jinja. This factory will produce a variety of products, including paper, for the manufacturing of multi-ply paper and other products.

It is planned to move the factory to a larger site in the near future. This will allow for the expansion of the factory's capacity and the production of a wider range of products.

At present Uganda imports about 2,000,000 worth of steel each year and it is expected that the new factory will reduce this dependence on imports.

Education has not been neglected by the Mehta Group. The picture above shows pupils and teachers outside one of its schools, organised by the group for the benefit of its employees.

EAR TO THE GROUND

with JOHN DOWNES

A NOTABLE absentee from the list of entrants in the East African Motor Sports Club's Good Friday Rally is Vic Preston. This well-known rally racing driver, who has won the East African Safari twice and was runner-up this year, is currently concentrating on preparing a Ford Lotus Cortina for the Nakuru motor race.

It is likely that the Murgari team, led by John Downes, will win the rally. The team has a strong record in the East African region.

ISRAEL MOVES TO TOUGHEN 'WAR CABINET'

ISRAEL, beleaguered on three fronts, yesterday moved to toughen its leadership and call in General Mordechai Dayan, tough commander of Israeli forces in the 1956 Sinai campaign against Egypt, as the key Defense Ministry. Other opposition leaders were thought likely to be called in to a reshuffled War Cabinet.

Additional reports said the official announcement of the reshuffle was expected after the cabinet meeting this evening. It is expected that the reshuffle will be announced by the end of the week.

Nairobi Day parade

NAIROBI DAY was celebrated throughout Kenya yesterday, and in the capital with a march-past of the three Services. Left, President Kenyatta reads his message to the nation from the reviewing stand in Kariakoo on Beech Avenue. On his right are Col. J. K. Mutiso, Deputy Commander of the Army, and Group-Captain F. Redwood, head of the Air Force.

Above, the Kenya Army Band leads the parade, while on the right the contingent of the Kenya Navy does a smart "eyes right" before the President.

Bottom right, men of the Air Force and below three Carousels lead the Air Force planes in the fly-past over the capital.

DETENTION OF 215 OFFICERS AND MEN ORDERED BY GHANA

215 officers and 215 men of the Ghana Army have been placed under protective custody, according to a National Liberation Council decree published in Accra. The officers are Lt. Col. T. O. Nyame, Maj. Alex Jaak, Capt. J. Ocran.

The decree is effective from April 17, 1967, the day of military intervention in which 215 officers and 215 men of the Ghana Army were killed.

The 215 officers and 215 men were later arrested for their part in the attempted coup. The detainees bring to about 225 the number of soldiers taken into custody since the coup started.

About 500 civilians have also been taken into custody since the coup started. They are being held in various places, including the local police arsenal.

The Chief Minister of the British-ruled island territory, Mr. Robert Hodgson, said he was not to the island to watch the proceedings.

He visited a series of buildings in Port George, where he was met by the local police.

Mr. Hodgson said the violence, which he described as a "regime change," was organized by political groups in the island.

He said he was not to the island to watch the proceedings.

THE PILL THAT ENDS PILES FAST

All haemorrhoidal research has shown that an effective remedy that cures and prevents piles must be able to remove the piles and reduce the swelling of the piles. The only medicine that does this is the PILL THAT ENDS PILES FAST. It is a powerful laxative which acts on the bowels, removing the piles and reducing the swelling. ### NOTICE

The Kenya Telephone Directory, which includes the Kenya Government Section, the Classified Trades Telephone Directory and the List of Registered Telephone Addresses, will be reprinted in the near future.

Telephone subscribers requiring amendments to their existing entries, and additional entries in alphabetical order (white pages), in the next issue of the directory should write to their Telephone Sales Office or to the Local Postmaster. Amendments required to the Kenya Government Section and List of Registered Telegraphic Addresses should be similarly advised.

The closing date for acceptance of amendments is June 20, 1967.

DIRECTOR OF A.P. AND T. ADMINISTRATION (KENYA)

was in city centre

LAST month (May) was the wettest month of 1967 inches which fell in April, 1967.

