CONTOVERSY ON 'GEN. CHINA' DECISION Spirited reply to Kenya criticism 'POSSIBILITY OF PEACE WITH HONOUR'

REACTIONS to the news that "General China" had been attempting to persuade other terrorist leaders to surrender and that his death sentence had been commuted to imprisonment for life provoked controversy in Kenya and Britain yesterday.

In Kenya Legislative Council, Mr. Michael Blundell, Leader of the European Elected Members, initiated a heated half-hour debate on the adjournment of the House. He said that he was attempting to deal with criminals was the hall-mark of expedience and led to the conclusion that the Government was a party to "treasonable, filthy deals and murders. Other European Elected Members said that the action was a betrayal of the loyal Kikuyu, a suggestion that was strongly denied.

African and African members rallied to the defence of the Government. Mr. E. A. Vasey, Member for Finance, said that no Government with such responsibility would do the duty if it did not take every action within its power to end the Emergency. "With every hour of the Emergency, the total of bloodshed grows. This decision brings the possibility of peace with honour. No motion was tabled and the debate was closed after 30 minutes permitted by standing orders for an adjournment of 12 hours.

THE BELGIAN PRESS has said that some political observers considered that "General China" would be a valuable asset to any great extent in the hands of the British Government. Mr. Blundell said he had a number of questions for the Government. He asked if the Government had any information on the activities of the "General China" group. He also asked if the Government had any information on the activities of the "General China" group.

RIOTS BLAMED ON TRIBESMEN Sudan statement follows Britain's reply to Egypt

FOLLOWING a statement by Mr. Anthony Eden, Foreign Secretary, denying allegations that British troops were responsible for the riots in Sudan, the Sudan Cabinet yesterday issued a statement in Khartoum which laid the blame on Arab tribesmen who "brought into the capital" in defiance of a Government ban on demonstrations.

Colonial critics at Transport House are strangely quiet

It is becoming plain that if anything is happening to the Labour Party's approach to Colonial affairs, no one could say that it was more recent reasonable than last time. There are no signs of back-peddling. The pessimistic view is an uneasy storm-heralding calm; the optimistic as a precursor of a return to the days of non-partisan approach to Colonial problems, which were unattainable for the Labour Party from a crisis in the Colonies.

Wherever it is, the news is all there. And not only the transport of the strike on the Colonial Secretary, but marked drops in the number of attacks. Opportunities for criticism of the Government have been allowed to slip by. Cases which might have been taken to the House of Commons are being allowed to slip by. Cases which might have been taken to the House of Commons are being allowed to slip by.

But why? Only the common sense of Transport House has the answer. Consider the basic support theory. That the House of Lords by Lord Waverley, when he initiated the debate on Cyprus. He said of the present young Cyprus: "There is no thought of independence for his country. There is a desire to remain a part of the United Kingdom."

Other suggestions are that the House of Commons has been persuaded to support the present National Service. That Party supporters with common sense are taking up the case for the National Service. That Party supporters with common sense are taking up the case for the National Service.

DAM SCHEME, BENEFITS TRIBESMEN

Loa and Walmale (between in South Uganda are reaping the benefits of a £200,000 African Dams Scheme for the construction of 90 dams in the Walmale and Lakeeroo Loo Localities. Already 31 dams and five waterfalls have been built under a programme started in 1952.

Four-fifths of the cost of these dams is being met from the Central Government and the remainder from the other Government. The new dams are providing irrigation and power. The village of Gasa in Kadam Localities has one of the best of the new dams. A pipe leading from the dam wall supplies a tank for the villagers and a water trough for their cattle. The local Luo tribesmen have been given employment in the dam project. The dam is a pipe leading from the dam wall supplies a tank for the villagers and a water trough for their cattle.

Tribal trouble averted

Serious trouble which might have occurred between the Baka and the Kipiga over the disappearance of the latter's cattle from Masally was averted when a special meeting of the Border Committee was held at Gergor. The Committee had been originally set up because it had been realized that if both sides were free to enter each other's territory in pursuit of lost cattle a serious conflict might arise. It is now recognized that the Baka and Kipiga are friendly and made it the responsibility of both the police and the Committee to deal with the disappearance of cattle.

Coconut bonus planting Tanganyika acreage rises

TANGANYIKA EXPERIMENT

It is expected that Africans alone will plant up to 700 acres of coconut palms on the Tanganyika coast in the next few years under a scheme introduced by the Government in 1951. The total area planted so far amounts to 576 acres. The aim of the scheme is to encourage the increase in their acreage and to provide a market for the most suitable types of palm trees. The Government has planted 1,200 coconuts in the first year of the scheme, and it is expected that the minimum area which a holder must plant in the first instance is a minimum of 10 acres. The Government is also to be undertaken eventually to supply the seedlings to the holder at a price of 20 shillings per acre, and to provide the holder with the necessary technical assistance as long as he maintains the normal level of originally planted palms keeping the land clean.

