

This was a consultative meeting between the School of Pharmacy and global pharmaceutical healthcare company. the meeting discussed and reviewed the perspective of academia on the role of the pharmaceutical industry in enhancing access to quality healthcare and advancement of evidence based health care through research and innovations, the dire need of the pharmaceutical industry to establish a fund that would support the academia particularly the young scientist in advancing the health research agenda for the continent. More interactive opportunities are planned for the year