Fear of Asian exodus starts big

STANDARD STAFF REPORTER

Migration of Asians, particularly from East Africa, have spread like wildfire through Kenya's Asian community and caused a sudden sharp rise in the number of Asians travelling to Britain.

The number of Asians leaving Nairobi with one-way air tickets to London has increased from an average of around five per week to an estimated 400 or 500 a week. Emigrants account for up to 40 per cent of the passengers on some flights.

Airline offices have been receiving a steady flow of inquiries for London flights, many of which are already overbooked in the coming weeks, and people have been turning up at the airport for several nights past, queuing up in the hope of buying a cancelled seat.

'Reliable information'

Many of them say they have reliable information that the new restrictive legislation to be introduced in Britain on September 15.

Kenya's new immigration laws, bringing the prospect of early Africanisation, are also understood to have had an effect of speeding some of the emigrants on their way. Most of them are men under 40 hoping to find a job and to be able to re-settle in their own countries.

Family letters, the official information was available yesterday in the airport, but that has not been the case in Britain, but such a move was generally seen as a step towards a better life.

The new immigration laws have been feared to have had a similar effect on the British Parliament in London. In any case such legislation would take a considerable time to come into effect.

It is understood that the British passport authorities have been forced to issue a large number of visas to people who are expected to arrive in the next few weeks.

Mercenaries flown in to reinforce Bukavu

A TOTAL of 26 or 27 mercenaries landed in Bukavu on Saturday in a DC3 to reinforce Col. Jean Schramme's combined European and Katangese troops.

The aircraft, which landed on the mercenary "home-base" landing strip, broke its undercarriage and bogged down at the end of the runway. Later in the afternoon a DC3 overflow the strip for three-quarters of an hour with its doors open and it headed off without dropping its men and this would seem to be the reason for Col. Schramme's decision to take the town of Gemu about 70 miles to the north at the other end of Lake Kivu.

The mercenary-manned Radio Bukavu over the weekend warned the people of Gemu to evacuate the town and there has been speculation that the mercenaries would be going to the airport there to fly more men in.

It is now believed that the mercenaries are being flown in to reinforce Col. Schramme's combined European and Katangese troops.

Councils reject salary report

Standard Staff Reporter

LOCAL Government employees' meeting at Kericho has rejected the recommendations of the Kenya Salaries Commission, which has suggested "far-reaching" amendments to be submitted to the Minister for Local Government.

This was disclosed in Nairobi yesterday by the secretary of the meeting, Mr. D. M. Mwangi. He said the East African Standard that the local government employees' meeting held at the invitation of the Kericho Council.

LATE NEWS

Britain has decided to open the withdrawal of its troops and hand over power in Aden to the Marxist Government, an informed source in London said late last night.

It was held at the Council of Ministers under the chairmanship of the Chairman of the Council, Mr. N. Kibuki. The meeting examined and discussed the report of the Kenya Salaries Commission.

Mr. Richmond said the meeting was very far-reaching and if approved would have a major impact on the development of local authorities in Kenya.

CIVIL WAR RUINS OIL INDUSTRY

Nigeria output down to zero

CIVIL war has brought Nigeria's oil industry to a crucial stage in its development and 1967 may well be looked back on as the industry's year of lost opportunities.

Before Biafran secession, production was more than 2,000,000 barrels a day, with 400,000 from Shell. The Biafran war has brought production down to zero.

THIS COULD BE A FREAK WEEK FOR RESULTS

THIS could well be a freak week for results in the English Football League. Most of the draws last night were in the Third and Fourth Divisions, and this time, it might well pay to concentrate on those divisions in the complete confusion of the tables.

In this way if they do produce many draws, you could get a greater chance of getting more of them to use.

What I would suggest is to place a bet with 'Three and Four' on a couple of matches.

The Fourth Division should produce an upset or a draw for many of the matches. This is because they were very well balanced with the top team just behind the rest. The advantage there overcomes the fact that they are far from level at home.

U.S. and Germany 'major cash worries'

THE International Monetary Conference, Washington, that "the two major sources of possible strain on the world economy in 1957 are the requirements of a European surplus and continuation of the U.S. deficit."

In its annual report for 1956, the I.M.F. pointed out that the restoration of normal economic growth in Germany especially desirable, particularly appropriate that the U.S. should reduce its bank rate.

The I.M.F. also stated that the U.S. should reduce its bank rate to 4 per cent, which would not only reduce the U.S. balance of payments deficit but also reduce the U.S. trade deficit.

CHINESE ON THE RAILROAD

ZAMBIA AND TANZANIA were not guided by any cold war pretensions in deciding to sign an agreement in Peking giving the Chinese Government the right to build the 1,000-mile railway between the two countries. The Chinese offer, which they only use they had received, leaders were put out by many other countries, including Britain, America, France, West Germany and Japan. The deal was made in Peking.

