

Abstract:

The study was to identify the determinants of adoption of the new agricultural technologies and assess their impact on the smallholder farm household food security in the study area.