

WANGARI MAATHAI INSTITUTE FOR PEACE AND ENVIRONMENTAL STUDIES IN COLLABORATION WITH UNIVERSITY OF COPENHAGEN HOLDS A SUCCESSFUL 2015 SUSTAINABLE LAND USE MANAGEMENT COURSE

From the left, David Kuria, Director, KENVO, Prof. S.G. Kiama, Director, Wangari Maathai Institute, Faculty members, WMI and University of Copenhagen, students from both University of Copenhagen, Roskilde University and the University of Nairobi, Wangari Maathai Institute and Community members group photo after successful conclusion of SLUSE 2015.

Wangari Maathai Institute for Peace and Environmental Studies in collaboration with the University of Copenhagen and conducted a successful two weeks experiential training. The training was held in Lari District, Kiambu County, Kenya from the 27th February to 11th March 2015 with focus on hands on experience. The course was attended by 20 international students (from both University of Copenhagen and Roskilde University) and 10 local Kenya students. The students were organized into five groups each dealing with a specified thematic areas which included Livestock, Agriculture, Water, Forestry and Domestic Energy.

Community members following closely on students the feedback

Ms. Anne Majani from the University of Nairobi, Wangari Maathai Institute receiving her certificate of participation

Dr. Martin Skrydstrup issuing a certificate of participation to one of the students