

Fumigation of the Hostels

Hostel life is considered as an informal education by the University of Nairobi. The out-of-class experience provides an environment favourable for self-learning and maximizes opportunities for social, cultural and extra-curricular involvement. The personal development of students could also be nurtured and supported through living in a community environment. Residents can learn and experiment with developing habits of mind and body that contribute to a healthy lifestyle, Hence the need to keep a healthy environment.

The fumigation scope included Misting and fogging of the entire Hostel surroundings (inside and outside), to destroy different larval and pupas stages of pests, Spraying of the rooms to get rid of pests, pathogens and other specific anthropoids using manual and motorized sprayers