Initial response poor

The palm should yield in the first year. The Ministry of Agriculture has issued a booklet which covers it from the time of planting to the time of harvest. It is expected that 100 acres will be planted in the first year, and the Government has started in the Tanganyika and Pate Islands. The Government has also issued a booklet which covers it from the time of planting to the time of harvest. It is expected that 100 acres will be planted in the first year, and the Government has started in the Tanganyika and Pate Islands.

Inspection of land

An African wishing to take part in the scheme must first have his land inspected by a Government official. The official will check the soil and the water supply, and will also check the holder's financial position. If the land is suitable, the holder will be given a permit to plant coconuts.

Facilities needed

Facilities needed include irrigation, roads, and other services. The Government is providing technical assistance to the holders, and is also providing the necessary seedlings.

Awards of bursaries to be limited

The Kenya Agricultural College has announced that the number of bursaries to be awarded to African students will be limited. This is due to the increase in the number of applicants.

Elders visit to Machakos

A party of elders from the Machakos District visited the Government offices in Nairobi. They discussed the problems of the district and the way in which they could be solved.

Points noted

The points noted by the Government are: (1) the need for more technical assistance; (2) the need for more seedlings; (3) the need for more roads and irrigation facilities.

Uasin Gishu Aid for African Clergy Plan

A small decrease in attendance, particularly at the annual meeting of the Uasin Gishu Clergy, held in the Municipal Room, Eldoret. The Rev. R. H. Kipkor, who was in charge of the meeting, reported that the attendance was 10 per cent below the previous year.

New churches

The outstanding achievement of the year to the end of 1953 was the building of 10 new churches in the Uasin Gishu District. These were built by the African clergy and the Government.

Money for fares

It would benefit the Colony if a fund were set up to provide money for the fares of African students who are attending school in Kenya. This would help to reduce the financial burden on the students and their families.

KINANGOP ANGER OVER 'CHINA' MOVE

Motions critical of C-in-C and Governor

THE withdrawal of the Commander-in-Chief East Africa, Gen Sir George Erskine, and for the resignation of the Governor, Sir Evelyn Baring, were made on Wednesday night at a meeting of South Kiangong District Association.

The news of the former garrison's "General China" being used in an attempt to induce territorial surrenders has become known only a few hours before the meeting and strong feelings were expressed by the 40 or so members present.

Mr. Charles Bisher criticised the policy with a critical letter which was read. Another speaker attacked Gen Erskine for his condemnation of requests for killing terrorists. The reward system was also criticised. A motion was passed, as follows: "That the practice of using mercenaries in the East African area should be discontinued."

A number of other speakers, including the chairman, Col. R. D. Sifton endorsed these feelings and agreed that estimates for special operations were extravagant. A motion so the Governor proposed by the chairman was passed. It demanded that the P.O. be asked to be physically present in the Colony after his home leave. It should be decided by a committee.

A new Governor should have powers and similar justice, said the motion, but he should not be a military governor although a senior officer was recommended.

African 'horrified'
The announcement of "General China" is regarded as a serious step towards the "horrified" African District Officer in charge of a recruiting team said that when the African in-charge of his team heard the news he was "horrified".

They say, and quite rightly so, that all through the Emergency the Government has used the greatest strain on the protection of local Africans. They say the real hardship was reserved for the foreigner and that it is the foreigner who will have to suffer and that it is the foreigner who will have to be sent to jail before they are utterly slain, with five years every foreigner will be sent to jail for joining Mau Mau," said Mr. Peto.

"They look on this move as a complete betrayal by Government of the local case. They think there have been no demands made for the withdrawal of Col. Sifton, explained that Mr.

A 47-ft. student dropped as pretty little Annabelle presented the Duke with a bouquet of one slipknot walking stick. The Duke was laughing and pulled out one stick and returned it to her.

Another student, who was inside the Union House, made a further presentation. She handed a souvenir during a time of the Duke's visit.

LESLEY CLAY introduces

IT was, indeed, a dog's day out last Saturday at the East Africa Kennel Club Open Championship Dog Show, held in the lovely grounds of Mitchell Park. Dogs were there in all moods, shapes, sizes and colours, and their owners with them in a variety of costumes, from shorts and slacks to jumpers, jeans and overalls.

