

'Sins on the Land'

By

Irene Wanjiku Wainana

C50 / P/9027/05

A project paper submitted in partial fulfillment of the requirements for the degree of Master of Arts in Literature in the University of Nairobi.

2008.

University of NAIROBI Library

0501304 0

ABSTRACT

Ruth's life is shattered by the sudden death of her grandmother Phyllis and she has to adjust to life without her. Festus kills his mother in an attempt to claim what he views as his rightful inheritance. However things don't go as he had planned and his life deteriorates out of his own doing.

Ruth's world is turned upside down when she finds out that the people she loves and trusts the most have been lying to her. She has to deal with both loss and betrayal.

This story challenges the gender discriminating belief that women cannot inherit land. It's a tale of loss, deceit and murder.