A Priority Job!

MEATLESS DAYS.
Keeping the family fit is a priority job for the housewife. And meatless days are the best way to make sure that the family gets the most health giving. Here are a few attractive, simple recipes. One you cannot afford to miss. By the other, vitamins, which are rich in Vitamin C.

- Carrot and Oatmeal Soup
- 2 lbs. carrots
 - 2 medium onions
 - 2 cups of water
 - 1 gill of milk
 - 1 gill of oil
 - 1 gill of butter

Method: Scrub and thinly slice the carrots. Chop the celery. Peel the onions and slice them. Put the sliced tomatoes in a well-greased fire-dish and pour over them a little water. Add vegetable oil and simmer for 5 minutes. Add water. Bring slowly to boiling point. Simmer for 10 minutes. Add the carrots and onions. Cook the mixture in a stewing pan for 2 hours. Return to the saucepan. Mix oatmeal to a paste with milk. Cook the oatmeal in the sauce of the tomatoes. Serve it to persons.

Mr. Churchill's Survey

One of the great merits of the Prime Minister's speech at the House of Commons was that it was not only a masterpiece of statesmanship, but also a masterpiece of logic. His latest speech at the House of Commons was again a masterpiece of statesmanship, but it was also a masterpiece of logic. It was a masterpiece of logic because it was a masterpiece of logic.

CHRISTMAS FUND FOR TROOPS:
£5,567
This Week's Target Is £6,000

Once again the list of donors to the K.W.O. Christmas Committee for the month of September shows a magnificent far beyond the relief of the citizens of Kenya and the neighbouring coast from the morale of desolation. The effect on the morale of our own people is undoubtedly great, but the moral effect for Germany must be the bitterness of disillusion. Since the collection of Funds the Germans at Calais and at Cape Town—barely 241 miles from Downing's headquarters—have been in the grip of a new and more possible than in a bird's-eye view for each of the elements of the same good Luftwaffe as a direct approach.

The reaction of Calais after a long and bitter resistance adds fresh laurels to Canadian arms. Its obstinate defence was part of the German plan to deny to the Allies the use of the Channel ports so as to make their supply difficulties as complicated as possible. For some weeks that plan achieved its purpose. At the same time, as military command pointed out, the Germans were in the process of dispersing Hitler's forces which were being driven to the sea. The dispersal of Hitler's forces which were being driven to the sea. The dispersal of Hitler's forces which were being driven to the sea.

Saving The Soya Link

BUT THE 14th ARMY WASN'T GRATEFUL

(From Our War Correspondent, George Kinross)

It was a strange, but not an extraordinary, thing that I was doing in Burma when I was out of Christmas on the first day of the Arakan march. The 14th Army had been with me for some time, and I had been with them for some time. I had been with them for some time, and I had been with them for some time. I had been with them for some time, and I had been with them for some time.

I looked at my watch for the first time since I had been with them. I had been with them for some time, and I had been with them for some time. I had been with them for some time, and I had been with them for some time. I had been with them for some time, and I had been with them for some time.

Thermal Activity In The Eastern Rift THE SUSWA CRATER

Few persons in Kenya realize that Suswa is one of the most interesting volcanoes in the Rift Valley, neither is it realized that it is even greater than the more famous ones to the north of Nakuru. The diameter from the peak is estimated to be as much as 100 miles. From the immediate base of the mountain, there are several smaller cones, and a number of other volcanic peaks. The most recent eruption was in 1911, when a large quantity of lava was ejected from the crater. The lava flow was about 100 feet high and 100 feet wide. It was very hot and very sticky. It was very dangerous to walk on it. It was very hot and very sticky. It was very dangerous to walk on it.

EDUCATION - A PERENNIAL PROBLEM

THE perennial problem of education in Kenya is one of the most important of our time. It is a problem which has been discussed for centuries, and it is one which will continue to be discussed for centuries to come. The problem is not only one of the most important, but it is also one of the most difficult. It is a problem which has been discussed for centuries, and it is one which will continue to be discussed for centuries to come.