An all-day show is an exhausting business at best, but when it takes place at one of the hottest times of the year it becomes something of an endurance test to canines and owners alike. I know, of course, that Kenya is a very doggy Colony, but I got a few surprises when I saw some of the people who had entered their pets or who had come along to watch. I didn't expect, for instance, that someone steeped in music would turn out to be an ardent dog fan, or that a well-known White Hunter's off-duty hobby was the breeding of Rhodesian Ridgebacks. You can see both Mr. and Mrs. Dinwoy Allen with Vykng and Vodka of Mutumayi pictured here, and it's heartening to learn that the Mau Mau Navaho-woy, have reason to fear the Allen's formidable pack of ten of these dogs.

Naturally, all the people I expected to be there turned up, people like Mrs. Donald Watney whose picture was taken with her Dachshunds, Pennsylvania Ultra and Wonder; Miss Black Magic and Mrs. Frankie Weldon with handsome Khan of Charavigne, only seven months old and from the same kennels as the late and famous Quality. But for sheer enthusiasm I took off my hat to Mr. and Mrs. W. E. W. Bates who came nearly 750 miles from Kabale in Uganda, to show their Gregynog, their black and silver Akita-an, and Stewart of Soldanello, a perky Scottie whom I had photographed specially with their master and mistress.

As the afternoon wore on and the heat became more intense, I looked around for a method of cooling off, but discovered two small boys whom you see bottom left of the page, had got ahead of me. When I arrived at the horse trough, one of them was climbing cheerfully out, soaked to the skin but intensely pleased with himself. I asked him if his mamma knew about his impromptu swim but he had no statement to make. Apart from mamma knew about his impromptu swim but he had no statement to make. Apart from mamma knew about his impromptu swim but he had no statement to make. Apart from mamma knew about his impromptu swim but he had no statement to make.

Even Royalty has to mix with the commoner sometimes, but Swift, one of those very fine (in Kenya) King Charles Cavalier Spaniels, was not at all sure he ought to encourage Baby Boxes are stout fellows at any time, and the progeny of Labin, supported by Mrs. Roy Clay, were utterly open-mouthed about the show, as you can see.

It occurred to Miss S. D. Lebbhardt that her Pekie, Yum-Yum, needed a few additional touches to her toilette, so out came the brush and Yum-Yum suffered patiently in a good cause. Little Ann Scott didn't seem to notice the approach of bull-dog, she, shown for the first time by Mr. R. N. Watkins-Pirbright who was anxious to make friends.

You'll have me sleeping next, I heard the pure white poodle say as he trotted nimbly by the side of a lady who might easily have been by the fair and pretty looks of her.

Kenya's Pineapples Are Becoming World Famous

By PETER WHITTINGHAM

THE growing of pineapples in more than 100 established industry and seed estates are developing pineapples as an alternative crop. This new industry has evolved through the efforts of one family—the Harries—in 1938. In Kenya, the pineapple is the first tropical plant to be grown in the country. It was introduced to Kenya in 1938 by the late Mr. C. W. P. Harries, who spent two years in California and two years in the United States before he returned to Kenya. He planted the first pineapple in the forest on Colonel Bell's plot. Two or three months later Mrs. Harries had the plants and established the Harries Estate in the area of the Harries Estate, near Nairobi, and by 1941 was sending pineapples as far as East and West Africa. The Harries family is now the largest pineapple producer in Kenya, and its success is a source of inspiration to other growers.

Opened in 1950
The factory was opened in 1950 by the then Governor, Sir Philip Mitchell, but the high hopes of the directors were not realized for two reasons—the reduction of the acreage and the quality and taste remained unimproved. The factory, which was built on a 100-acre plot, was opened in 1950. It is now producing 100,000 pineapples a year. The factory is now producing 100,000 pineapples a year. PARKER PLANT

Even the best equipment loses much of its value unless backed by an after-sales service and adequate spare parts — that is why so many of East Africa's most important construction concerns depend on Parker Plant and Galey & Roberts Limited, through their territory-wide sales and service organizations.

Parker Plant is classed as heavy engineering, and includes Builders' Plant, such as the Concrete Mixers; Quarry Plant, including Feeders, Stone Crushers, Screens, Conveyors, Elevators and Storage Bins; Sand and Gravel-handling Plant, such as Belt Feeders, Stone Washers, Sand De-waterers; Asphalt and Tarmac-making Plants.

In recent years special attention has been given to mobility. Now, much of the plant built, including complete Quarry Plants and Tarmac-making Plants, is mounted on pneumatic rubber-tired wheels.