In fact the May rains had been recorded before, but this year at stations on the western outskirts of the city, where the average annual rainfall is 45 inches, about 28 inches lighter than in the year 1966. The weather in Nairobi this month was in fact the driest since 1948 to discover just what in the Water Resource Department of the City Council, Nairobi, has had a more in-depth investigation into the rainfall records of the city.

The rain gauge rainfall measurements in Kenya have started at a maximum of 100 inches in 1911. There are also records for 1912, 1913, 1914, 1915, 1916, 1917, 1918, 1919, 1920, 1921, 1922, 1923, 1924, 1925, 1926, 1927, 1928, 1929, 1930, 1931, 1932, 1933, 1934, 1935, 1936, 1937, 1938, 1939, 1940, 1941, 1942, 1943, 1944, 1945, 1946, 1947, 1948, 1949, 1950, 1951, 1952, 1953, 1954, 1955, 1956, 1957, 1958, 1959, 1960, 1961, 1962, 1963, 1964, 1965, 1966, 1967.

Major, however, has not quite so well documented, although since 1948 over 25 stations have operated in the area.

At the Water Department, Nairobi, the Water Development Department in the Industrial Area and the National Agricultural Experiment Station, Nairobi, the latter has been operating as a basis for the present survey.

Major, however, has not quite so well documented, although since 1948 over 25 stations have operated in the area.

5 FIFTY YEARS AGO

From the East African Standard, Friday, June 2, 1917

A British officer on duty with the air service in East Africa was in a state of mind that was far from cheerful when he flew from Nairobi to the region of the spot he was known to have been the port of origin. By accident he had been found that the flies were "as large as elephants" and the whole of the day was spent in the discovery of the cause of the flies, which was an overpowering fly which was very hard to get rid of within its borders.

Salvation Army strives to find a chance in life for blind telephonists

By ANN MARSHALL

A SWITCHBOARD operator is put through promptly to the Commissioner in the Salvation Army Headquarters, Nairobi. Sometimes the Commissioner is out, in which case a message is recorded and a public voice will return.

Never are they of such an amount and such these in the world as to be able to do this.

At the Salvation Army, the blind operators work the telephone switchboards. They are trained to work the telephone with equal efficiency to those who have eyesight. In fact, many of their skills are in excess of their sightless colleagues. This enables them to meet the tremendous needs of the Commissioner's office, especially in the case of emergency calls. Moments of the trouble, however, the efficiency of blind operators is especially noticeable. The problem of blind telephonists is a world-wide one. In the United States, for example, there are about 100,000 blind telephonists. In the United Kingdom, there are about 50,000. In the United States, the Salvation Army School for the Blind, near Washington, D.C., has a department for the training of blind telephonists. This department was founded in 1910, and since that time it has trained many blind telephonists for the telephone exchange.

The second school for the blind in Kenya was opened at Nairobi in March 1950. On the 1st of January 1951, there were 100 blind telephonists at the school. The school is situated in the Jooja area of Nairobi, near the Victoria Hotel. The school is run by the Salvation Army, and is under the supervision of the Commissioner. The school is open to all blind people who are able to work a telephone exchange. The school is a day school, and the pupils are trained for a period of three years. At the end of this period, the pupils are given a certificate. Some of the pupils are employed by the telephone exchange, and some are employed by other organizations. The school is a very successful one, and it has trained many blind telephonists for the telephone exchange.

New subjects needed for kids' novels

By Paul George Osofsky

THE social stratification which followed the Mau Mau rebellion and the hard task of rehabilitating the two sections of the Kikuyu tribe—those who took active part in the movement and those who aided with the colonial regime—are the main theme of Mr. Ngugi's new novel.

In this well-written and highly readable work, Mr. Ngugi reminds us of those of his tribe who, finding themselves either in the midst of the movement or assisting it, have a formidable task to re-adjust to the post-independence Kenya.

Families and relatives who took opposing parts in the rebellion have to adjust to the realities brought about by urban, forged gold grueler and make the best out of the new situation.

Mr. Ngugi also laments the rapid breakdown in the family unit resulting from the rebellion and the White Paper on land. He sees the old "African Socialism" crumbling under a new type of individualism in which everyone becomes an opportunist.

