

Scholarships: MSc International Rural Development (Climate Change)

The Royal Agricultural University has been offering a pathway specializing in climate change within its successful MSc International Rural Development for several years now. The main programme focuses on our traditional strengths in agriculture and the agrarian rural community and weaves in the forward looking focus of climate change as a key dimension of sustainable development

Scholarships are available to citizens of Sub-Saharan Africa, though applications for a Oct 2014 entry have now closed.