A Study in World Religions

HINDUISM

Of all the great religions of the world, Hinduism is the least known to the people of the West. Though there are over 300,000,000 people and forming a great and vigorous culture, Hinduism has never received the attention it deserves. That its basic doctrines and philosophy are completely strange and unfamiliar to those brought up in the tradition of Jewish and Christian faiths.

The Hindu therefore does not deny the truth of any other religion, but he succeeds in showing that the genuine religion is the one which is based on the presence of God. Though the people of the West have been misled by over 2,000 years of a false teaching, the Hindu does not deny the truth of any other religion, but he succeeds in showing that the genuine religion is the one which is based on the presence of God.

From the Vedas to the Upanishads, the Hindu religion has been a continuous evolution. It is a religion of the people, and its teachings are simple and direct. It is a religion of the East, and its teachings are simple and direct.

There are three main branches of Hinduism: the Vedas, the Upanishads, and the Bhagavad Gita. Each branch represents a different aspect of the Hindu religion, and together they form a complete system of thought and action.

The Hindu religion is a religion of the East, and its teachings are simple and direct. It is a religion of the people, and its teachings are simple and direct. It is a religion of the East, and its teachings are simple and direct.

One God

The Hindu believes in one God, conceived as the universal soul or Paramatma, who is the source of all life and energy. This God is not a personal deity, but a universal principle of existence.

Misconception

It is one of the most widely prevalent misconceptions about Hinduism that it is a polytheistic religion. In fact, it is a monotheistic religion, with the belief in one God who is the source of all life and energy.

Objectives

The main objective of Hinduism is the attainment of Moksha, or liberation from the cycle of birth and death. This is achieved through the practice of dharma, or duty, and the cultivation of the soul.

Through My Hat

By Kenneth Meadows. This article discusses the author's personal experiences and observations of Hinduism. He describes how he came to understand the religion and how it has influenced his life.

The essence

Finally, how does Hinduism try to transform life? It is the essence of Hinduism that it is a religion of the East, and its teachings are simple and direct. It is a religion of the people, and its teachings are simple and direct.

REPUBLICS IN SOUTH AFRICA

TALKING about a republic in the Union—and one does hear of it these days—who you know, that Britain a century ago had a big hand in the creation of two republics in South Africa? The centenary of one—the Orange Free State Republic—was celebrated in what is today the Province of the Orange Free State during February.

Republics in South Africa have been numerous. Many people today living in South and East Africa can remember from personal experience the Zuid-Afrikaansche Republiek or the Orange Free State. The Transvaal and the Orange Free State were the two republics that existed in 1892 at the time of the Boer War before that were subject to the republics of the Orange Free State and the Orange Free State.

It is that very special process which gives "ASPRO" its quick active action. And no harm done to the heart or stomach. Take "ASPRO" for pain, nervousness, sleeplessness, chills after exercise and sore throat.

ROVER Ninety

2½-litre 6-Cylinder

NAIROBI PRICE £1,200, at the Coast £1,260

SINCE 1949 all the resources, skill and inherited craftsmanship of The Rover Company, Limited, have been concentrated on perfecting one model—the Rover "75." Now, with the wealth of experience gained, Rover launch a new companion model—the "90"—in the same distinguished mould. It has a smooth, powerful and economical 6-cylinder engine. The new model retains the good looks and luxurious comfort of its predecessor and adds new attractions to an already impressive list: a new central gear-change, synchromesh on second, third and top gears, improved engine mountings and shock absorbers, side lamps mounted on the wings, visible to the driver, automatic windscreen washers—to name but a few. Independent front suspension and progressive rate rear springs ensure the same unruffled ride irrespective of road or load. Interior and exterior finish is of the same high standard—with rustless aluminium alloy door panels, bonnet cover and luggage boot lid. The "90" exhibits to the full the perfect road manners and delightful ease of handling characteristic of all Rover cars.

We are also pleased to announce an interesting plan which enables you to take delivery of a Rover "90" in the U.K. for £850 payable in East Africa. Delivery can be made in London or at the Rover Works in Solihull. For returning the car to East Africa there are two alternatives. If you wish, you can arrange for shipping by any route or we can take care of all the details for you for the sum of £240 payable when the car is redelivered to you in East Africa. This figure includes all shipping, Insurance, Customs Import duty, and clearing charges and preparation for the road.

EXCLUSIVE CYLINDER HEAD DESIGN

OVERHEAD INLET AND EXHAUST VALVES IN combination with the patented combustion chamber design, latest compression ratio, and unusually wide valve lift ensure a very high standard of engine performance and standing performance and economy.

CENTRAL GEAR-CHANGE

THE NEW CENTRAL GEAR CHANGE provides the positive feel that only a direct system gives without interfering with front floor space. Also illustrated on the floor plate above the gear-change lever is the control knob for the "Rover" Free-Change lever which permits "Rover" gear-changing and before any foot operation on long journeys.

