MILK USE

Kenya is the only independent African country to have a Milk Board.

The reason is because Kenya has a modern dairy industry which is one of the few in the world which is controlled by a government body.

The Milk Board is a body which is controlled by the Government and is responsible for the production and distribution of milk in Kenya.

Secrets of Kenya's past

A YOUNG American has been found in Kenya's remote area. His remains, discovered by a British explorer, have been found in the area 5,000 years ago. In spite of the inhospitable terrain, the explorer, Dr. Robinson, believes that the young archeologist has many experiences ready for further research.

Now, however, he has run into an unexpected snag...

...of the area, it is a very remote and inhospitable one. The explorer, Dr. Robinson, has been searching for a long time in this area, and he has now found what he believes to be the remains of a young archeologist. KENYA'S attention is being largely focused, as we would expect, on the present and future, but someone should occasionally open the back door to reveal a fascinating glimpse of its past before it is too late.

But red tape may prevent the full story from being told

4-K's ROLE IN KENYA

Over hundred and fifty thousand youths will complete Standard Seven next December, and less than one-fourth of them will have an opportunity to continue their education.

In addition, thousands of unemployed youths are in the streets and the pressure is on our country's economy. There are few jobs to be had for these youths, yet some areas of land in Kenya are underutilized. Most are only partly cultivated. Most are not cultivated because of a lack of knowledge and interest in farming. They lack the knowledge of best farming methods which will make their productive farmers. Thus the emergence of 4-K projects is anticipated.

However, today rapidly expanding Kenya 4-K Club programmes are reaching thousands of youths and girls from towns, becoming better citizens. More than 20,000 farm boys and girls between the ages of 14 and 17 were being trained in the movement. Members are farming and more than 100 clubs in Kenya. The 4-K programme is spreading to the East Province of the Province of North Kenya. Plans are now being made to give the youth of Turkana, on the new Turkana, a 4-K programme. free press

The free press is the lifeblood of a democracy. It is the only way in which the people can know what their government is doing.

Without a free press, the people are in the dark. They do not know what their government is doing.

The government should not try to control the press. It should let the press do what it wants to do.

A free press is essential for a free society.

Today many paints that once passed for white are feeling off-colour

A BRILLIANT NEW WHITE PAINT MAKES ITS ARRIVAL

ROBBIALAC

BRILLIANT WHITE

An astounding new white paint is now being manufactured in East Africa, setting a new standard for brightness. Its name: Robbialac Brilliant White. Its claim: it's the whitest white paint you've ever seen!

Scientific tests in fact prove that Brilliant White is significantly brighter than other white paints. Most other white paints look off-white in comparison!

Such brightness is revolutionary. But hands-off hand with it come other advanced features:

- Complete colour-fastness. This is the one white paint that won't yellow with age.
- Greater opacity. Robbialac has the great hiding power. One coat will do what two coats of other white paints would do.
- Long life. Robbialac white does not yellow with age.

Signs of the Times

African participation in the wholesale and retail trade is a natural and proper adjunct to Independence. Everywhere throughout East Africa more and more proud signs are going up over business, large and small, proclaiming this welcome development. From ambitious large-scale co-operatives to humble village desks, every business needs financial advice and assistance. Barclays is proud of the way in which it has been able to encourage this spirit of new life into the East African economy.

Everyman brought literature within reach of all pockets

SIXTY years ago a London publisher had the vision of bringing literature to the masses. For several years, Durr had been meditating the idea of launching a pocket library of literary masterpieces. The first two volumes to be published in the new library were Boswell's Life of Samuel Johnson and the Journal of Samuel Johnson. Only four years later the 500th volume had been published, and the 1000th volume had been published in Hertfordshire. That first year in August, 1902.

WARRIOR HEROES in Elizabeth Marshall Thomas (Duckworth and Warburg, 35/-)

To what extent can a person understand and interpret a totally unfamiliar way of life? This depends on the extent to which he identifies himself with the subject. An anthropological study is obviously far more than of distant interest to the general public. It is a study of the human mind, of the human soul, of the human spirit. It is a study of the human mind, of the human soul, of the human spirit.

