The Strength Of A Nation K.F.A. MARKET REPORT

The Kenya Farmers' Association's weekly market report, dated October 29, is published below.

London Market

MAIZE. There has been a further rise in the value of this commodity which is now quoted at Shs. 11/11 per cwt. South African maize, now selling Shs. 17/6 for South African 1943. Today's value of African maize is the price of Shs. 18/10 per cwt. for f.o.b. Mombasa.

WHEAT. Report for four months from the United States that wheat crops have yielded more abundantly than observers had predicted. Prospects are brighter in Canada and the United States and the market has been firm, the very little business is passing and prices remain unchanged.

PEAS. BEANS: There is strong demand for white beans in Kenya. Beans are valued at approximately £21 per ton and marrow fat peas at £10 per cwt. in United Kingdom port.

FLAX. The market is very quiet. The Flax Control Board is not buying at present. Good quality Kenya flax is valued at approximately £15 per ton.

HYPERHYDRIUM. An article appearing in one of the leading American trade journals explains the present slackness in the American market and points out that a not late influx of rubber and the sale of imported surplus in the form of rubber and other commodities is in progress. Presidential elections are expected in the middle of the year in America and commodity markets here are expected to be affected. These facts remain steady, and prices have been affected. Despite this a price equivalent to £12 1/2 per cwt. at today's rate of exchange.

MAIZE IN NATIVE RESERVES: The average price of maize purchased by Native Reserves during the week is approximately Shs. 5/7 per bag.

Pretorium Seed, Shs. 7/50 per lb.
Pretorium Flour, 50 lbs. 1/10 per cwt.
Pretorium Power, coarse Shs. 1/65 per lb.
Softwood, 100 lbs. 1/10 per cwt.
Softwood, 200 lbs. 1/10 per cwt.
Softwood, 400 lbs. 1/10 per cwt.
Softwood, 800 lbs. 1/10 per cwt.
Softwood, 1,600 lbs. 1/10 per cwt.
Softwood, 3,200 lbs. 1/10 per cwt.
Softwood, 6,400 lbs. 1/10 per cwt.
Softwood, 12,800 lbs. 1/10 per cwt.

Overhead. In the sunny Channay sky, the bombers whirled and dived while the guns of the port just up to the clouds of the Spirit and Burns came about to arrive in the second column. The country air may have been once your good, he said proudly. "You seem to be on the road right this time."

"Yes, sir," answered the second in command, there is a story about that I'd like to tell you."

"The strengthening experience of the power of Christ is the urgent need of men and nations. It conquers the deepest yearning of the human spirit; it fills, enervates, solidifies. It forces its constructive influence; the most stubborn dissoluteness become opportunities."

"There are today, throughout our own and other lands, an ever-growing number of men and women of all ranks and classes who are learning and applying the power of a deeper patriotism for the love of country, it is sought to martyr to those whose most precious is to do what God wants, and to fulfil His perfect plan for them."

A RIVAL—GRR-R!

IN this, the first of our Cartoon Reviews, we would like to pay tribute to a rival publication which has lately been known to our notice—namely The Weekly Breeze, published by the 1st D.A.C., whose (perhaps fortunately) distant address is Somewhere in Africa.

This chaste sheet, we fear, will never be able to emulate its pitiful pages, though we deprecate they have at least one thing in common: for, in spite of the fact that they are not printed by the Kitchen Fatigue (all that to Ripley), there is little doubt that by nightfall we come to a similar end.

Actually the copy we received (free for the Press) was only the second number published on September 30, but we hear that it is detestably atrocious, if not, in any way pungent, as ever. We eagerly await further copies with editorial injustice, to refresh our minds with the Finance and Editor's Cloning.

Our monthly copies that we may continue to commiserate with editorial injustice, to refresh our minds with the Finance and Editor's Cloning. We eagerly await further copies with editorial injustice, to refresh our minds with the Finance and Editor's Cloning.

And a couple of epigrams: "You're a real hero, aren't you?" "What if it isn't?" "The opposite to Exist is Latency."