A noted British novelist and one-time Raffles Professor of English at the University of Malaya, Prof. Parkinson has written a novel, "The Law," in an anonymous style. The plot was published in The Economist, in 1957.

Prof. Parkinson expands his theory in the book of Law, for those who take the law as a rule of life, there is a false path to the bottom. He says the merry-go-round turns in the name of justice. The story is expressed with the best of good wit and perception for which Prof. Parkinson is famous.

He says that Mr. Harold Wilson's Labor Prime Minister would see a classless society as a claim and end of state aid to all professions and to all industries and to all workers in a new society.

Prof. Parkinson "would be that a bad politician or a bad lawyer is actually stupid or dead."

Prof. Parkinson is a well-known and a former lecturer at the University of Malaya. He is now a senior lecturer at the University of Malaya.

UNITY OF COINTEGRITY SHOWN BY CROWDS

Kenya's national unity was demonstrated during Madaraka Day celebrations in the Athira Stadium, Nakuru, where thousands gathered to hear the President's message, read by the Minister for Labour, Dr. Kioko...

Dr. Kioko praised the people of Rift Valley, especially those in Nakuru Town, for turning out in such large numbers to mark the fourth anniversary of Madaraka Day.

Your large numbers here today indicates that you are proud of what madaraka and uburu have brought you in this country," he said.

The Government had discovered plots by groups of people to undermine efforts to introduce African into the economy.

Progress has confounded prophets

PRESIDENT KENYATTA in his address to the nation for Madaraka Day outlined the Government's achievements since independence and said Kenya had confounded prophets who had said Africans were incapable of ruling themselves.

The occasion marked the fourth anniversary of that historic day when the people of Kenya assumed responsibility for conducting their own affairs.

The progress Kenya has made since 1963 has confounded prophets who had said Africans were incapable of ruling themselves.

There had been unity among all Kenyans in their determination to build a free and united Kenya.

But Kenya became independent these were people who prophesied that the Government would be a failure.

The progress of the past four years had confounded them. Kenya was a Republic and a free country.

There was a modern Party. The Government had achieved the freedom of African people.

Without ill-feeling and without ill-will, the people of Kenya had created a new Kenya.

Driven by jealousy, some people had tried to undermine the Government.

But the Government had stood firm and had achieved its objectives.

UGANDA LAW HEAD RETIRES

Standard Staff Reporter Kampala.
UGANDA has lost two of its senior politicians in a month, when after the resignation of Mr. A. Nkonya, formerly Minister of Agriculture, Forestry and Fisheries, at the end of April, Uganda's Attorney-General, Mr. Godfrey Binaua, Q.C., announced his resignation because of ill-health this week. Mr. Nkonya resigned for personal reasons. It is understood Mr. Binaua, who became Attorney-General in 1962, had been working under heavy pressure recently, completing details of a new Constitution which is to be presented to the National Assembly.

He took to educate women to being about a better understanding of women, agriculture, nutrition and other aspects of home economics was emphasized at a seminar in Makerere attended by delegates from many parts of Africa.

Uganda discussed the role of women in rural development, the present development of training programmes for women in agriculture and for women in economics and training for the farm family. It was agreed to set up a Food and Agriculture Organisation to give technical assistance to African governments in making such seminars, and to assist in the organization of rural living conditions. Mr. Binaua was the first African to hold the post of Attorney-General. He was elected to the post in 1962. He was in private practice in Kampala until he was appointed Attorney-General in 1962. # KENYA'S 'BIG PART' IN OLYMPIC TALKS

EAR TO THE GROUND

with JOHN DOWNES

As a result of those talks I am confident that I will be able to contribute to the development of the I.O.C. in Kenya that will enable the Committee to meet fully the needs of the Kenyan Olympic Committee.

Several African Olympic Committees have been invited to meet in London. Kenya's Olympic Committee is one of the few that have accepted the invitation. The government has also agreed to fund the team's expenses.

RELIEF ARRIVES IN KILWA

THESE pictures tell their own story. The story of suffering by 50,000 people in Tanzania when the rains did not come.