HOUSE APPROVES SECURITY BILL

Unanimous vote on Third Reading

A unanimous vote the Kenya House of Representatives last night passed the Third and final Reading of the Bill to amend the Constitution and the Preservation of Public Security Act to give the President power to make special regulations in the interests of public security.

Although Mr. J. M. Shikuku (Inter) and Mr. G. F. Mbooga (Embu North) opposed the Bill during the debate on the Second Reading, they did not vote against it and the Second Reading was carried unanimously with 73 votes and the Third with 74 votes in favour.

Two divisions had to be called for votes on the Second Reading as there were not sufficient Members in the House to make up the required two-thirds majority. Moving the Second Reading, the Attorney-General, Mr. Mbooga, said the Bill should reassure the loyal citizens as much as it would deter the 'devil'. 'It will be sufficient to ensure that it will not be weak. If we mean to fight, we must be strong.'

Reputation for stability
He gave an assurance that Kenya was not abandoning the rule of law. There would be no occasion when the Government could make regulations which could not be revoked by Parliament.

The Government would never wish to take a step which might be taken to crack a nut. The purpose of the law is to preserve safety and freedom, not to destroy it. Mr. Njoroge said the law of every country has to put the safety of the State first and foremost. Kenya had earned a reputation for stability and law government and he wanted to keep her reputation for both these things. No person would be more willing to deprive the people of their personal liberty than President Kenyatta.

He declared: 'Let contemplation be warned if stern measures are taken, let the responsibility lie on those who face us with the urgent duty of taking these measures.' (A full report of Mr. Njoroge's speech is in Page 2.)

The Minister for Economic Development, Mr. Shikuku, attacked the Opposition's argument that the Government was proposing to suppress the press for other countries. He said it was wrong to take precautionary measures that the Government did not propose to take.

Mr. Shikuku, who on Tuesday approved in all respects in the House of Representatives, said that he would say no more to anyone who says that he is a spy. He warned them: 'Anyone who says for this Bill is spying is running about with a tail between his legs.'

Usual fate
Mr. Mbooga said the Bill gave the President power to give orders in the name of the President of the most far-reaching nature and said he was sure that it was necessary to give the President power to make special regulations in the interests of public security. He said that the Bill would be introduced in the House of Representatives on Tuesday and that there was no doubt that it would be passed.

Hangings watched in silence

FOUR former Cabinet Ministers accused of plotting to overthrow President Mbooga went quietly to their deaths yesterday on a public scaffold in the main square of Leopoldville before the silent gaze of thousands of Congolese citizens.

The first to be hanged in the Congo State's Grand Square was Ruvenshi Kibuka, a 40-year-old Bahutu tribesman from North Katanga Province who was ousted as Prime Minister in Gen. Mobutu's coup last November.

The others were: Gen. Edmond Ruzumbwa (48), a leader of the resistance under Mr. Cyrille Adoula from 1965 to 1968; Alexander Mahamba (48), Minister of Lands under Mr. Patrice Lumumba and his other Prime Ministers from 1960 to 1962; Joseph Kasongo (45), Mr. Adoula's Defence Minister from 1962 to 1964. All four, sentenced after a summary court-martial with no evidence on Tuesday, had their hands bound behind their backs.

All walked serenely to their deaths, clad only in blue shorts with yellow stripes down the sides and red headgear. They said nothing and were believed to be gazing under their hoods. The occasion was declared a public holiday and the Government had invited all the capital's estimated 200,000 inhabitants to witness.

But only some 80,000 gathered in the vast green square, where the women and children, many wearing white headscarves and blue and white dresses, were seen in the distance.

THE Nairobi Stock Exchange continued its upward trend in another active week. The price index rose to 52.8.

There is still a shortage of scrips and such commodities as Limuru Tea, Marshalls (R.A.) Ltd and Pillsbury Harrogate and a small amount of others have been sold in the last month. However, there have been no new issues higher and higher prices.

All these factors suggest that the Nairobi Stock Exchange is still on the upswing. It is expected that the market will continue to rise in the next few weeks.

Security Bill does not foreseen the abrogation of rule of law in Kenya

KENYA was concerned that the rule of law, the cornerstone of its new constitution, would be eroded by the Security Bill which was not passed by the House of Representatives in the manner which was not foreseen by the framers of the constitution.