With these delicate morals, we must close, first thanking the editorial staff of The Weekly Breeze for their courtesy in republishing a portion of their features in this column (just let them try to sue us, as Hinkelstein observes, we should like to sue them for their immunity from litigation), and finally reminding members of the Forces (and see as to) that we are in the market for almost anything they choose to send in for publication and also pay for it in time.

We would also like to hear our readers' views and suggestions for help, so long as they have first been suitably endorsed, and given their willing to take any advice that happens to coincide with our own opinions. In which case (meaning if you know at all), write to the Editor of the Garrison Review, The East African Standard, Nairobi.

Many a True Word...

WILLIAMS wishes to ask the U-Boats have to do all a questionnaire, revealing much about themselves. One applicant got through the first three questions readily, his name, address, and coming register to mind; but he got hung up on the fourth. Finally he fringed his fountain pen with copper filings, and sent "See" as the brand name "Commodore."

WHICH reminds us of a story about a London taxi driver who drove a Lincoln limousine. One day he was stuck in traffic in a narrow lane. He saw a man in a dark coat and a hat standing by the side of the road. The man in the dark coat and hat looked at the taxi driver and said, "I'll be in the car when you get to the top of the hill."

Sea Visions

THE grey haze slowly lifts. Upon an empty sea A lofty gullion hovers. Upon her flying deck There stood a man. No louder cry he: His blade shone red and rusted he took The blood that fouled the riddle of his quest. He hid his dagger in his breast, and the leaf "Gold for the prize of Devon!" and the leaf "Fore God, the Transman-Dog will course through!" There were the men of England! There a goodly look— What England had, they kept.

THE vision slowly fades and in its place there come The line of sleek grey ships— "Purple Europa flattening free. Sempster eadem prae, still bearing England's fame Amidst the furies, ever perchance a sacrifice. The greyness of our midnight sea English only blue. The ships and the ships have changed— see fight another Joe. And "Going into action" came lately from the sea. But Richard Greyhound thought the same when the one caught fifty three. E.V.O.

"War Nerves"

SOMEWHERE in Africa a soldier sat . . . brooding. The sun shone in a startlingly blue sky, and a great bank of billowing clouds rolled out of the west, edged with polished gold. At a point on the skyline they ended abruptly—a point where all beauty seemed to end.

A cluster of angular barracks stood out: dark and grim.

The soldier was a little plump, dark-skinned, and wore a khaki uniform. He was sitting on a wooden bench in front of one of the barracks. He was looking at the ground, and his hands were clasped in his lap. He was looking at the ground, and his hands were clasped in his lap.

Had he been at the front, maybe he would have been less restless. He had been at the front, maybe he would have been less restless. He had been at the front, maybe he would have been less restless.

'THE SONG OF THE DAWN PATROL'

A roar and a leap. At by my sweep. Into the gold of the morning. In the high, in the rimless sky. While stays-bede he yawning.

Bank and swing. On glittering wing. In the high, in the rimless sky. While stays-bede he yawning.

One—two—three. Now follow me. To join you, no sky-larking. Or, he belted down you'll go. To spin the hubbans taking.

Tally-ho! Tally-ho! Away we go. The bank has scented, sound the horn . . . Of the joy of life in fogs of morn!

Now stir at the peak? For lido-land-ec. In clouds for an enemy hiding. "Wolking to fall!" Follow behind! To the moor for toboggan sliding.

Down we go. To the hills of the exultant tracing. On the drum of the engine racing. Now, steady with me. And knee-to-knee. In the air of the earth still sleeping. It is for hours that dawn aerodrome. Lies asleep in our keeping.

THE LIGHTER SIDE "CONTRAST"

Nairobi Seen Through South African Eyes

I have been asked six months ago to write an article from imagination on Nairobi, I must confess my effort would have excited indignant protests from almost every citizen of the town.

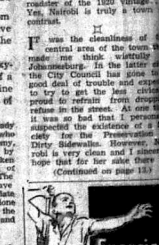

We Johannesburgers are very proud of our city of skyscrapers, thronged streets and all the other manifestations of a modern metropolis, and this pride is apt to make us imagine our city situated in the "wilds" of that any other town—especially Nairobi.

The Nairobi of my imagination, therefore, was a collection of tin huts, a hotel with wretchedly poor food, a hotel with wretchedly poor food, a hotel with wretchedly poor food.