Distended bellies, protruding ribs and emaciated bodies have been seen in the Kilwa, Bagamoyo, Handeni and Rufiji areas.

A massive relief programme swung into action to combat the famine, said by elders at Njinjo to be the worst in memory.

Deaths from starvation remain uncertain. The figure is believed to be at least 16.

S.A. (London relief workers) a boy, emaciated and weak from starvation.

But this week saw the end of a mercy operation. Two deep-sea schooners arrived in the lagoon harbour of Kilwa with 250 tons of rice and beans.

Two dhows carrying food reached Mlanda after crossing the tricky shallows of the Rufiji delta.

People came from villages 20 miles away to queue at Njinjo for maize and beans to take back to their families.

Before the relief arrived, surveys showed a 14 per cent malnutrition rate.

The Government's action providing food has won praise from the Administration and people of the area.

But for the Regional Administration, said to have taken no action on pleas for aid, there has been criticism.

AFRICA AND SIX TALK OVER PROBLEMS

TECHNICAL problems dominated a one-day meeting in Brussels of the Ministerial Council of Association of the European Common Market and 18 independent African States.

No major decisions were taken at the meeting, but the discussions were wide and comprehensive. The African delegates did not make a major attack on the European Community's trade policy. The African States are known to be dissatisfied with the fact that the value of their exports to the bloc has not risen very much since their accession to the Association Convention. Technical problems dominated the agenda. African producers of vegetables and fruit support the Community's policy of importation of products from outside the Community. The Commission also agreed to a meeting on the 16-17-18 April.

The African delegates did not make a major attack on the European Community's trade policy. The African States are known to be dissatisfied with the fact that the value of their exports to the bloc has not risen very much since their accession to the Association Convention. Technical problems dominated the agenda. African producers of vegetables and fruit support the Community's policy of importation of products from outside the Community. The Commission also agreed to a meeting on the 16-17-18 April.

NATIONAL SPENDING

ESTIMATES OF EXPENDITURE in next Kenya's development programme and recurrent charges for 1967-68, amounting to KSh. 1,200 million, Government spending will be directed and, consequently, the chief lines of expansion will be in the areas of accounts to be raised by taxation, giving some guide to the type of budget which can be expected.

The total of KSh.600 million for development—almost three times greater than the outlay in 1964-65. This is a startling indication of the Government's determination to push the economy down for the coming year, despite a three-fold challenge to the national accounts. At a note with the report states, however, the development programme is fully implemented with very little reliance on the cash resources available to meet the call.

The financing provision also accounts for KSh.600 million, while the outlay for road and airport construction is KSh.500 million. The intention is to provide a network of roads and facilities for travel, by road and air, not only for Kenya's own internal traffic but for tourists visiting outlying areas where visitors are required. Among the major projects are the completion at last of the Malindi-Bombura road, and making up the Eldoret-Tropics and Athi River-Namanga roads. Soon it should be possible to drive on tarmac all the way across East Africa.

Some of the schemes will be financed on overseas aid, but Kenya is increasingly relying on its own resources. The Public Debt has doubled since 1960 to KSh.1,200 million next year from recurrent expenditure. This figure gives food for thought: not to continue depending on Government aid as possible from taxation.

Accordingly, it is notable that of the KSh.600 million to come from internal sources for development purposes, a substantial proportion will be provided by further stock issues. After the success enjoyed by recent flotations and the remainder from taxation revenue and some adjustment of existing investments.

Budget will not be harsh

When recurrent spending is considered, the first lesson is that local government authorities should emulate the Central Government. The national Budget against spending neither can local authorities income to theirs without sufficient reserves. The capacity of the public living in the councils' areas to pay the levy is there, but ready authorities have lamentable records of mismanagement and financial ineptitude. Some of the trouble may arise from the disinclination of local bodies to enforce measures considered unpopular, but there is no alternative if they are to avoid bankruptcy and provide the services the public demand.

The significant feature of the way money is being channelled is that the Government is making strenuous efforts to expand the social and welfare services, especially education (which got the highest single vote increase, in conformity with the wishes of the people, to KSh.707,000) and health (KSh.685,000). Both show that it is not purely recurrent, in the sense of maintaining its existing services, but have a considerable element of development to help satisfy future needs.