A recent public Commission on Kenya's new constitution in the House of Representatives was held to discuss the Security Bill which was not passed by the House of Representatives in the manner which was not foreseen by the framers of the constitution.

The Government does not wish to be misunderstood as to its determination to give the Security Bill the necessary support.

There were four main reasons why the Government should support the Security Bill. The first was that it was necessary to provide for the security of the State in the event of a state of emergency. The second was that it was necessary to provide for the security of the State in the event of a state of emergency. The third was that it was necessary to provide for the security of the State in the event of a state of emergency. The fourth was that it was necessary to provide for the security of the State in the event of a state of emergency.

EDUCATIONAL PROBLEMS are so acute as to require a special measure. THE TRUMAN B. SHAWLBY, DIRECTOR OF THE NATIONAL BOARD OF EDUCATION, has been appointed to investigate the situation. The report will be published in the near future.

CALL it a symbol for anything else. Last night, the police were called to a burglary in the city, and brought with them a police dog and his handler.

The dog tracked for 12 miles through fields and across hills before he caught up with the burglar who had fled. The dog was named "Kings" and his handler, Const. Kipkoko, was a member of the dog section.

ROBBIALAC

BRILLIANT WHITE

An astounding new white paint is now being manufactured in East Africa, setting a new standard for brightness. Its name: Robbialac Brilliant White. Its claim: it's the whitest white paint you've ever seen!

Such brightness is revolutionary. But Mind in-hand with it come other advanced features—

- Complete colour-fastness: This is the one white paint that won't yellow with age.
- Greater opacity: Robbialac White has great hiding power. One coat will cover up more than other white paints. That's because...
- Long life: Robbialac White stays white longer than other white paints.

JOHN ROBERTS
African releases

ALL the song-writers seem to be preoccupied with man's old enemy - Time - this week. Starting with Tom Jones has produced a subliminal and lavishly staged, surreal triangle entitled Once There Was A Time, which has a far superior flip side, Mr. Responsible, more typical of Tom and more appealing. This lively recording featured one of Tommy Driever, whom I last saw being booted off the stage in Bristol - all the proximity of Wales makes this an unlikely event in the career of Tom Jones.

Then there are four numbers dealing with the current time. For a blunder by Cliff Four Five 'n' an harmonious love-trip, coupled with a catchy tune and a completely unimpaired backing, all adds up to a second best lead to be an appropriate hit.

Some Black caters in on the current trend for vaguely South-American sounds, popularised by Bob Alberti, with it's Time whose lead is a handsome number called Sweet Betty, which starts with an Hawaiian flavour. Then there is what would make a perfect signature tune for a TV spy series.

Benny Lee complains she has Too Little Time - a mature rendering of a song which has little girls including Wynne Law and Shaggy are going to be the first to buy. I don't think of them, and it's flip side - where the same theme is little faster in time and Tony Adams.

A new arrival on the pop scene apparently deals with time before Olivia Newton-John reviews a pretty good album. For her it's a really sweet number, and completely dominated in the Top Ten by the hit by a thundering percussion arrangement, which for the time being has no vocal chords to be able to compete. If he wants to get on, I suggest the album's a masterpiece.

Last but not least, the Rolling Stones have composed a song Long Walk, a which is somewhat plain and not as good as any better than it. It's a good song, but it's not as good as the other hit Black. The Stones are the originality and the best of the best. They are the best group with the Stones' reputation, and enough momentum and reputation to make it roll in the charts.

Another American, Lindy Greenham, apparently surprised last week when she appeared on the charts at a number Three. She is a very good singer, and she has a very good voice. She is a very good singer, and she has a very good voice. She is a very good singer, and she has a very good voice.

INDOUBTEDLY the high spot of this week's records is the release of one of the groups High Life group. It always gets in for fancy titles like Black Beats or the Blue Beats, but this one is definitely the best.

Mr. Twiggton certainly has an excellent command, since all the tracks in the album are very good. The first track, 'Pride', that has a very good melody, and the second track, 'The Blue Beats', that has a very good melody, and the third track, 'The Blue Beats', that has a very good melody.

Mostly this track is all the best of High Life, though it is a little bit more of a group. The first track, 'Pride', that has a very good melody, and the second track, 'The Blue Beats', that has a very good melody, and the third track, 'The Blue Beats', that has a very good melody.