Ten Sound Rules for Sound Sleep

- RULE ONE is don't lie in bed at night. Remember that sleeping largely in a state of habit. One authority who has made a deep study of the subject reports that a certain Chinese type of sleeping, that an Australian tribe sleep throughout entire years, means that people in parts of Russia would sleep throughout the year.
- RULE TWO is don't eat heavy meals. Our sleeping habits are mainly from the rules of our lives, especially bad business hours. Warnings decline additional facts demanding unusual hours, and other disturbances of the regular routine account for such sleeplessness.
- RULE THREE is don't drink. If you are too tired, heavy exercise before going to bed will often make sleep impossible.
- RULE FOUR is don't think. Many who have been engaged until late in the evening find that their minds are constantly physical exertion return them tired out and someone who they don't immediately fall asleep on coming to bed.
- RULE FIVE suggests a few minutes of quiet rest, disengaging a novel or magazine, perhaps reading, or some other thing before trying to sleep.

MEAT CONTROL KONGONI FARM...

On the Shores of Lake Naivasha

AYRSHIRES - RED POLLS - LARGE WHITES - AND POULTRY

FOR a long time a tried of me had assured me that if I wanted to see an all-round and well planned farm I should accept a fine outstanding and rich rippled trout farm on the shores of Lake Naivasha. My failure to see this was solely due to the difficulty of securing from a small I succeeded in separating from a large...

After breakfast on the verandah, my host drove me to the milking shed. There we arrived at about 7.30. I inspected several of the good milk. The best I saw had been milked. Mr. H. H. Marshall, his brother, who had been a great help in the early days of the farm, was with me. I was accompanied by young ones of the herd. The herd was full of a lot of young Ayrshire milk cows. The herd was full of a lot of young Ayrshire milk cows. The herd was full of a lot of young Ayrshire milk cows.

The milk records are kept on the system used by the Milk Recording Board in England. With every record of the Ministry of Agriculture, the Milk Recording Board in Kenya with the living animal and all the Bull Cattle of the East Africa Milk Book would be full. I was told that the herd was full of a lot of young Ayrshire milk cows. The herd was full of a lot of young Ayrshire milk cows.

GENTLEMEN PREFER SHOP

THERE are to be found - even in such enlightened places as Kenya, Uganda and Tanganyika - certain addle-pated individuals who object to a man taking shop. Why shouldn't a man talk shop in his hours of leisure if a man can't be in-credulous on his hours of his own job - coffee, mining, shipping or whatever you - then he won't be worth hearing on any other topic. He is an outcast at that sunset hour when the social converge on the water-holes for a couple of well-carmed Gimlets and a chat. The said Gimlets being well-carred Rose's Lime Juice.

It's worth making a mental note of the fact that Rose's Lime Juice is made of the pure juice of the lime. Nothing extra or chemical about it. Rose's are quite sure of that, because they grow the finest thornselves. Because Rose's Lime Juice is lime juice, you've got to pay just a little bit extra. But you've always got the satisfaction of knowing that you've bought the very best.

MEAT CONTROL KONGONI FARM.....

Being a Broadsheet Talk given by Mr. M. B. Hamilton, the Meat Controller, on Thursday evening October 31st, in the series of Talks to Farmers, arranged by the Royal Agricultural and Horticultural Society of Kenya with the co-operation of Messrs. Cable and Wireless Ltd., and various Departments of the Government.

As it was I received a letter from the Secretary of the Settlement and Production Board which read 'There is now to be a meeting of the members of the Meat Control Committee.' This evening I will attempt to lay down the principles and explain the workings of the Meat Control Committee.

Some months ago I was given the honor of being appointed as a member of the Meat Control Committee. I was appointed to the Meat Control Committee in order to represent the interests of the meat producers in Kenya.

My first thought when I received the appointment was to go to the Meat Control Committee and see what was going on. I found that the Meat Control Committee was a very important body and that it was doing a great deal of work.

Full statistics in detail of all stock in the country are prepared in the Nairobi office. These are essential for the Meat Control Committee to know the exact position of the stock in the country.

Another criticism is that the present system of meat control is too complicated and that it is too costly. It is necessary to have a simple and efficient system of meat control.