ELIMINATION OF CHASSIS LUBRICATION

THE FRONT suspension is probably built and fitted in all the world with rubber bushes which absorb road shocks and the frame, too, has wheel wheel joints which have the same shock absorbing effect. This means that the chassis is a unit. Note too the long "Life" axle which is commonly described in independent front suspension systems.

Britain seeks relaxation of ban on strategic exports to Red countries

BRITAIN is asking the United States to examine detailed proposals for easing the ban on "strategic" exports to Iron Curtain countries, it has been learned in well-informed London circles. After preliminary consultations with the United States the British Foreign Office is now co-operating in enforcing the controls.

Under United States legislation American aid must be withdrawn from any country which is involved in trade in strategic goods with an Iron Curtain country unless that trade can be shown to be in the interest of the United States.

Reports that Britain's plans to reduce the lists of banned goods have already been discussed in Washington and it is expected that the United States will be prepared to relax its controls on strategic goods.

Always building a greater East Africa

Lake and river services of the East African Railways and Harbours now operate over more than 6,000 route miles, stretching from Rhodesia to the South. In 1952 a record total of passengers and cargo was carried, and traffic is still increasing.

To meet all the continued development of the territory surrounding the lakes, many new projects are in hand. On Lake Tanganyika, the two principal vessels, the s.s. "Lambia" and the s.s. "Mwanza" have been completely refitted and modernized.

On Lake Victoria, new launches are being placed in service, and at Kinshasa new lighters are being built under an ambitious local building programme. Plans for a new passenger and cargo ship are now being discussed with Marine Consultants in the United Kingdom.

To inland waterways services form a vital part of the East African transport system. They will continue to be improved and expanded to serve the growing needs of territory beyond the reach of the railways alone.

Warrant for arrest Assistant Inspector of Police M. J. Walsh said that he and a woman Chief Inspector went to Tanganyika to execute a High Court warrant for the arrest of Mrs. Stewart, when they found her in the house of her husband, Mr. Stewart, who was staying there.

SMOG TO ERADICATE

British scientists reports that "smog gasping" is the latest step to combat the pollution of the atmosphere. The control of the toxic smog technique remained to be answered.

Coast Member calls Colonial Secretary 'wicked'

ATTITUDE TO KENYA PLAN

A NOTE of confidence was given Mr. S. Y. Cooke, Member for the Coast, after he addressed a meeting of his constituents in the Twiga Hotel at Wednesbury. Mr. Cooke, who spoke on the proposed new constitutional changes in the Government of Kenya, the State of Emergency and various local matters, was challenged only once during the 45-minute session.

This was the first attack on the Emergency Commission since the introduction of the proposals. Mr. Cooke said that he was not at all surprised by the attitude of the members of the Emergency Commission, but that he was surprised by the attitude of the members of the House of Commons.

M.P. feels brutality is encouraged

ADDRESSING THE PABIAN A Colonial Bureau, Mr. Ronald Williams, one of the recent Parliamentary delegation to Kenya, said: "While among the Europeans I found many who were of the highest moral standards, I found many who were not merely of the lowest, but who had contempt for the law."

Basket-ball catches on in the Services

THE Services, with the Army in particular, have taken a fancy to basketball, fast American sport, in large measure since the war and every where young recruits are showing a great enthusiasm for a game that is attracting a new type of military athlete.

They are the young lads who are not particularly good at football or other out of hand, but playing some sort of ball game. Basketball has been their choice.

Kabaka's return as private citizen would be studied

IN THE House of Commons, Mr. R. W. Sorenson (Socialist) asked whether the Colonial Secretary would offer to the Kabaka of Buganda the opportunity, provided he would not be a member of the Government, of his return to the Kingdom as a private citizen, of returning at an appropriate time to his own country.

The Secretary of State for the Colonies replied that he was not at all surprised by the attitude of the members of the Emergency Commission, but that he was surprised by the attitude of the members of the House of Commons. # ON LOCATION WITH KENYA'S OWN FILM UNIT

By Lesley Clay

It was a sad little figure who watched, from the safe shelter of her nurse's arms, the car in which Sally Jane's mother was fast disappearing down the drive of the Ayre-Smith's farm at Nairobi. Sally Jane obviously did not approve of her mother playing the leading part in Kenya's own film. No film of Nairobi, now being made by Capricorn Film Productions at Nairobi. But Sally Jane's mother, known to a wide public in Britain as the successful stage and film actress, Carol Rave, and now the wife of a veterinary officer at Nairobi, had promised to lend her name and her acting ability to what it is hoped will be the first feature film of Kenya and which may well prove the beginning of a thriving local industry. It is the director of Capricorn Films to assemble only local actors, actresses and technicians and that is how Carol came to be in the picture.