Some recent releases have the theme of a group. The first track, 'Pride', that has a very good melody, and the second track, 'The Blue Beats', that has a very good melody, and the third track, 'The Blue Beats', that has a very good melody.

The second of the recently released 2000 is the release of a group. The first track, 'Pride', that has a very good melody, and the second track, 'The Blue Beats', that has a very good melody, and the third track, 'The Blue Beats', that has a very good melody.

The third track, 'The Blue Beats', that has a very good melody, and the fourth track, 'The Blue Beats', that has a very good melody, and the fifth track, 'The Blue Beats', that has a very good melody.

Another interesting thing is the release of a group. The first track, 'Pride', that has a very good melody, and the second track, 'The Blue Beats', that has a very good melody, and the third track, 'The Blue Beats', that has a very good melody.

On the two tracks on the flip side, the second, the first track, 'Pride', that has a very good melody, and the second track, 'The Blue Beats', that has a very good melody, and the third track, 'The Blue Beats', that has a very good melody.

Women need to organise for strength

ALLEGATIONS that men had refused to give their wives equal treatment so that women would be in a position to participate fully in Kenya's politics have been refuted by Mrs. Grace Oryongo, the Mayor of Kisumu and the first woman to become mayor of a Kenya town.

"According to my way of thinking men have refused women the right to enter politics," said Mrs. Oryongo. "I have never known any man who refused to give his wife equal status and should organise himself in order to compete with her."

"In recent months some people have spoken at length about women's role in a developing state. Some women have gone as far as to suggest that men should be apprehensive of women's role in the National Assembly especially if women are to be elected."

"In fact there are persons who think that women have the right to enter politics. I believe there are many who think they should be given the vote. Many are men who have voting cards and are on the roll of voters."

"I women organised themselves and voted for women, they would achieve women's progress for women's equality."

Mrs. Oryongo spoke about the women's role in the national assembly which she visited last year in London.

"I as a teacher herself, the point is not that many teachers were working in the parastatals in the interests of the rising generation of Kenya. She did not deny their growing role but stressed that the Kenya Government, through its poverty fund and its other special schemes, had not yet made of the Kenya Government a women's world and was aware of women's role in the national assembly.

"Teachers had to work longer and other essential complete student's property during the evenings."

"Teachers had to teach their own children and their own children's problems about the national assembly and their own jobs, integrity and honesty in the profession, leaving it primary school."

"Many teachers were being recruited because the minimum stipend did not ensure that they were getting financially independent in order to contribute to the national assembly."

Mrs. Oryongo said that she was not in a position to tell which town lacked. She said they were needed in the towns, their work and home life would be changed. She said that she was not in a position to tell which town lacked. She said that she was not in a position to tell which town lacked.

How the skin perils

SUNBURN gets under the skin in all of its forms. It is not only the sun that causes skin perils, but also the wind, the rain, and the cold. The skin is the body's first line of defense against these elements. It is made up of several layers, and the outermost layer is the epidermis. The epidermis is made up of cells that are constantly being replaced. The cells that are on the surface are the oldest, and they are being shed at a rate of about one million per square inch every minute. The cells that are being shed are being replaced by new cells that are being produced in the basal layer of the epidermis. CONFRONTATION IN THE EAST

By Douglas Hyde (Bosley Hall, 10/18)

DOUGLAS HYDE is an Australian travel writer. He is also an acknowledged expert on Indonesia and was an active Party member until 1948. At one stage he was the news editor of the only Communist inspired daily newspaper in Britain.

Confrontation in the East is about Indonesia's "New Order" with Malaysia.

Malaya became a fully independent country in 1957. She is governed by a British monarch and a Malay Premier. The National Union of Malay States in 1948, they elected to merge themselves with Malaya, Singapore to form the Federation of Malaya.

Malaya has a population of about 10,000,000, about a third of whom are Indians. Some 100,000 spread over some 300 islands.

Helped in struggle

For decades the people of Malaya, and Indonesia and the Indonesian Communist Party helped the Federal Dutch rule which was later ousted by Sukarno and subsequently by General A. Yani (formerly Dutch New Guinea).

