

UNGSS hosts a public lecture on careers and mentorship

On the 20th of October, the University of Nairobi Geography Students Society (UNGSS) had the opportunity to hold a colloquium with two dedicated, amiable personalities: Mrs. Florence I. Asher, the Programs Director of UNEP and Mr. Erick Okere the CEO, Pilots of Destiny. The forum brought together over 80 students from Chiromo Campus, Kikuyu Campus and Main Campus, all pursuing or/and interested in a career in the environmental field. Mrs. Asher took us down the career lane, introducing us to various scopes in the environmental field. She went on to intensively talk of the contemporary job field, requirements and what our outlook as senior and even junior students should be. She emphasized on specialization on various fields to give one a better stand in getting employed and went further to challenge us to be great thinkers and be self employed. It was an enlightening session which gave students a new perspective about the job market and challenged us to stretch our imagination to achieve greater and better things. Mr. Erick Okere, a renowned motivational speaker, then introduced us to a four phase theory of life encouraging us to observe our time habits. The meeting then proceeded to a question and answer session where students got to ask questions to the guest speakers who then responded and even went further to offer mentoral assistance to any of the students that were interested. The meeting was then wrapped up with a vote of thanks from Ms Oluchina Oyesa, Chairperson UNGSS, and a word of prayer from Ms Faith Mulupi.