I thought I would like to see the star on location, so we set out for the Samburu country about eight o'clock one morning, travelling via Olgi, Thomson's Falls and Hamuruti. I found Carol a very human and understanding person, with none of the caprice one is apt to associate with a successful actress. In fact, she has been so busy being a good mother and mother-in-law—Sally Jane has a baby brother named Mark—since she arrived in Kenya just over a year ago, that she has not had time to relax her career.

But now here she was ready to put her heart into the new venture and she had readily grasped one very important factor connected with the making of this particular film: there is only money enough for essential members of the staff as a very tight financial schedule. The picture is a co-operative effort with each one of the people working as a team and all performing several different jobs. It was particularly interesting to filming King Solomon's Mines, when money was so tight and a star's whims and preferences were meticulously catered for.

Within 14 miles of our destination, when we were hot, dusty and tired, we had a puncture and Carol was out of the car in a moment, ready to do her bit in changing the wheel. And that I think is typical of her: she will fend for herself rather than add to the burdens of the over-worked members of her unit.

A delightful site for the camp had been chosen a little way out of Maralal township: it was shaded by tall trees and sheltered from the cool night wind by the hills beyond. There was a slight hitch over a tent for Carol; it had not been delivered as promised, but soon a temporary one was rigged up and we were able to wash and shake the dust out of our clothes and have a welcome cup of tea. For that night and the next I was the guest of

THE FRIDAY MISCELLANY

A STRANGE predic- tion: The animal "Piscaurus" sprang itself across the ballroom at the Hotel and leaped above the band last Saturday night. It was a startling apparition to be confronted with even for the most sober arrivals to the Arts and Crafts Ball.

At the top of the staircase in the ballroom was "The Thinker" and in the first corner of the ballroom was "The Buddha," with a mass of copper-looking hair. And in the top 17 paintings—executed by artists with the most names—adorned the walls.

An interesting collection of that of the Egyptian section consisting of 12. It was effectively made up as the country of Transylvania, Mrs. Vivian as Queen Helene, Mr. E. B. Howard as King, Queen Hathorah. This said group were the most of champagne as the prior for the ball.

DOROTHY BARKLEY says NOW WE ARE IN THE PICTURE

Now they can be seen—the first pictures of the new London collection. They have been kept secret for a month to give foreign buyers time to return home with the designs they purchased.

Suppose Number One of the collection was the little royal vest over the length of the evening dress. Dorothy said "I don't expect that would be so popular as the ballerina dress."

Suppose Number Two was the revival of fur. Making a coat-back after a long lapse. It treated with a new material and used as an evening wrap.

Two further details thrust into the news by the collection. Are the white collar and the white necktie. These designers had their eye on London and Paris.

A LETTER FROM AMERICA

'For Services Rendered'

BY ALASTAIR BUCHAN

The recent debate in the House of Representatives on whether the salaries of Members of Parliament should be raised from £1,000 to £1,500 a year makes curious reading on this side of the Atlantic. For, discussing the increase in the general level of salaries between the two countries, the American Representative—Upper House Member even—has made a laughable reward for his services.

Fullest service
It has to be remembered that each one is the delegate of his constituents and that each must direct sense that a British Member is the delegate of his constituents. All voters feel entitled to exact the fullest service from their Senators and Representatives, including the highest possible remuneration for their services. The Government are not aware of the fact that the voters of the United States are not so much as they were in Washington.

Many critics who are at least as good as the British Members at present—the United States Senators—do not seem to be any the less interested in the British Member's services. Nevertheless, the number of Members with which an American Congressman is blessed is a temptation to corruption.

Appealed
It is a good article in the American press that which is a criticism of the British Member's services. It is a criticism which is not only a criticism of the Member's services but also a criticism of the Member's salary. It is a criticism which is not only a criticism of the Member's salary but also a criticism of the Member's services.

Office staff

As a general rule, the office staff of a Member of Parliament is very small. It is a small staff which is not only a small staff but also a small staff. It is a small staff which is not only a small staff but also a small staff.

Free mail

It is a well known fact that the members of Parliament are entitled to free mail. It is a well known fact that the members of Parliament are entitled to free mail. It is a well known fact that the members of Parliament are entitled to free mail.

The argument

The argument is a well known fact that the members of Parliament are entitled to free mail. It is a well known fact that the members of Parliament are entitled to free mail. It is a well known fact that the members of Parliament are entitled to free mail.