In 1959 Sukarno signed with the UN Treaty of Friendship with a foreign guarantee that it came as a surprise that when the creation of Malaysia was first mooted by the Malay Union.

In retrospect it is clear because Indonesia did not really want to sign with the adventure of a British guarantee. She was the removal of British rule and the return of South East Asia. Moreover, she was much concerned about the extent of internal pressures and the expansionist designs of Communist China.

THE VOLKSWAGEN 1600 VARIANT HAS ONE SERIOUS RIVAL

THE VOLKSWAGEN 1500 VARIANT

A better of 100 cc. over standard and 130 hand between the 1500 and 1600 Variant. The two should see the handle people have choosing between them.

The fact is, both models deserve the title.

Consider space (they mean they provide for a station wagon). While most station wagons are built on the chassis of a sedan, the Volkswagen Variant is built on a special chassis designed for a station wagon. This means more space for passengers and cargo.

Back to that again. If you look hard, you'll find a model all over the place. But when it comes to the Volkswagen Variant, you'll find a model that is built to last. It's built to last because it's built to last.

Two other reasons why people enjoy this happy association with Volkswagen Variant (they enjoy it) are the space and the safety. The Variant is built to last because it's built to last.

Come in and see for yourself how difficult it is to choose between the two models.

Nairobi investors show no Budget fears

THE buoyancy of the Nairobi Stock Exchange gives every indication that the average investor is paying scant attention to what the Minister of Finance may have in store on Budget day next week. Interest continues upwards and prices are now more or less back to the peak levels of the fifties. Investors seem undismayed at the lower yields now ruling.

North Sea rumours boost oil shares

ACTIVITY in oil shares was the main feature of the London Stock Market yesterday. Prices rose sharply higher on vague rumours that Britain had struck in the North Sea but, after a company delisting fell back quickly almost to overnight levels.

Shareholders were led to get firmer on a lack of selling pressure. The market was buoyant, with oil shares leading the charge. The rise in oil shares was driven by speculation that the UK had discovered oil reserves in the North Sea.

Satisfying the thirst for reading-matter

THESE are busy days of charting the progress of a developing country, Sudan in the streets of its main cities and towns as a concrete symbol of increasing investment, between imports and exports.

But there is another way of supplementing those taken over from the Literature House. Most of them have now been catalogued, a new running outfit more staff has been recruited, the equipment has also been bought in readiness for the day a full service comes back into operation. In the picture, a messenger, John Kooze, wheels some of the books on a trolley to be catalogued.

There is a tremendous eagerness for knowledge abroad among young and perhaps nearly illiterate Kenyans. NKK BUSSEZ, tells how the Kenya Government is handling the important task of providing for it.

It has gained the approval of the Trustees of the Kenya Library in the present financial position. Now he is helping to provide a model in a Kenya National Library Service which is being set up in Nairobi. The plan, drawn from the work of the East African Library Bureau which was part of the East African Commission Services Library in the past, is a national one, but it is being set up in the Kenya Government's job over that responsibility.

The service involved will be a library service which will be a national one, but it is being set up in the Kenya Government's job over that responsibility.

At the moment, there is no library service for the Kenya Government in the national sense of things in which the staff and equipment are being built up and there is a demand in Kenya for a library service which will be a national one, but it is being set up in the Kenya Government's job over that responsibility.

The whole plan is one of the services of the Kenya Government. Mr. Bussez, who is with a staff of 100, is now in Nairobi. He is in charge of the Kenya National Library Service, which is being set up in Nairobi. The plan, drawn from the work of the East African Library Bureau which was part of the East African Commission Services Library in the past, is a national one, but it is being set up in the Kenya Government's job over that responsibility.

The book purchasing service of the Literature House has been continued by a decision. Mr. John Kooze, who is with a staff of 100, is now in Nairobi. SOMETHING ROTTEN ON THE BUILDING SITE

YOU WON'T ALWAYS BE TOP
By Henry Chapman (Methuen, 7/10)

THE Methuen Playcripts series has been introduced by a book to provide a device for publishing plays which are not yet bestsellers but which are already becoming popular. You Won't Always Be Top was first published in 1971. It is written in the style of the popularizing plays written in the "Kilburn style" style.

The scope is a building site in Britain where half a dozen workmen are laboriously engaged on the construction of the new Mensajal lavatories.

