Website Item – HI4Kenya

The School of Computing and Informatics is, once again, running the Health Informatics for Kenya (HI4Kenya) Boot Camp from Monday 4th May to Friday 12th June 2015. This is the third annual boot camp. The aim of the boot camp is to build software development skills in Health Information Systems for the health sector in Kenya. The students participating come from various local universities including UoN. A good number of 3rd year students of the School have joined as part of their industrial attachment. The event is supported by USAID, Afyainfo and the Ministry of Health.