Temptation

The First TRAITOR Of World War II

M.I.5 and the SPIES

FIFTH ARTICLE by SAM JACKETT

Early '41

THE most dangerous agent M.I.5 had to combat, and unquestionably the most difficult to detect, was the traitor, the man who secretly and for no apparent reason turns against his own country and is prepared to spy out her secrets for sale to the enemy.

All traitor activities were strictly limited and really scarcely beyond the level of what was the greatest danger, that M.I.5 increased the number of their agents at our ports in the British overseas service kept their men on the alert at all the British contact points in countries not yet involved in the war.

M.I.5 watched and waited. In general London, that bustling port of the world, it was noted that Armstrong was in the habit of going ashore alone. He would wander into various drinking establishments, restaurants and talking with men from other agencies who were switched off regularly to avoid arousing suspicion, were constantly reported that Armstrong was frequently visiting British sailors about their concerns and sailing dates.

Unlikely

M.I.5 was secretly informed about Armstrong's highly suspicious behaviour. It seemed highly likely that any sailor would sail but no other reason could be found. While inquiries were being made about him in that far-off British territory, the movements of his ship after leaving the United States were arranged that Armstrong should be kept under constant observation whenever and wherever he went ashore.

They waited

It was discovered that he had been in a little trouble with the police in the country and that he had been convicted for petty larceny, but that by no means a criminal of any significance and there was one man that he had never seen.

Not overlooked

THE possibility that others would be sent after their services to the enemy was not overlooked, and it was noted that Armstrong was in the habit of going ashore alone. He would wander into various drinking establishments, restaurants and talking with men from other agencies who were switched off regularly to avoid arousing suspicion, were constantly reported that Armstrong was frequently visiting British sailors about their concerns and sailing dates.

No doubt

WHEN eventually Armstrong's ship returned to New York, M.I.5 went on board with water on him, and every member of the crew was interviewed until the time came when it was no doubt that he was a traitor. It was at that time, M.I.5 was at an office time, that he was given exactly the same treatment as any other suspected criminal and it was the duty of M.I.5 to prevent a convicted traitor from receiving any special treatment to warrant a conviction with the military penalty. Otherwise the report would have been a source of opportunity for the enemy.

Arrested

SO it was not until the end of April, that the strong, still without suspicion, was arrested as he left the United States to return to his own country. This afforded some sort of opportunity for the enemy.

16 GANG LEADERS REPLY TO 'GEN. CHINA'

Swift moves said to be unlikely LABOUR M.P.'s MOTION

MORE replies have been received from Mau Mau leaders to letters written by 'General China' but are not expected to take place before the end of this week at the earliest. A warrant was given in Nairobi last week that swift developments were unlikely.

It is believed that 16 terrorists in the Mount Kenya and Nyeri areas have replied to 'General China'. On Tuesday it was disclosed that six answers had been received by 25 letters. They were regarded as "not unreasonable".

A motion signed by 13 Socialist M.P.s welcoming the decision to arrange meetings with gang leaders which may lead to widespread surrenders has been put on the Order Paper of the House of Commons. The signatories include Mr. Fenner Brockway.

Two London newspapers argued last week that opposition to the Government's attempt to persuade terrorists to surrender was being made. The Manchester Guardian and the Daily Telegraph held the view that the move was "worrying the experiment" although the result was very disappointing.

Monsieur. "G" or "A" has been effectively informed that the death sentence is irrevocable. He is under close guard in the hospital.

Planning Ahead in Uganda

NATIONAL MARCH 5, 1954
The Governor of Uganda turned the attention of the public away from political questions—and more profitably—towards the development of the country in a speech made at the Uganda Club in Kampala this week. And from the fact that it is necessary to build confidence among the people, shaken by recent events and by the small and unimpressive character of the country, the Governor's speech was a timely one. It was a message of hope and encouragement to the people of Uganda, and it was a message of warning to the Government and to the public.

That Uganda has much to offer to the world is a fact which is being increasingly recognized by recent prospects and developments. These are the sources, which are part of the economic balance of the East African group of territories. Being the emergence of industry within sight. Industrial development is an essential background factor against dependence on agriculture and on the export of raw materials. It is of importance not only in the development of the country, but in the planning for the territorial group as a whole. It is a fact that the East African territories have special problems and obligations in the spheres of education, labour relations, housing and the "whole range of problems of a centralized urban population. These are areas of responsibility which the East African territories have to meet. The Governor's speech was a timely one. It was a message of hope and encouragement to the people of Uganda, and it was a message of warning to the Government and to the public.