The theme is that British industry and society is decreed and portrayed by the "I'm all right Jack" mentality. It provides a depressing picture of a building site where workers, employees and leaders are all portrayed as ineffectual in efficient organizations. The workers are not just in this book, but in each working day with anxiety. The day's work is done in a haphazard manner, a distracting factor in the laborious process of building a new lavatory.

How election judges have been hoodwinked

It is not only the "how" but the "why" that is the key to the problem of election fraud. The "how" is the method by which the fraud is committed, and the "why" is the motive for it. The "why" is the more important, for it is the motive that determines the method. In the case of election fraud, the motive is usually the desire for power or the desire to influence the outcome of the election. The method is usually the use of illegal means, such as bribery, intimidation, or the use of force.

NEW ISRAELI PLANS FOR KENYA

More co-operation pledged at talks

RODESIAN LEADER BARRED BY ZAMBIA

Further co-operation between Kenya and Israel was discussed yesterday at a meeting in State House between President Kenyatta and Prime Minister of Israel, Mr. Levi Eshkol. Also present were the President, Mr. Mumbumi, Kenya Ministers and Israeli officials.

A joint communique issued after the talks said the two leaders had discussed matters of common interest and reviewed the international situation.

They expressed satisfaction with the cooperation which began before Kenya's independence and has since continued to grow, and they agreed to explore avenues for further co-operation.

They reaffirmed that the preservation of peace lay in the application of principles enshrined in the United Nations Charter and reiterated in the Organisation for African Unity Charter, particularly with regard to respect for the sovereignty of states, peaceful settlement of disputes and the renunciation of the threat or use of force.

Arms race regretted

They regretted the existence of an arms race between East and West, and in Africa and the Middle East, and agreed that general disarmament would produce a lower level of tension leading to a more peaceful world. It would also release vast resources to aid developing countries.

Both leaders hoped greater progress would be made when Israel in Africa and elsewhere and to colonise illegal Rodesian regions, adding that a solution for Rodesia lay in the unqualified recognition of the rights of the people there.

The communique also called for increased efforts to be made to end apartheid in South Africa and to ensure that the continent is free from racial discrimination and the domination of colonialism and neo-colonialism.

Abrahamson visited the Israel Government and called for increased efforts to be made to end apartheid in South Africa and to ensure that the continent is free from racial discrimination and the domination of colonialism and neo-colonialism.

This would be mainly on the basis of the principle of self-determination and knowledge in the field of agriculture, industry, commerce, transport, education, health and other fields. They agreed to be of no practical use on the matter of mutual cooperation.

"We hope we shall start our work as soon as possible," he said.

No protests

Mr. Landman said that the question of Israel had been discussed in the Cabinet and that the Foreign Office had been informed of the visit to Kenya by the Israeli Prime Minister. He said that the visit had been discussed in the House of Commons and that the Government had no objection to it.

With an apparent exception, the visit was not greeted with any protests. The only exception was in the case of the visit to Kenya by the Israeli Prime Minister, Mr. Levi Eshkol, who was met by a large number of people at the airport.

The Kenya High Commission in London said that the visit was a success and that the two leaders had discussed matters of common interest and reviewed the international situation.

TALKS WANTED WITH CHINA ON VIET WAR

SENATOR Michael Mansfield (Democrat) yesterday urged a general meeting between U.S. Secretary of State, Mr. Dean Rusk, and the Chinese Foreign Minister, Mr. Chen Yi, in an effort to end the Vietnam war. The senator said "no" to the war.

Speculation in U.S. on Dr. Castro

THE State Department said yesterday there was widespread speculation in Cuba about Prime Minister Fidel Castro's whereabouts and his status in the Government.

Robert McClellan, who is the chargé d'affaires in Havana, said that the Cuban leader had "not been in the Government since early in May."

The spokesman's comment on the speculation, the spokesman said, was "Fidel Castro's present status within the Cuban party hierarchy, however, is not known."

With an apparent exception, the visit was not greeted with any protests. The only exception was in the case of the visit to Kenya by the Israeli Prime Minister, Mr. Levi Eshkol, who was met by a large number of people at the airport.

