

Energy-Agro-Food Workshop

The Departments of Environmental and Biosystems Engineering and Food Science, Nutrition and Technology in the University of Nairobi concluded a one day workshop on Energy-Agro-food Synergies in Africa: New Educational Models for Universities- with a focus on food security.

photo of the Actors in Energy-Agro-Food sector

Group

The workshop was officially opened by the Dean, School of Engineering. In his opening remarks the dean emphasized the need for partnerships and linkages. He also congratulated the international and local collaborators and local actors for creating time for this noble event.

Dea School of Engineering (Right) officially opens the workshop

The Energy-Agro-Food action is a bilateral collaboration between European and East-African Universities to design and develop educational programs aimed at matching the current and expected professional requirements in the field of energy and agro-food system. Moreover its activities aims at asserting new knowledge, skills, responsibility and autonomy for countries development and in keeping food security.

Workshop in progress