We have tried our best not to interfere with the industry unnecessarily. We have tried to make the industry as profitable as possible and to give the consumers the best quality of meat.

I would like to turn for one moment to the question of the meat control in the other parts of the country. I have been to many parts of the country and I have seen the work of the Meat Control Committee in operation.

There is also the possibility of the Meat Control Committee being a success. It is necessary to have a strong and efficient Meat Control Committee in order to control the meat trade in Kenya.

I should like to thank the members of the Meat Control Committee for their kind invitation to give this talk. I am sure that you will find it of interest.

A NOTABLE FARMING ENTERPRISE
ON THE SHORES OF LAKE NAIVASHA

AYRSHIRES - RED POLLS - LARGE WHITES - AND POULTRY

FOR a long time a friend of mine has been a devotee of the Ayrshire breed. He has a fine herd of Ayrshires and he is very proud of them.

After breakfast on the milking day he drove me to the milking shed. He showed me the Ayrshires and he told me how they were bred.

The milk records are kept on the system used by the Irish Farming Scheme of the Ministry of Agriculture in England. With some exceptions the records are very good.

Barbidge Blood Royal, born October 18th, 1927, imported to Kenya February 18th, 1928, by Ausherrin Baronet at the Highlands Show, Durmfin, in 1928, and at the Ayr Show, 1928.

Barbidge Dandy 24th born 12/4th of the milk, 4/31st, B.F. 14/29th the milk at 2/5 1/2.

Aucheninra Buntie 61st, the paternal granddam, gave B.F. and 12/4th the milk at 2/5 1/2.

I would be early and as I parked at the lovely view from my bedroom window I recalled Keats' lines: 'To one who has been long in a Tur' over to look into an open space of heaven. It is the face of the ball of the Earth.

In the foreground was a lawn of Kikuyu Grass; beyond the green of the trees and the hills were some admirable working arrangements.

'I would like to say that, as compared with any other breed of cow, the Ayrshire is the best. It is a very good milker and it is a very good mother.

A view looking down the Milking Byre. Here are some milk records selected from the Herd returns.

Mus Puffi 31st (1917) 4,826 lbs. of milk at 45% B.F.
Eton Dairi (1921) 12,870 lbs. of milk at 24% B.F.
Eton Gassie (1923) 7,433 lbs. of milk at 45% B.F.
Eton Belle (1928) 1,428 lbs. of milk at 37% B.F.
Eton Ruby (1927) 7,131 lbs. of milk at 45% B.F.

The milk records are kept on the system used by the Irish Farming Scheme of the Ministry of Agriculture in England. With some exceptions the records are very good.

After we had left the cow byre we passed two of the Herd Bulls. The Herd Bulls are very good and they are very good mothers.

The design of the pigsties is also a very good one. They are very good and they are very good mothers.

Our next move was to see the Ayrshires and the Red Polls. They are very good and they are very good mothers.

It is a war in Greece Approaches to Athens British Navy Mines

REPORTED REVOLT IN ALBANIA

October 26. GREECE has been at war with Italy since six o'clock this morning. Italian troops had crossed the frontier from Albania into Greece.

The Italian Prime Minister announced a proclamation in which he stated: "The Italian Minister has presented the ultimatum which he has received from the Greek Government."

After the ultimatum was refused, the Italian Government declared war on Greece. The Italian Navy has been ordered to mine the approaches to Athens.

Reports from Athens confirm the receipt of the Greek ultimatum. The Greek Government has responded to the ultimatum by rejecting it.

Appeal to Britain... An appeal by the Greek Government to Britain for certain assistance was announced in an official statement in London this morning.

It is understood that it depends on the decision of certain strategic points. The ultimatum was rejected by the Greek Government.

The Greek Minister in London stated this morning that there had never been any intention of the Greek Government to enter into a treaty with the Greek Government.

are not absent at all services in London and it is pointed out that they merely adhere to the looting of Greece.

The first communique from the Greek Chief of Staff says: "Italian military forces began an attack at 6.30 a.m. on the Greek and Albanian frontier. Our troops are defending the territory of Greece."

It is pointed out that the British guarantee was given on April 19, 1939, when Greece accepted the bridge five days earlier—on April 14, 1939.

