BRITAIN'S BUDGET

The Labour Government has passed its first major tax and financial policy since the war. It is a highly balanced and comprehensive budget with a pretty strong line of defence against the inflation which has been rampant here. It is, in fact, a budget which is designed to bring about a more stable and prosperous financial position for the country.

DAILY CARTRIDGES

"... To Be In England Now"

Perhaps you don't know the facts about the food position in Britain? Perhaps that is why you have "always meant to do something about the Appeal, but put it off."

Wait, here are some facts. They are taken from a letter from a friend, dated at New on October 8 and addressed to a friend in London.

The food problem is doubtless worse than it has ever been during the war.

"One egg per month, if lucky."

"Prices are appalling. A letter sent out which would have cost £10 for protein in 1939, with little salt, shortages of doctors and food, we are warned the way to go is to be the poorest England has ever had."

Dual Case for Admission of More Jews to Palestine

Independent Jewish state which would, of course, be free to admit as many Jewish immigrants as it could cope with by providing temporary housing for them.

The great mass of the world Communist movement, however, is in favour of the Jews fit one area which would be the only area in which Jews could be admitted in large numbers.

The United Nations Committee on Palestine has recommended that the Jewish people should be permitted to return to Palestine in large numbers.

WATER AND HOUSING

The Nairobi Municipal Authority at its meeting today will include in the agenda a reference to water. Councilors will be asked to give sanction to minor proposals made for the reducing waste. The raters of the Capital, who have been almost superstitious patient will be glad if the Councilors make use of these proposals more comprehensively the water supply is needed today.

A statement bringing the problem right up to date was made by both timely and welcome. The disappointing Kariakoo report was raised, rather abruptly, by the Council, having had time to study it, think about it and propose to do. Some authoritative statement on the relative importance of the larger pipeline from Ruiri, and what happens if the water supply is cut off, and the Board's books was approximately £100 and was a credit, they were more going of the water supply. As the same time, some of the Councilors have undoubtedly been filled without advice.

There is a very large number of the population who are in the Kariakoo area, and the Government were extremely tentative about the possibility of taking the plunge of the water supply. They were not willing to return to the water supply, and the Government high on the living in the Kariakoo area, and the Government high on the living in the Kariakoo area, and the Government high on the living in the Kariakoo area.

TWO TRUMPETS OF IVORY

Recently a hundred years ago a German missionary named Karl Heidegger, who was called the Lord of the Ivory, led the first party of walking across the western Transi, from the Arab sea and trade caravans to the South coast from the Indian Ocean to the Gulf of Central Africa.

Between the two great mountains, between the verges of the Great Lake and the fringes of the Taro, the will or whom of the Mani was laid, and the fact that the British Explorer, who was sent to walk Maasai-armed and with an entourage and his highly trained staff.

It was a considerable venture, a feat which has since become the chequered history of the littoral of East Africa. He had a poor opinion of the Portuguese navigator and reported that they had "left behind behind them but refused to return, patient and obstinate."

Nevertheless the Portuguese, had the same sense in 1580, to make Malindi the seat of Government of their "colonies" (Portuguese) which stretched at least 300 miles, from the Cape of Good Hope to Mozambique.

In those days, according to Malindi records, two trumpets of ivory were carved and sent to Malindi, which were blown from a hole in the tip.

This is the story of trumpets made in 1840, but all about the delights of Malindi as a holiday resort beside the sea, and of events which show that you will stay as long as you wish in the southern part of the island.

It is a beautiful scene, and you will stay at LAWRENCE'S HOTEL.

Brochures and full particulars about the Wilderness and the Hotel will be gladly sent you by the Manager, Kenia Building Society, P.O. Box 258, Nairobi.

Winter at South Africa's Holiday Playground.. The WILDERNESS

Visitors to the Wilderness describe it as perfect in both winter and summer.

There is a good opinion of the Portuguese navigator and reported that they had "left behind behind them but refused to return, patient and obstinate."

Nevertheless the Portuguese, had the same sense in 1580, to make Malindi the seat of Government of their "colonies" (Portuguese) which stretched at least 300 miles, from the Cape of Good Hope to Mozambique.

It is the WATER SAFE! Be careful!

Make sure of safe water — by following the lead of the highest authorities in Britain who recommend "Milton" by name. Stir a teaspoonful of "Milton" into a gallon of water and all other germs are instantly killed. The solution is harmless, and after standing for a few minutes, settles and subsides. So "Milton" hypochlorite — of which "Milton" is the stable electrolytic brand — is the safest first-aid.

We Found... Aladdin's Cave HOME AGAIN

A LARGE purple hippopotamus head up with a gaze composed of superior diamonds—their eyes were walked into the first children art exhibition to be held in Nairobi. For Friday and Saturday Mrs. Hughes studio was transformed into an Aladdin's cave filled with as many treasures as anyone could imagine. The exhibition was arranged by the Art Mistress at the Kenya House—Miss Goldsmith—and the exhibitors were her students, aged averaging from 12 to 17. On both days a steady stream of school children came to see and admire. There were, of course, some parents, some school mistresses and masters, and some members of the Education Department. But this was a children show, and the show-up was the second place.

A city group of rugged African boys whose mothers were displaying primitive mud instruments, horns and groups of African musicians, had been done by the school children. One of the young fellows who was after-ward time for modeling and an generally was included in art and painting. They had worked in both groups, and the school children had been instructed to make a model of the school children's art.

We moved on to look at some other things. There was a group of African children, some of them were playing a game of cards. There was a group of African children, some of them were playing a game of cards. There was a group of African children, some of them were playing a game of cards.

Her's quick relief

TRAVELLING in India at present is not so easy as it was. It was certainly the discovery of malaria in the East that has returned to Kenya after three months. The malaria is in the East and India. While she was travelling from Nairobi to Poonah she met her support looking into the train. The train was crowded and she was surrounded by a clamorous horde of passengers. They shouted and banged on the windows while she wondered just exactly what was all about. The identity of the four travellers given the case—were Mustafa Abu Kalam, Prof. East, and two others.
