The Lancashire and Yorkshire cricket teams are level with Sussex and Kent, each with 19 points. Surrey's 172 runs, however, are the best in the county. Geologists find radio deposits at Mrima

DEPOSITS of an unknown, but probably natural, radio-active substance have been located in Kenya's eastern coastal strip.

Another three diversions which may have an important bearing on Kenya's economic future, particularly the development of the coastal area, were made by geologists.

During the examination of the coastal strip, a limited party consisting of a geologist and a radio-physicist, both of the Kenya Geological Survey, were engaged in a general survey.

It is stated that the presence of the substance is not confined to the coastal strip, but is also found in the interior of the country.

The substance is a rare and valuable material, and its discovery is of great importance to the country.

The discovery of the substance is a significant step towards the development of the coastal area.

PERT WARNS OF LOCUST THREAT TO KENYA

Will get out of control without international action

The danger of locusts in Africa has been completely out of control since the locusts were first reported in Kenya in 1952. Director of the Anti-Locust Centre in London, Sir Percival Smeaton, has issued a warning that the locusts, which have been seen in the north and west of Kenya, will get out of control unless international action is taken.

The locusts, which are now in the north and west of Kenya, are of the species Schistocerca gregaria. They are now in the north and west of Kenya, and are now in the north and west of Kenya.

Sound barrier 'headache' for insurance men

BRITISH insurance men are discussing the problem of how to deal with a new hazard to property—the building of windows and other damage when an aircraft crashes through the sound barrier. The increase in the number of jets has led to complaints that some houses have been damaged by the shock waves which accompany the characteristic "bang" of supersonic flight.

THE WORK OF A COMRADE IS A NON-STOP

To find out what goes on in a colony, COMRADE G. CLARKE paid a visit to Mr. A. O. C. Swamy, the District Commissioner, Kisumu. Here are his impressions of what the administration of such an area involves.

The District Commissioner of Kisumu.

There is a lot to be learned from a visit to a District Commissioner. Mr. G. Clarke, who has been in the post for 15 months, is a man of many talents. He is a keen observer and a good listener. He has a wide knowledge of the district and its people. He is a man of action and a man of ideas. He is a man who is always looking for ways to improve the administration of the district.

PEOPLE'S JOBS THE MAN WHO BAKES YOUR DAILY BREAD

By the time you're reading the morning paper, I bet you've learned that Mr. Clark had a married daughter, Margaret, who lives in New York City. The family home is in Forest Hills, Parkside.

Mr. Clark told me that his working day starts at five in the morning. On special occasions, while he's away, he would deliver a piece of milk before leaving for home and another for the factory.

The first duty of the day is to clean the "mangle" rollers. I saw these rollers in a room that was set in a cake machine that the same day. The rollers are in the state of preparing for the dough.

The four African who work in the rolling room were at it all day and the rollers are one bag at floor, 1 lb. of sugar and water.

The Secret

When I asked Mr. Clark how he kept the rollers so clean, he explained that he used a special kind of soap. He said that the soap was made of a special kind of soap that was made of a special kind of soap.

The secret of the roller's softness, he explained, was the ability to add just the right amount of oil and water, among other ingredients, to the rollers. After they and a half hour as cleaning, was done. Clark over time, the rollers became fully prepared again.

"Each day," said our baker, "the rollers are cleaned with a special kind of soap that is made of a special kind of soap. Last, the rollers are cleaned with a special kind of soap that is made of a special kind of soap."

—The Frank Lee Institute

Mr. Clark, and throughout the day, he worked under a hot sun. The heat was so bad that he had to wear a hat. The dough, which is in the state of dough and then passed through a roller, was so hot that it was almost impossible to handle. The rollers were so hot that they were almost impossible to touch.

The rollers were so hot that they were almost impossible to touch. The rollers were so hot that they were almost impossible to touch.

Giant oven

There he is, working on the giant oven. Mr. Clark is at the controls, and he is looking at the oven. The oven is so large that it is almost impossible to see. The oven is so large that it is almost impossible to see.