In Bulgaria a riot precipitated by the Greek ultimatum broke out in Sofia. The riot was directed against the Greek ultimatum.

At 10 o'clock the port at the entrance to the Gulf of Corinth was closed by three waves of Italian aircraft in groups of five. The port was closed by other aircraft.

Another point of interest is the fact that the Italian Navy has been ordered to mine the approaches to Athens.

It is estimated that the invaders comprise ten or eleven divisions. The Italian Navy has been ordered to mine the approaches to Athens.

Economy In Control Strongly Urged

DUTY OF SUPPLY BOARD TO CUT COSTS

Accountancy Commission Considered Too High

COFFEE CONFERENCE: The question of reducing every possible expense in the working of the Coffee Control was the subject of a resolution moved by Mr. A. P. Wain, on behalf of the Executive of the Coffee Board at Thursday's Kenya Coffee Conference.

The resolution was drafted into three portions, each being debated and voted upon separately. The first portion urged that planters should not be compelled to employ a commission agent; the second part advised the use of the services of this board, in the interests of the planter; and the third that the 1% duty on coffee was excessive and urged that the rate should be reduced to 0.5%.

For the purpose of the debate, Mr. Wain was supported by Mr. C. H. Jones, Vice-Chairman of the Coffee Board.

Speaking to the resolution, the mover said there were two main arguments behind it, one being a question of principle and the other of practical economy. He added that the Coffee Control compelled producers to employ an agent and that the Commission Agent's fee was excessive and urged that the rate should be reduced to 0.5%.

Mr. C. H. Jones (Coffee Board) speaking as a "free planter" said that it had been their practice in the past to market most of their coffee themselves and he did not know why they should be forced to employ a commission agent. He said that he would do so, if it was of some benefit to them, but he would not do so, if it was of some detriment to them. He seconded the motion.

Mr. Wain (Coffee Board) also supported the motion. He said that it was his duty to see that the planter was not overburdened with expenses. He said that the Commission Agent's fee was excessive and urged that the rate should be reduced to 0.5%.

There was another picture, that of the General at a Casualty Clearing Station, in the "Jan Smuts Ward" for a few moments chatting to a patient, or with quiet courtesy passing a paper a man in bed, who was transfixed, staring, and then stood up, and walked through the ward, and then came to the General's side. ITALIAN FOOD
SHORTAGE
Stoppage Of Vital
Imports

['STANDARD' CORRESPONDENT]

This year's wheat crop in Italy was estimated in Rome as the best since August at slightly more than 20 per cent below the definite figures available at present. Though the threatening season may mean that the estimate was over-optimistic, in any case it does not exceed the average yield in recent years, which means that Italy will have to make up by an increased consumption of wheat the best of her harvest of the last few years.

The spectacular "shock" of the "Winter" led by Mussolini has been needed in increasing production for about 20 per cent, but consumption of wheat last of the same time goes down from 30,000,000 to 25,000,000 bushels. Fascist economists have done their best to explain that this dwindling consumption is actually a sign of a genuine national standard of living, though no evidence was available to confirm or provide a corresponding increase in the consumption of fat and animal products.

PEASAS REPORTS

War conditions have singularly aggravated the problem of diet for the Italian people. These are four months days a week, sugar is an "iron ration" olive oil is hoarded, as well as maize imports from Argentina and Romania. Corn, peas, beans, and other crops at the same rate as in the past. The present shortage has therefore been to come up throughout the year, and the situation may be asked when the strike on the civil population will have no visible effect.

News about the reappearance of the disease, which is significant. This scourge was an inheritance from Austria, and it has been almost completely disappeared. It developed in a background of poverty, malnutrition, and bad housing, and its direct causes were to be found in a nutritious, healthy based on maize, especially when it was inferior in quality, or mouldy or badly cooked.

SCOUT SAVES AMMUNITION TRAIN

[REDA'S CORRESPONDENT]

The Scout Movement's highest award for gallantry has been awarded to a scoutmaster, who was on duty during a recent air raid in southern England. Scouts carried an ammunition train from the coast to the interior, and started to unscramble and pack the train when several bombs were thrown. Scouts and youths were seen to extinguish the main fire, but the train was damaged. Scouts were seen to extinguish the main fire, but the train was damaged. It is a mistake to appoint one of the present commanders. In my journey I came across some who are credited with a little local power, not on military matters and not on the subject of the Home Guard, which is that a body of free men exist in status, army to defend their homes.

