

ABSTRACT

The University of Nairobi, School of Law has become a member of the [International Association of Law Schools\[IALS\]](#). The IALS provides a forum to exchange ideas and share experiences and best practices on legal education and training by facilitating inter-faculty staff and student exchange programs and in exploring ways and means of enhancing joint research and publications on legal education and training. In furtherance of the IALS initiatives, the Associate Dean of the School of Law, Professor Paul Musili Wambua recently represented the School at the 2nd Annual African Law Dean's Forum, held on June 10th and 11th 2013 at the University of Nigeria where increase of collaboration among African Law Schools and sharing of best practices on legal education were among the key issues that were discussed.