Kenya's Industries Must Develop

BY GEORGE RICKARD

THE progress of the War has brought into being in Kenya a number of important industrial and commercial activities. The need for these activities is more acute than ever before, and the Government has accordingly taken steps to encourage their development. The Government has recently ordered that all the industrial and commercial activities in Kenya should be developed in such a manner as to be self-sufficient in their own requirements. This is a very important step, and it is one which the Government has taken in order to ensure that Kenya is able to meet its own needs in the event of a world-wide shortage of raw materials.

It is in fact a very serious situation which has arisen in Kenya, and it is one which the Government has taken steps to meet. Permanent Agriculture

THE ROLE OF GRASS COVER

FOR nearly a generation many of our best and wisest have been increasingly concerned by the fact that, when the people first become unconcerned, there was a tendency to increase natural erosion, which made most of the great fertile valleys, the better cradles of civilization, and some erosion which, in the United States, made the West of America and ruined vast areas of France long before the first great war.

There have come thousands of acres of land which are now being used for agriculture.

"Maybe I'm old-fashioned, Schmidt—but I still say women's place is in the home."

GREECE

The liberation of Greece has brought the news of a splendid yesterday of the landing of the British troops. The news has been welcomed throughout the free world by millions who have followed with indignation and sympathy the progress of a country which in some respects has suffered more than any other in the Balkans. In these latter years Greece has had three masters—Germany, Italy and Bulgaria. In October 1940 Italy, seven months after the outbreak of her assault against that poor, arrayed country. Though outnumbered in men and in stores of equipment the Greeks soundly defeated the Italians, drove them back through southern Albania, and only succumbed in the spring of 1941 to overwhelming German armies. A German column which cut through southern Yugoslavia and then crossed the Balkan air gap and caught the greater part of the Greek army in rear. A small Greek force in one series of gallant rearguard actions, the Greeks were finally forced to evacuate. The whole of Greece was overrun by the Germans and the Bulgarians conquered the last remnants of the Greek army on the island of Crete. Though so humiliated, the Greeks held out at the moment of the Greek army's capitulation. Hitler handed over the job of occupying and police work in Greece to the Germans and the British controlled over Crete. When Italy capitulated Germany remained in full control and large numbers of Bulgarian troops were sent into the territories. The Germans and the Italians exacted world-wide condemnation. The Germans killed and looted Greece on a scale rarely equalled in modern times and in a period of less than a year though the majority of the Greeks were not expelled from their homes. In fact many thousands had been expelled from their homes. The death roll has not been very much smaller. A die in large measure of the relief measures taken by the United Nations, and the Greek people. Even so the spirit of resistance burned brightly and the various partisan groups continued disrupting German communications, attacking the lines of the war against the invaders.

A big change in the attitude of the Court of the capitulation of Rumania and Bulgaria and the growing efforts of the forces under Marshal Tito in Yugoslavia. For some months now the general picture in Greece has been one of German withdrawal though this does not exclude the possibility of isolated German units with the object of delaying the progress of the British and Greek forces themselves are now in control of the islands of Crete and Karolonia in the northern Aegean (reinstated by the Bulgarians) and are also established in some of the Central Aegean Islands. The Dodecanese Islands are being gradually re-occupied. Excluding the garrisons of the two islands formerly in Crete has been the main reason for the British to five enemy divisions on the peninsula. The main reason maintained all of which on the drawing gradually to Macedonia with a view generally to retreat up the Vardar Valley. Allied troops are now in the island of Crete and the possession by the British of Crete is the Dalmanian coast render it virtually impregnable. For the moment the British are being held up by the Italians. It is now believed that the last fortnight the Allies have been making fierce at various points on the Peloponnese and southern Albania in order to hasten the withdrawal of the arrival of the retreating Serbian and make contact with the considerable partisan forces who are ready to co-operate with us in this task.

In the grand strategy of the Balkans war, Greece is one of the main arteries to the Balkans. The gateway into the land of Salonika in northern Greece. From Salonika the main invasion route through Sofia and Belgrade to Budapest and Vienna. This is the route followed by the Allied armies in 1918 when the amphibious force of the Bulgarian army on the Salonika front sealed the fate of Germany by opening up the Balkans. It seems very much as though history is about to repeat itself.