There are some few commanders who are making inquiries of rank and a sort of personal sense, setting themselves up as "Home Guard" leaders. There are not many of them, and they are not all over-enthusiasts. They are, however, very few, and they are not all over-enthusiasts. MIRACLE OF OUR CITIZEN

Out With The Home Guard
In Britain

['STANDARD' CORRESPONDENT]

A special correspondent, writing in The Daily Herald, makes a high condition that he has seen, beyond any doubt, the reason why Britain will never be successfully invaded. The reason is that the Home Guard in every sort of place, from Devon to Scotland, from the Hebrides to the Channel coast, to the great industrial cities of the North.

And in those three weeks I have seen the greatest 20 per cent emergency expressed in a belief that I saw a whole nation dropping every usual difference and going to the aid of the Home Guard. Behind every county, hedge, and field, behind every town and village, behind every road and every street, there should be the invader's confusion, to tell the truth, that he should never get there.

Across every open space and through every small difference, never relaxing from the alert and in the first of the nation, the miracle, the miracle, the miracle of men, the miracle of men, the miracle of men, the miracle of men.

The Government's army, which has been announced at the meeting in all parts of the country, 1,300,000 men in some two months before the recruiting list was closed. A vast army, which is a source of day-squad, yet all the better for that, that they will never be more than a class troop.

The Home Guard men are not like the Guards. In a pitched battle they will never be more than a class troop. They are not like the Guards. In a pitched battle they will never be more than a class troop.

Among the Pilot-Officers under training at a British Army Flying School are two young Australians who have been serving as pilots in the war between China and Japan, and also in the Spanish Civil War.

GERMAN PLUNDER OF DENMARK

Fate Of A Famous Agricultural System

[STANDARD'S CORRESPONDENT] London.

IT IS a fact that the German plunders of Denmark since they were invaded in April when German sea planes dived low over the rooftops, columns of smoke, and the flames and forced Denmark to surrender after a few hours fighting. More spectacular losses were soon afterwards staged on the European scene, and Denmark disappeared from the limelight. Occasionally news penetrates the German censors, but to be truth to the form and conclusions of Danes in exile. Conditions in Denmark hardly compare with those in any other occupied territory. King Christian and the Danish Government perform their duties as before and exert an influence on internal questions which is by no means negligible. This outward tolerance is so alien to Nazi conceptions that observers may be puzzled if they search for possible reasons. The first is that the Germans feel they can well afford to keep Denmark as a show-piece to demonstrate to other "neutrals" that life may be quite happy under the German yoke. The second and more important explanation is found in the Danish agricultural system. This sector of Danish agriculture is just that extra little touch of heaven which the farmer and smallholder put into their work. They are well without the active cooperation of workers in a finely adjusted industry. Danish life is in excellent condition only by the untiring labors of the farmer.

The main question therefore is why Germany accepts the active support of the Danish farmer. Outside the British doublets that the answer will be in the negative. Dealing with a weaker opponent seems to be the German's irresistible attraction. Nothing is left untried to win over the Danes. German soldiers of occupation have orders to win over the Danes. From September 1 on they are even to pay for what they take in Danish currency. The extra money (credit coupons) is reckoned as property by the Danish farmers and shopkeepers is being abolished.

A Bad Debt
Much trouble has been taken to conceal the wholesale plunder of the country.

Britain Loses Two
Auxiliary Cruisers

November 5
The Admiralty state that Britain has lost two auxiliary cruisers—the Laureate and the Patroclus. Both were sunk by torpedo, presumably from submarines.

They were formerly armed principally for the coast, but have since been converted into auxiliary cruisers. Most of the crew were killed. The latest reports indicate that 276 of them were rescued. Middle East forces of R.M.S. Patroclus crew are known to be safe.

Before the war the Patroclus was a Blue Funnel liner vessel which was used for the transport of troops. The Laureate was on the North Atlantic route.