It was originally hoped that the project would be carried out with the aid of a World Bank loan, but the application to the international bank was turned down. The Anglo-Chinese treaty team found it more profitable to deal with the Chinese, who had already agreed with the Chinese Government.

Despite this, there has been much speculation on the part of the public as to the motives of the railway. It is said that the Chinese are interested in the railway as a means of expanding their influence in the East African region. It is also said that the Chinese are interested in the railway as a means of expanding their influence in the East African region.

It is understood that the railway will be built in two stages. The first stage will be from Lusaka to Mwanza, and the second stage will be from Mwanza to Dar es Salaam. The railway is expected to be completed by 1975. It is expected that the railway will be a major factor in the economic development of the region.

Bringing their own workers

THE CONTRACTORS who are building the railway are bringing their own workers from China. It is said that the Chinese workers will be paid in local currency.

It is also said that the Chinese workers will be trained in the use of modern machinery. The Chinese workers will be paid in local currency. It is also said that the Chinese workers will be trained in the use of modern machinery.

The picture shows in the foreground the steel, on the north abutment, and on the right of the picture carrying the curved span of the bridge and the shunting for the north abutment.

There is still a great deal of work to be done on the bridge, and with many other smaller bridges in the area.

SOUTH ARABIA GAMBLE

IT WILL BE TRAGIC if the British Government's decision to hand over power to nationalist forces in South Arabia — late as it has come — fails to end the terrorism which has dominated the last few years of British rule. Yet with the victory only four months from gaining its freedom, it seems likely that there may be a change of target for the violence which seems endemic in Aden — with the rival Arab groups fighting each other instead of the British troops.

The recent struggle in Aden has not been one for Ours from the British. It has been one to decide which group must pull out. Rather it has been one to decide which will be in power when British troops leave, an event which is planned to take place by January's next year.

Optimistically, in view of past experiences, the Federal Government originally sought to hand over to a Federal Government of ad hoc officials predominantly. The idea that traditional rulers would be able to maintain effective control, especially in the most desert areas of the Protectorate, has been proved impracticable by heavy pressures from within and without.

Now, after terrible months of violence in which Arabs and British troops have died needlessly and the population from both sides of Aden has been reduced to a sad relic, the Federal Government has offered distinctions to the Ministers have disappeared. Fortunately the civil administration is still working, and the South Arabian Army still a force. The Army has kept out of politics directly, but its leaders have made no secret of the fact that they will support the National Liberation Front inaugurated by Britain.

With this in mind — as well as the fact that the N.L.F. has gained effective power in the north of the Protectorate and is now in a position to demand a general election — Mr. Kilgus's Government has offered distinctions to the establishment of a popular government in the north. It is not clear how this would be done, but it is clear that the Government would have been demonstrated with the N.L.F. in the north of the Protectorate, and it is not clear how this would be done.

ST. MARK'S CELEBRATES 60 YEARS OF WORSHIP

ST. MARK'S Church, Nairobi, celebrates its 60th anniversary on September 28.

On that day in 1907, the foundation stone was laid by the Governor, Sir James Hayes-Sadler, on a site next to Parklands, Nairobi. The building itself there although new, it looks like a stone abode with a red iron roof.

The 60th anniversary ceremony is recorded in the September issue of St. Mark's Link, which states that in 1907 Nairobi was less than a year old. Parklands was the fashionable home for people who were not Government officials.

The Church Mission Society church in Downing Street, A. A. at that time was the same church, but the new church, built on the same site, was dedicated three years later.

60 mph limit may be imposed on Nakuru road

Speed limit of 50 miles an hour might be introduced on the Nairobi-Nakuru road in view of increasing accidents on this stretch, Kenya's transport minister, Mr. Moi, told a Kams meeting at Nyeri Village in Kiambu district.

Mr. Moi said that he travelled along this road recently and the number of accidents he had noticed was causing him a lot of concern. "This road has become dangerous."

He appealed to all motorists traveling on the road to exercise caution and drive at a reasonable speed. If the speed limits introduced, police might be called to enforce them.

He assured the people that the Government was well aware of the difficulties and problems facing them and that in the four years that Kenya had been ruling, several rapid developments had been made.

KEINO ASTONISHES THE EXPERTS

Fastest mile in Africa despite the altitude

A forecast in the "East African Standard" on Saturday, that Kenya's 1,000 metres world record holder, Kipchoge Keino, ran the fastest mile in Africa in under 3.50 minutes, is set to see Commonwealth mile runner of Julius 55, lose in the East African athletics championships between Kenya, Uganda and Tanzania.

The championships were washed out on Saturday after track and field events were put back a day and run in hot conditions yesterday. It was an almost unbelievable feat that Kipchoge Keino recorded in the mile. He clipped 3/10ths of a second off his own Kenya National and Commonwealth record of 3.46 sec. at London's White City in 1958.