All told, the bill for internal security and defence adds up to close on KSh.150,000, with the police taking rather more than the armed forces. This is almost 20 per cent of the national spending, but is essential to preserve internal stability and protect the frontiers. Without stability the national economy cannot flourish, and there would go into unproductive activities.

Kenya has to find KSh.655,000 more than last year from revenue income. Customs, Excise and Income Tax is being well maintained. Last month a surplus of KSh.600 million was disclosed on the Government's accounts. Contrary to what is expected, KSh.250 million at the same time last year. If the general economy and expansion continue, the surplus will be obtained from existing taxation. Mr. Gichuru may well be able to give a more detailed account of his tax proposals but, on this showing, the country has no reason to expect a harsh Budget next Wednesday.

THIS beautiful island of Zanzibar, almost completely closed to visitors since the revolution of 1964, has now reopened its doors to again and law and order has been re-established.

GERANIUMS MAY BE ANSWER FOR SMALL FARMERS

Geraniums like the same sort of conditions as tea, and could be based on these two crops.
One of the producers is Mrs. Ethel Newman, who inherited a crop a year ago when her husband, Mr. Frank Newman, bought the olive farm where they now live, in Girth School Road, Limerick.
In all, 15 acres are devoted to geraniums, three to water-cress, which provides fuel for the trouble it takes, and lack of rain, makes up for that.

If a stem of the plant is picked, and a small, regular aromatic mass of the oil, which gives the plant its commercial value, is immediately squeezed. The stems and leaves are used to obtain the oil, and the flowers, which are insignificant.
The harvest is taken in the small factory, and placed in open-top drums under a cover, and is ready for sale to cosmetic firms in Europe such as London's and Goya.
High price
The cosmetics firms pay a high price for the development, which has a strong odor reminiscent of lavender. It is the oil which makes for the lovely perfume.
The oil which makes for the perfume is extracted with other aromatic oils, and is made perfume and essence bottles.
Just cannot have too much geranium oil, so for the being at any rate. They take all of Mrs. Newman's oil, and all they would get more if they had.

By MICHAEL BOYDELL

Even with 15 acres, Mrs. Newman reckons she makes £100 a year clear profit for herself any ordinary year. This is the sort of figure that should attract small farmers, as, for instance, an alternative to potatoes.
Transplanting is ridiculously easy. All that is necessary is to get a young plant, stick it in the ground and water it. It will grow. From then on it is self-propagating and even when plants die, as they occasionally do, they can be pulled up and replaced by a new one.
The crop cannot be published during very wet weather, as all the oil goes into the foot, and of course, during flowering, the flowers are almost black with oil.

The only little expense is in growing them, which can cost up to £1,000 to equip properly if wooden sheds will do for the buildings, but can be done for £200 or so in a well-ventilated house.
The crop could be produced on a co-operative system, with several small farmers, but for the time being, Mrs. Newman says she will continue to produce them on her own.
Overseas firms
Manufacturing is extremely simple as it is all in the hands of the Koryva Farm, Association, which has the contracts with overseas firms.
Although the crop is produced in southern Europe, the Koryva variety is of a high quality and in great demand. There is a very good chance of export to the United States, who geraniums will make a killing, and should quite liberally be able to talk about the Sweet Shell of Success.

Y.O.K. gets its priorities right at last

By ROGER HOWE

MIDDLE East crisis coverage on both radio and television has shown that Y.O.K. can step up its performance when the occasion demands.

Someone appears to have considered that a major strategy on the fringe of Africa, which was made into a world war, is more important than a news item on the Middle East. It is a pity that the Y.O.K. did not play a more vital role in the Arab-Israeli war.

The Arab-Israeli war has been the lead of the TV bulletins. Instead of being relegated just to an even hour story first — whether coverage of the crisis continued after the crisis ended.

On the General Service the coverage has been inadequate, but coverage has been fairly extensive. There have also been some news items from London in the Today with parts from the front and from world capitals.

