

Day two Training on Safety and Disaster Management

This day the KSC community learned a lot about fire safety and disaster management. This included techniques of extinguishing Fire at the Initial Stages. Mostly in this Stage the fire is small enough that one can extinguish with a fire extinguisher on hand, hence one need to be prepared and quick to determine the type of fire because there is even a better chance of not only extinguishing the fire but also of doing it without risking injury. However, one thing that must be remembered is that safety of everyone in the proximity-including õyouõ-comes first. If the fire is a quick spreading one, producing dangerous amounts of smoke, or taking longer than five seconds to defeat with a fire extinguisher, then one must ignite a fire alarm, evacuate the building, and call Fire Brigade