Instruments of mass education and the dissemination of ideas. Messrs. Cable and Wray, whose principal interest is in the dissemination of ideas, were obliged to accept responsibility for the immature new medium when their monopoly licence was discussed and though they were always regarded as working with some disapproval, they have loyally discharged the obligations of their detour within the limits of the law. It is to be hoped that the Government will collect licence fees for the use of the radio in Uganda, Tanganyika and Kenya. There was a handicap on the development of the service.

But Nairobi Station has developed its own individuality in the sphere of entertainment and much credit is due to the Company and to members of the public who help—and to the never-backward or reluctant critics—for the results over the years. The East African Broadcasting Corporation presents very important problems which will be the responsibility of the Government to solve. No one solution is available to the Government but it must be made without close consultation of the public in the task.

LESLEY CLAY Starts A New Series On WOMEN AT WORK And The First Article Describes A Coffee Expert

A WOMAN who says she could never go back to being just an ordinary housewife again, Mrs. Ellen Dorman, of Nairobi, has made herself an expert at a job rarely undertaken by the feminine sex—that of coffee tasting and roasting. But then Mrs. Dorman has in her veins besides the ordinary good red blood—an infusion of the beverage inherited from her coffee trading ancestors from three generations back.

Her husband, Mr. Charles Dorman, started trading coffee in East Africa 23 years ago and both Mr. and Mrs. Dorman are born in Germany where coffee was, and is, a staple food, and since then, as Mrs. Dorman has said, she has coffee in her blood.

Sampling

THE DORMANS live in an attractive home in Crawford Road; it is a pleasant home by all standards. They have built out to it a long narrow study, lighted by daylight hours in which Mrs. Dorman spends a part of each day sampling coffee brought by trucks afternoon after afternoon. Having tasted the beans and found them suitable for their needs, she writes down on a card the name of the producer and the date of her sampling.

As with Mrs. Dorman, most of the coffee that starts in East Africa is for export, and it is for the most part of the best quality.

switches which operate the roasting drums. From these containers, each time she pours the beans into the sample trays which she already heated up, and through the tray roller, she watches the beans until they become the right colour. Mrs. Dorman tipped the beans into another tray. The whole process took about five minutes it must be said, as she has between 100 and 200 samples to be made in the hour of the day. In the afternoon, when the sun is low, the beans fall, they are so rotten underneath.

Tiny scales

WHEN she had finished the sampling, Mrs. Dorman put the beans into a small grinding machine. She took them, for instance, to the tray of scales which her husband told her were very old indeed. Weighed against a tin cent piece, approximately one-third of an ounce of coffee is required for tasting. Mrs. Dorman and her sample into an airtight tin, sealed with a hot wax seal, and then she did with a spoon, getting the tin closed into a special cup. It sealed her if her scales did not become fixed in doing this so often. I thought it might be the same for you must often have been to a shop to buy some perfume and by the time you got to the end of the row of sample bottles, sniffing at each one, they all had the same smell. They all had the same smell. They all had the same smell.

stood rows of little enamel roasting "rotators," one machine for each parcel, so high that the operator had to stand on a platform to reach the process. Then Mrs. Dorman wrote to the salesman her findings on the samples of coffee and set out to the factory in the industrial zone.

Highly-cylindrical

Highly-cylindrical with a corrugated iron roof and concrete floor, the building was completed three years ago and with premises for the main roasting plant by the Aga Khan Development Corporation. The factory is staffed by Mr. D. M. Mwach, the manager, and four Africans, none of whom are, however, allowed to touch the machinery.

During a tour of the white overall, Mrs. Dorman showed us the master with his giant wheel inside the roasting drum, where the beans revolve. The chief method of inspecting the coffee during roasting is by means of sampling trays so that you can see what is going on. Although it looks as if the beans are being roasted in a tin, it is not. It is a special cup, and it is not a tin. It is a special cup, and it is not a tin.

the silver skin worked off and, when temporarily hot, it goes into another machine where again the rotator is revolved in the hopper and blown up into another container. This constant blow the operators wear out all foreign matter from the beans. Then the coffee is put into a basket and weighed. The various samples having related some loss of weight to the moisture and in the beans decrease. After weighing, the samples are put into a special cup where it is transported from the main roasting machine where it is weighed off in pounds and then into bags which are not sealed until date stamped in the process.

Cup tests

At each batch, some of the coffee is kept for cup tests. There are two cups of coffee, one for each parcel, and the other for the main roasting plant. The coffee is kept for cup tests. There are two cups of coffee, one for each parcel, and the other for the main roasting plant.

It takes a few weeks to get the coffee to the factory. Mrs. Dorman is first-hand at her job she picked up the process.