Some highlights of the TV coverage include the Madakara Day coverage, which was good, except on such occasions. It was the one of the best highlights of the Madakara Day coverage, which was good, except on such occasions.

Dr. Ben-Gurion returned and proved better than ever in a powerful human tale of a man's experience leading him to betray a friend. The Today coverage setting was uncredited but the read moved on to 1925 from 1924.

Despite this, the film was a bit of a disappointment. The Today coverage setting was uncredited but the read moved on to 1925 from 1924.

On Wednesday, Y.O.K. coverage included a description of how to cook beef with mushroom sauce, which was pre-arranged for the stars.

The reintroduction of a radio and television news program and there was a planned program of interviews in this week's edition, including one in which the Nigerian High Commission did some diplomatic stonewalling. It is amazing how news always seems to occur in the most inconvenient circumstances, and all the fault of the Y.O.K.

There was also good interviewing director of the Black River, who made excellent news about the prospect of industrialization in the light of T. S. Eliot's nationalization policy and with people concerned with helping education.

For the second week running the Today discussion program was a disappointment. There have also been some news items from London in the Today with parts from the front and from world capitals.

obviously your Radio Telephone must be a STONER SSB-100 transceiver

because... It's transistorized. Most of the circuitry has been designed around a single type of silicon transistors giving operating dependability and ease of servicing.

It has saturation coverage. This single sideband transceiver gives saturation coverage of up to 2,000 miles regardless of terrain. It has low battery drain. The set operates up to three months from a car battery without recharging. The unit has been so designed that it can be easily fitted under a car dashboard or used in a base station.

THE 'FROG OPERA' AT THE BOTTOM OF THE GARDEN

In the middle of the night, Jenny awoke and saw a full moon shining through the window. She got up and looked out at the sky. "Why, it's clear!" she said to herself. "This is the first time for weeks that it hasn't been raining."

By HUNTER He had hoped the moon would be shining... and they both went to bed... "Listen to the noise!" said Jenny. "Whatever can it be?"

He looked up at the bottom of the garden... "I often hear them at night, but they don't usually make such a row as this," he said to himself.

"The frog opera is a very noisy affair," said Morris. "The song is a beautiful deep-toned croak in a beautiful rich throaty voice."

READY-TO-WEAR IS SETTING THE FASHION TREND

In France, the mass production market of ready-to-wear is now a force to be reckoned with. It can handle couture French ready-to-wear clothes as its larger watered-down copies of industrial silhouettes launched in the high-fashion salons.

In the past year, particularly in the last few months, the ready-to-wear industry has been re-created by the press of creative designers working for the ready-to-wear industry. These designers have brought the "main-body" in France and other had no intention of working in the ready-to-wear industry.

At the end of April, the ready-to-wear industry has doubled its turnover, achieving a record of 2,000 million francs (some £320 million) in 1966.

White adaptations of Yves Laurent's trouser and waistcoat suits are seen throughout the ready-to-wear designers' line with the "Duché" line, the Maurice's Military and a liberal dose of Roman

PUBLIC NOTICE

Warning of Breeding of Mosquitoes
 The district grass lands have extensive mosquito breeding areas. Pools of stagnant water have been observed in the following areas: (a) The area between the great reservoir of Isiolo and the Isiolo Reservoir, (b) The area between the Isiolo Reservoir and the Isiolo Reservoir, (c) The area between the Isiolo Reservoir and the Isiolo Reservoir. Mosquitoes were contained, and more trees and grass were planted in more than 2,000 of these containers.

Notice to house holders and owners of the unoccupied plots are being written off if they do not take necessary precautions against mosquito breeding on their property. If they do not take necessary precautions, their land may be prosecuted under Nairobi Municipality (General) By-laws.

The public is advised to fill up all excavations, tree holes and other water collecting places, to ensure that their tanks are properly screened and sealed.

Overgrown plots kept under multiple mosquito breeding areas. Such areas should be cleared and the vegetation cut down and the plots should be left down and kept free of all rubbish.

The presence of multiple mosquito breeding areas may only constitute an offence under the Nairobi Municipal Corporation (General) By-laws, Section 119 and 121, if the area is not cleared within three months of the date of the notice.
