Location / Venue:

Faculty of Law, University of Waikato, Hamilton, New Zealand

Dr. Robert Kibugi, has traveled to Hamilton New Zealand to take up a position as the African Representative on the Governing Board of the IUCN Academy of Environmental Law. Dr. Kibugi was elected in January 2013 by peers from various law schools and environmental law centres at various African Universities for a three year term. The IUCN Academy of Environmental Law is a learned society of environmental law scholars with a mandate to enhance scholarship and teaching in environmental law globally. While at the University of Waikato, Dr. Kibugi will also attend the annual environmental law colloquium to present a paper, and represent the University of Nairobi during the annual Collegium of members of the Academy. The relationship between the University of Nairobi (through CASELAP) and the IUCN Academy of Environmental Law dates back many years, as CASELAP hosted the Second Annual Colloquium in October 2004, and Prof Charles Okidi was a founding Board Member of the Academy. The Colloquium at the University of Waikato was the Eleventh.