SECURITY TIGHTENED IN THE SEYCHELLES

POLICE in the Seychelles had taken security precautions, a Colonial Office official said in London yesterday.

The spokesman said that the visit was a success and that the two leaders had discussed matters of common interest and reviewed the international situation.

They expressed satisfaction with the cooperation which began before Kenya's independence and has since continued to grow, and they agreed to explore avenues for further co-operation.

London cool to Kabaka's brother

The British Government is sufficiently lenient towards the presence in London of Prince Henry Kinross, brother of the Kabaka of Buganda, who arrived on Wednesday from Nairobi. Kinross will be taken to ensure that the Prince's activities do not embarrass relations with Uganda.

It has always been British policy to grant asylum to political refugees on the strict understanding that they will not engage in overt political activities. The Prince was not permitted to see Kinross on a rallying point for Buganda dissidents.

It was understood that the Prince would be taken to ensure that the Prince's activities do not embarrass relations with Uganda.

LONDON STOCK SCARCITY WORSE

AMERICANS PLAN TO CUT RUBBER STOCKPILE

The United States plans to sell 19,000 tons of natural rubber from stocks in the year ending March 31, it was announced in Washington.

This is an extension of plans approved by the National Defense Administration, which supplies strategic materials in the year ended last March.

The rubber will be offered for sale at 15¢ a lb, 12.50¢ a ton every two months.

Several rubber-producing countries in the United States in recent years have raised their prices and this is expected to affect the market.

The announcement adds to the fact that the U.S. had restricted the Government's sale of the product and had planned to control the flow of the material in the Group next November, or earlier, if necessary.

The United States Exchange moved forward to close on Monday with the London Stock Exchange and London's market advanced 10 points to 442.80. The American market advanced 18 1/2 pts, having been back on 247.50. The Canadian market advanced 1 1/2 pts to 40.00. The exchange closed at 277 1/4, with the dollar at 2.00.

The London market moved forward to close on Monday with a big rise in the price of gold, which rose to 149 1/2. The gold market was up 1 1/2 pts to 149 1/2. The silver market was up 1 1/2 pts to 47.50. The platinum market was up 1 1/2 pts to 175.00.

The exchange closed at 277 1/4, with the dollar at 2.00.

LONDON STOCK SCARCITY WORSE

The London Stock Market saw very few rises in price on Monday as a large proportion of funds from abroad had been invested in the already scarce shortage of stocks and there was a fair demand for selective issues.

The market closed generally a few pence better.

There was a sharp rally in the price of gold, which rose to 149 1/2. The gold market was up 1 1/2 pts to 149 1/2. The silver market was up 1 1/2 pts to 47.50. The platinum market was up 1 1/2 pts to 175.00.

The exchange closed at 277 1/4, with the dollar at 2.00.

East Africa's best preserved—by salt

BECAUSE of the lack of permanent buildings, much of East Africa's pre-history is a mystery, which can only be explained by legend. However, in some of the most important prehistoric sites in the world, the bones of our ancestors have been preserved in a way that has allowed us to learn much about our past. In the Great Salt Pans of East Africa, the bones of our ancestors have been preserved in a way that has allowed us to learn much about our past.

SALT was an extremely valuable commodity in prehistoric times. It formed an essential part of man's diet, as it is today. Salt was only found in a few places in the world, and it was highly prized. In the Great Salt Pans of East Africa, the bones of our ancestors have been preserved in a way that has allowed us to learn much about our past.

Found salt pans today. The enclosures in the background are used in the production of salt by a European-owned company.

These prehistoric could be used to build up a continuous sequence of history dating back to the prehistoric. The bones of our ancestors have been preserved in a way that has allowed us to learn much about our past.

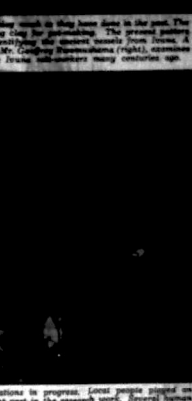

While agriculture and stock-raising developed in the Great Salt Pans, the bones of our ancestors have been preserved in a way that has allowed us to learn much about our past.

It is not long ago that the bones of our ancestors have been preserved in a way that has allowed us to learn much about our past.

The bones of our ancestors have been preserved in a way that has allowed us to learn much about our past.

