

Don wins two Prestigious Fellowships

Dr. Jane Ambuko, a Lecturer in the Department of Plant Science and Crop Protection, Faculty of Agriculture, University of Nairobi (UoN) is the recipient of the prestigious African Women in Agricultural Research and Development (AWARD) 2013 Fellowship. She is among 70 outstanding African women scientists who will benefit from AWARD's two-year career-development program which aims at developing leaders in agricultural sciences.

The selection criteria for the award include intellectual capacity, leadership potential and potential of their research to improve livelihoods of smallholder African farmers. Her research focuses on postharvest science and technology of perishable commodities to minimize losses. Dr. Jane Ambuko is also the recipient of the prestigious Dr. Norman Borlaug Fellowship for 2013.