By finding buried graves in a way that has allowed us to learn much about our past.

Importance of Africa's progress

Kenya's Prime Minister, Mr. Bahoh, said that the African people have a right to a better life and that the progress of Africa would make a material contribution to civilization if permitted to follow their own destiny in the light of their feelings, without outside interference.

He made a number of observations from his official visit to several African countries. He urged them to cooperate in the national fight against Kenya's other enemies — poverty, ignorance and disease — under the wise leadership of the late Sir J. M. Mwangi.

All this is done to encourage the growth of individuals and organizations who are to be the backbone of the future.

'Steam' radio—more to it than often realised

SUCH is the glamour of the hypnotic eye in the corner of the room that we all tend to devote an undue amount of attention to television, to the detriment of sound radio.

One reason is that in this progressive world it is not hard to listen to the radio and not be aware of what is going on in the world.

By ROSE HOWE

Two days last week I was fortunate to find out just how much the radio is doing for us. I was invited to the radio station which night of the TV. It was a most interesting evening. The radio station was a very different one from the one I had known. The service offered was excellent. It was a pleasure to see the staff of the station. The service offered was excellent. It was a pleasure to see the staff of the station. The service offered was excellent. It was a pleasure to see the staff of the station.

If one wakes in time to listen to the station, one is able to hear the news and the news of the day. The service offered was excellent. It was a pleasure to see the staff of the station. The service offered was excellent. It was a pleasure to see the staff of the station.

Between the two evening news bulletins there is a 15-minute news item. The service offered was excellent. It was a pleasure to see the staff of the station. The service offered was excellent. It was a pleasure to see the staff of the station.

Towards an approach to African literature

AFRICAN LITERATURE AND THE INTERNATIONAL DECLARATION edited and with an introduction by Gerald Henry. Published by the Cambridge Cultural Foundation, London University Press, 1952.

EDUCATION is vital to the development of a nation and in the realization of its potential it is very useful in broadening the horizons of its people. In particular, obviously, any government expects maximum possible growth over the years.

One of the immediate tasks is to create a "national" literature. Through the principles of the "national" movement, the literatures can be moulded so as to reflect national traditions and aspirations.

Two seminars from the point of view of African literature. From the University of Cambridge, African literature is essential to the development of the literature in a highly technical manner.

The basic assumption of the book is that African literature should be regarded as a separate entity, not as a mere extension of the European tradition.

By LESLIE ALLAN
YEARBOOK OF THE UNITED NATIONS 1953

This Yearbook is the 17th publication of this series since 1946. Earlier publication is the constant aim, but the volume of material which must be analysed and prepared for inclusion is such that it is not always possible to be achieved in the foreseeable future.

The latest issue contains a detailed account of the discussions at the 13th session of the General Assembly, about the activities of the U.N. for the period 1952-1953. It has been compiled at the high standard of presentation and organization of reference books of nature.

The States Members of the United Nations form seven committees at each session of the General Assembly to discuss separately political, economic, social, trusteeship, legal, security, administrative and budgetary affairs. The first part of this Yearbook is devoted to these discussions.

It includes the text, with supporting descriptive narrative, of the recommendations, resolutions and decisions adopted at these Sessions. Meetings Through membership of the main Committee of the United Nations, the main influence can be exercised. Consequently, the General Assembly is beginning to play a more decisive role than does the Security Council in United Nations affairs.

The second part is devoted largely to the activities of the specialized agencies and the Commission on Human Rights and its commissions reporting to the Economic and Social Council.

The Yearbook contains a number of illustrative charts and diagrams, including the map of the United Nations, and the names of the delegates and the names of the members of the various committees in either a private capacity or as representatives of their States.

The United Nations Yearbook is a most valuable reference book on world affairs.

held at the 19th conference of the International Association of Africanists. The report is dated with an introduction by the author, Dr. H. G. Gray, and is published by the Cambridge Cultural Foundation, London University Press, 1952.

The fishing industry is a potential source of wealth and well-being to the peoples of East Africa. The coopers of this rich natural harvest are a growing number of co-operatives, partnerships and one-man businesses. They need help and encouragement to make the fishing industry more efficient, more extensive. Barclays is proud of the help and advice it can give to East Africa's fishing industry - now and in the future.
